Mother's Face.

Three little boys talked together, One sunny summer day,
And talked out of the window,
To hear what they had to say.

The prettiest thing I ever saw,
Was a bit of my mother's face, All black and white and red.

The prettiest thing I ever saw,
Was the second little lad,
Who was a pony of the circus—I wanted him awful bad.

I think, said the third little fellow, With a grave and gentle grace,
That the prettiest thing in all the world,
Is just my mother's face.

A Love's Lesson.

She died and left him lonely, She had loved her with a great love—though of course he had not always told her so. But God took pity on his grief. Now this will not be given to you or to me, but to him it was given to visit his wife in that strange land whither she had gone. Bright winged angels were there, but the man marveled much that in the home of so sweet a soul there was neither jasper walls nor pearly gates nor glassy sea. When his wife saw his wonder, her face grew suddenly wistful.

Soon his disappointment changed to joy as he saw bright angels using all their powers to make her happy by tender words and deeds. At last the man spoke.

'Heaven is not as I thought,' he said. 'Still it is a happy place.

'O sweetest, sweetest, sweetest! cried his wife, piteously. 'Can't you understand yet? I am not in heaven, and I cannot be there for long, long years!'

'This,' said one of the angels, 'is only the place where good wishes come to be made up to them the little tendernesses that they never had on earth.'

The man groaned. Then he seemed to sink down endless abysses of black space and blue air; and at last when the golden robes were beginning to sing in the purple dusk of morning, he woke in his bed with tears of joy.

He kissed the tired little wife by his side. She did not wake, but she turned the covers and murmured his name.

She never asked why the days thereafter were so much happier, but her heart was no longer heavy and hard to carry as it used to be.—Wentworth Hewitt in Zion Herald.

Running up and down stairs, sweeping and bending over making beds will not make a woman healthy or beautiful.

She must get out of doors, walk a mile or two every day and take Chamberlain's Tablets to improve her digestion and regulate her bowels. For sale by all dealers.

Old and New Violins.

An interesting test of the relative merit of old violins and new was made the other day by the American guild of violinists in session at Chicago.

It may be recalled that some years ago some experiments of the same sort were made in Paris, with the unexpected result that listeners not knowing what sort they were hearing awarded the palm to the new instruments. This is absurd, of course, for, if a Stradivarius costs $5,000 or $10,000, how can it fail to be better than a new violin worth only a few hundred dollars or perhaps less? Yet there is a heretical sect which holds that the superiority of the old Cremona makers is a myth, and the Chicago experiment was meant to settle that point.

It proved, however, inconclusive, for while the old violins as a rule carried off the honors the first prize fell to a violin only three years old. Nineteen instruments were entered, including a Nicholas Amati of 1543, and a Jacobus Stainer of 1650—

The Abuse of the Auto- mobile.

The twentieth century may fairly be called the age of speed. The trolley, rushing through city streets and country roads, replaces the jogging horse-car and rumbling stage; the fast steamers take you to England in days; the thousand miles between New York and Chicago is covered in eighteen hours; and mankind has almost forgotten the joys of a quiet motor. Distances have been shortened by the bicycle, the automobile of the motor boat, and the aero-plane, and outsped them all.

It is a pity that the automobile, which is so useful, should be so abused. The driver's eyes and nervous system may suffer seriously, although there are numerous minor ills to which he is liable that may come fast, and teach him moderation.

The tax on the eyes is enormous, for they are kept at constant strain, looking for obstacles and inequalities in the road. The wind and dust, in spite of goggles, often cause a troublesome inflammation that yields only to rest in a darkened room and appropriate medical treatment.

A not uncommon affection of the eyes is a failure to focus properly; the eliliary muscles become exhausted and suddenly cease to act—a temporary paralysis that causes a sudden blurring of the vision. If that comes while the car is going at full speed, the driver is fortunate if he can stop in time. The only course for the driver who has had this affection is to give up the wheel, for if it has occurred once, it may occur again at any time.

Another ailment that may affect the passengers as well as the driver is a painful stiff neck caused by unconscious muscular tension. But the most serious penalty that follows abuse of the automobile is neurasthenia, or nervous breakdown. A man whose brain is fatigued with business care cannot with safety substitute driving for his mental strain for the needed relaxation.—The Youth's Companion.

A Church Poster.

This effective poster has been placed in the vestibule of the First Church, Holyoke, Mass., by the Rev. G. W.
Winch, pastor.

Missing—Last Sunday, some families from church.

Stolen—Several hours from the Lord's Day, by a number of people of different ages dressed in their Sunday clothes.

Strayed—Half a score of lambs, believed to have gone in the direction of 'No Grassy School.'

Missing—A quantity of silver and copper coins on the counter of a public house, the owner being in a state of great excitement at the time.

Wanted—Several young people, when last seen were walking in pairs up Sabbathbreaking Lane, which leads to the city 'No Good.'

Lost—A lad carefully reared, not long from home, and for a time very promising. Supposed to have gone with one or two other companions to Prodigal Town, Husk Lane.

Any person assisting in the recovery of the above shall in no wise forfeit his reward.

Few, if any, violins, have met with the success which has attended the use of Chamberlain's Cough, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The remarkable cure of cholera and diarrhoea which it has effected in almost every neighborhood have given it a wide reputation. For sale by all dealers.

'I shall discharge our butler,' said
Mr. Chubb.

'What's the trouble?'

'He doesn't show me proper deference. When I am paying a man liberally, I consider it his duty to laugh at my jokes.'

'And he won't?'

'I don't think he can. He's an English butler. When in a spirit of gentle and condescending badinage, I said to him: 'Hawkins, can you tell me which came first, the chicken or the egg?' he said: 'Which did you order first, sir?'

It is generally known that the potato possesses great cleansing properties. Cold potatoes when used instead of soap clean the hands well and keep the skin soft.

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets is so agreeable and so natural you can hardly realize that it is produced by a medicine.
These tablets also cure indigestion. For sale by all dealers.

Sunday School Teacher—And you have no brothers or sisters?

Little Charlotte—No, ma'am; I am all the children we've got.

An Ideal Newspaper.

Occasionally it becomes the duty of a practical editor to give to the very intelligent and impractical people who are always demanding an ideal newspaper a very common sense reason why it will never be published.

And the reason is based on a few questions like these:

Has anybody ever seen or heard of an ideal minister?

an ideal college president?

an ideal doctor?

an ideal banker?

an ideal lawyer?

an ideal merchant?

We are decidedly of the opinion that a loud and emphatic 'no' is the answer to each question.

Why?

Because the representatives of the callings named are all human, with the usual number of virtues and faults. And editors being human are in the same class. Therefore when the world is peopled by angels and the newspapers controlled by archangels, we shall see the ideal newspaper, and not until then.—Boston Globe.

Uganda Bibles.

What is perhaps the most extraordinary form in which the Bible has ever been offered is that edition of the Scriptures in the language of Uganda.

The volume is of great length, but only three inches in thickness and the same in width.

A peculiar reason occasioned the adoption of this form. In Central Africa the white ants and other insects rapidly destroy books unless they are well protected. The representatives of the Church Missionary Society accordingly recommended to the Bible Society that it should issue its edition in a form that would fit into the tin biscuit boxes of a certain firm that is popular in Uganda families. This was done and the anti-protein tin box is just large enough to hold the Bible, a small Bible history, a hymnal and a prayer book.—London Globe.

Canning Peas and Beans.

Peas, string and lima beans are canned in the same way. Only fresh young peas should be used, and they should be canned as soon as possible after the hulling. In the case of string beans much depends upon their being young and tender. String carefully and break into short lengths and pack firmly in the jar. The lima beans should be very carefully sorted, so that no beans that have begun to harden or spot get into the jar. They should be canned immediately after they are shelled.

The process of canning here given insures thorough sterilization by steam—the only reliable sterilizing process. Never place the jars in the boiler without first making sure that the side springs are not clamped down.

As a dressing for sores, bruises and burns Chamberlain's Salve is all that can be desired. It is soothing and healing in its effect. It allays the pain of a burn almost instantly. This salve is also a certain cure for chapped hands and diseases of the skin. Price 25 cents. For sale by all dealers.

Odds and Ends.

Fourteen hours was considered a day's work for miners during the early part of the last century.

There are 11,000,000 square miles in the British Empire, 8,000,000 in Russia and 209,000 in the German Empire.

The telephone line across the Isthroad tracks.

Electric lamps for use in mines were first designed for rescue work, but now they are extensively used by the miners.

Ten for ten, warships are built in

It has been computed that one day of fog in London entails an extra expense of from $10,000 to $50,000.
