International Perspectives is a journal of opinion on world affairs. It takes no editorial position. The opinions expressed by authors are their own and, unless otherwise stated, are not to be taken as presenting the official views of any organization with which the author is associated. ## Editor's Note:

The world's issues persist, editors come and go. In this number International Perspectives continues its traditions of watching that persistent international scene through the eyes of some of Canada's keenest observers. We should be watching it sooner than in the past, too, because with this issue — which has a new editor — we intend to have each one in your hands before the first month shown on the cover. You may note something else new — the External Affairs Supplement, which now contains "International Canada." This has formerly been a monthly publication of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs. It will now take on our bi-monthly frequency (although only March is covered in this first appearance), and will incorporate the earlier Department of External Affairs advertising supplement in International Perspectives called "For the Record."
