

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JUNE 9, 1899.

Our Special Illustrated Number.

Within a few weeks the ACADIAN will publish a special magazine number, illustrated with photogravures of Wolfville, Grand Pré, and other Kings county scenery.

The Dreyfus Case.

Justice has moved very slowly in the Dreyfus case, but it has moved surely, notwithstanding the tremendous obstacles in its way.

Acadia's Anniversary.

Sunday was one of the most beautiful days of the season, and inaugurated the anniversary exercises of 1899.

On Tuesday afternoon the closing exercises of Horton Collegiate Academy were held. While the processional was being played by Miss Annie E. Chipman the students and faculty marched in from the adjoining library and took their places.

At the close an interesting address was given by Lieutenant-Governor McLellan. The following comprises the class of '99:

- Albert C. Berry, Winthrop Lockhart, Barton S. Corey, John V. McDonald, Herbert S. Corey, Andrew D. McCain, Eva Cleveland, Clifford H. Oakes, Avery DeWitt, Warren C. Oakes, Ernest M. Eaton, Fred A. Peitzsch, Edward H. Scott, Henry R. Emerson, Edwin H. Freese, Fred R. Shankel, Miriam M. Hayes, Wilfred L. Strong, S. Louis Hayes, Walter Tingley, Jennie M. Johnson, Hilda A. Tufts, Wylie E. King, William L. Wright.

Won by Steele, 19 R. 7 1/2 in.

HAIR MILLER BIRD

Fratricide—C. A. Richardson, W. M. Steele, F. Rice, G. L. Dickson, T. Boggs, W. C. Oakes, W. G. Verge.

Won by Rice.

The gold medal of the Association was won by Steele, of Amherst; the silver medal by Richardson, and the third prize by Rice.

The annual address before the Senate of the University was delivered on Monday evening in College Hall, by James Hannay, Esq., editor of the St. John's Telegraph.

Assembly hall was crowded Tuesday morning to see the graduating class and hear the class-day exercises.

The class history, by F. M. Pidgeon, of St. John, was very cleverly written. He reviewed in a witty and somewhat striking manner the various experiences of the class from their first entrance into college life to their exit therefrom.

The class poem, by J. W. Keirstead, took up pleasantly through the realms of fancy.

The valedictory, by H. S. Baker, surpassed in that line all previous efforts. It was a prose poem, rich in imagery, beautiful in diction, sublime in conception, holding the audience entranced to the speaker.

On Tuesday evening the closing exercises of Acadia Seminary took place. The accommodation of College Hall was taxed to the utmost notwithstanding the threatening condition of the weather, and the speakers found it a difficult matter to find seating for all who sought admittance.

The essays were carefully written and well delivered.

Diplomas were then awarded to the fourteen members of the class by Dr. Sawyer.

Prizes were awarded as follows: Godfrey Payson prize—1st, excellence in piano, Miss Trites, $20; 2nd, excellence in French, Miss Besie McMillan; 3rd, excellence in the branches of an English education, Miss Besie McMillan.

Miss Trac being about to retire from the principalship of the Seminary and Miss Crowell from her post as teacher a suitable address was read by Miss Bates, of St. Stephen, N. B.

An excellent address by Dr. Sawyer, giving a detailed history of the inception and growth of Acadia Seminary, brought the programme to a close.

Wednesday morning the commencement exercises of the university were held. Assembly Hall was packed to the doors.

The valedictory, by H. S. Baker, surpassed in that line all previous efforts. It was a prose poem, rich in imagery, beautiful in diction, sublime in conception, holding the audience entranced to the speaker.

The vocal solos given by F. M. Pidgeon and H. S. Baker added materially to the enjoyment of the affair.

On Tuesday afternoon the closing exercises of Horton Collegiate Academy were held. While the processional was being played by Miss Annie E. Chipman the students and faculty marched in from the adjoining library and took their places.
