IMPROVED

OBLIQUE INGUINAL TRUSSES. TRUSTES.

I BREET respectfully informe Medical Gentlement Manuscomments of the public generally, that he manufactures and has new on hand IMPROVED OBLIQUE INGUINAL TRUSTES, according to the construction of T. Testic, Eag., F. L. S., Surgeon to the Leeds General Informery, and which are so highly spoken at in the Medical Genetic, February 1, 1850. For the information of these who cannot refer to the above work, it may be stated, that these Tre-ers consist of "an electic steel girdle, a ped of varying form, according to kind of hernia, and apprel spring acting directly on the pad relements which-calating in various trusses herestotre known, are here combined in the construction of one." The "mode of attachment between the opiral and the pad renders any other fastening unaccessary. As uniform pressure throughout the ment between the spiral and the pad renders any other fas-tening unnecessary. As uniform pressure throughout he whole actent of the pad is thus obtained; and the spiral, acting as a universal joint, allows the girdle to adapt [treff to the varying movements of the body without disturbing A fall description of these invaluable Trusses cannot be

A fail description of these involuable Trusses cannot be given in an advertisement; but it may be stated that they have been shown to several of the most distinguished Medical Fractitioners of this City, who have expressed their unqualified approval of them.

Wesleyan Churches in London, England.

A London paper, says the Christian Guardian, not over friendly to the Wesleyans, makes the following remarks in relation to the noble efforts recently put forth by our brethren in London to extend church accommodation in the vast metropolis: "The Wesleyans," it says, "have shown what may be done by union; large sums of money have been raised, and a number of chapels have been built, which, if not entitled to unqualified praise, mark an era of no slight importance in Methodist architecture. We will mention a few in London and its neighbourhood. Poplar chapel is of the decorated style, 105 feet long by 60 feet wide; is built of Kentish rag-stone, with Caen stone dressings; will seat 1,500 persons, and cost about £4,000. The New North-road chapel Hoxton, is Anglo-Norman in style, and is 85 feet long, including the vestries, by 52 feet wide; it is built of brick and Bath stone, will accommodate 1,200 persons, and cost about £3,700. The chapel of St. John's-square, Clerkenwell, is built of brick and Bath stone; is 78 feet long by 60 wide; will accommodate 1,300 persons, has a school-room, &c., and cost £4,000, Jewin-street chapel is Early English in style, 68 feet by 52 feet; seats 1,100 persons; is built of white brick and Bath stone, and cost £2,700. The Islington chapel, in the Liverpool road, measures 90 feet long by 54 feet wide, and will accommodate 1,500 persons. It is built of Kentish rag and Bath stone; is in the decorated style, and cost about £6,000."

The Hon, the PROVINCIAL SECRETARY was to have an interview with Earl Grey on Monday last. So far, we have reason for believing nothing has transpired to damp the best hopes of the Country for the success of his mission.

We have every confidence that the results of & Co and others. the pending negotiations between the Province and the Parent State, will issue satisfactorily, and so as to have a tendency to strengthen the attachment of the latter and the confidence of the former reciprocally.—Sun.
