LIBERALS AT MONCTON.

A meeting of the maritime liberals will be held at Moncton on the 21st inst. at which Hons, A. G. Blair, W. S. Fieldding and L. H. Davies will be present and a conservative community as Moncton of the island once more? has always been, shows that they do not at any rate lack courage and confidence in the success of their cause. Nor have they any reason to feel timid or doubtful; the signs of the times point strongly to a tremendous conversion of the Can- of good fellows and deservedly popular adian people and the ascendency of the with all.

liberal party in Canada. The meeting in Moncton will be follow ed by similar ones in St. John and Fredpopular and eloquent gentlemen who are leading the van in maritime Canada.

BATHRST SCHOOL COMMISSION.

The arguments of counsel in the Bathurst school question before Judge Fraser during the past week are fraught with interest to the people of the province. The hearing is not yet concluded, but the complainant's case has been opened by Mr. Fowler, and the solicitor general and Mr. Lawlor have followed in defence of do a job just as you want him to, and try ations. Dealing with section 3, charging the board of education and the catholic to please you every time. trustees of Bathurst. Until the conclusion of the argument, with the reply of the ing, no intelligent conclusion can be arrived at; but thus far the argument apthe duty of the judge is not merely to find satisfactory manner. Without a doubt whether the facts alleged in the bill of they are the right men in the right place. complaints actually existed, but whether such facts, if true, constitute infractions of the law. The complainants seem to have overlooked this important consideration as well as the further one that the boards of school trustees within their jurisdiction have practically absolute power.

THE UNITED STATES.

The financial situation of the United States seems to be getting worse every day instead of improving, as people had hoped. Banks, mills, factories, stock firms, railroad combines, all kinds of commercial ventures have yielded to the difficulties of the times and closed their doors. Thousands of workmen are out of employment and forced to subsist on charity. Millions of earning power is lying idle. What is the cause of this state of affairs it is of course difficult to tell, but we are inclined to agree with president Cleveland, who, in his message to congress last Monday, threw the responsibility upon the shoulders of the ill-advised Sherman silver bill. His firm, direct request to congress to take prompt and decisive action to re peal this measure, ought to produce a feeling of confidence in the money market and an improved state of affairs all around. Canada is to be congratulated upon the comparative soundness of her commercial condition, and esher banking system over that in vogue in the United States. Although Canada could not but be affected in some small degree by a financial panic in a neighboring country, still the number of actual failures recorded since the commencement of the bad times in the States is very little in excess of the usual number. Personal Mention.

Frank Cooper has returned to Kansas city. Frank D. Phinney has been gazetted a lieutenant in the 73rd battalion. W. R. Racey is in charge is in charge of the Merchant's Bank agency while W. F.

Mitchell has his holidays. A. A. Shute and W. B. Lemont are making a bicycle tour to Eastport, St. Stephen Calais and other bor r towns. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McGibbon of Newhart, Montana, formerly of Douglas, are here visiting their friends.

Mrs. Frank Thompson of St. Louis, Mo., daughter of Geo. Hume, is here visiting her W. A. Black, son of Wm. Black of Richi bucto, is to succeed Frank Miles as junior clerk in the Merchant's bank here. Dr. H. S. Bridges with Mrs. Bridges, went to St. John on Wednesday, to spend the remainder of August with their friends there. J. D. B. F. McKenzie, the popular Chatham druggist, and president of the N. B. Pharmaceutical society, with Mrs. McKenzie, two children and two nieces from Halifax, are staying at the Queen. Geo. A. Botsford of Boston, formerly of this city, is here for a few days, the guest of A. W. K. Akerly, Brunswick street. Mr. Botsford has been in business for himself, since the new year, conducting a general house furnishing establishment in Boston, and has worked up a good trade.

Inspector Geo. W. Mersereau is taking a short course at the Infantry school. A. W. Ross, M. P. for Liscar, Manitoba and J. D. Hazen, M. P. of St. John, were in the supreme court room Thursday morning at the hearing of the Bathurst school matter. Resigned.

His resignation coming in October just at the opening of the college year, will leave the senate in an awkward position regarding the appointment of a successor.

A meeting of the senate took place Thursday morning at eleven o'clock for the purpose of arranging for the sale of the old collegiate school lot between Brunswick and George streets. It is understood the senate than in previous years, is still very much better than was expected at the first of the Fraser may be expected soon to give judgethe meeting the lot was ordered to be advertised and sold. A subsequent meeting will be called to consider Professor Duff's resignation when a formal resignation is actually received.

Mr. Foster's Visit.

Hon. Mr. Foster, finance minister, will come to Fredericton for a visit next Tuesday morning and will receive deputations regarding the tariff reform in the city council chamber. It is expected that a large number of delegates, representing the different parishes of the county will appear before him. The secretary of the board of trade has received letters from different sources, stating that delegates had been selected to represent the localities.

BATHURST SCHOOL COMMISSION.

The hearing in the Bathurst school comssion, which has been adjourned from Thursday the 3rd inst., was resumed before The pastures are suffering greatly for Judge Fraser at the supreme court chamber on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. There were present solicitor general White for the board of education, R. A. Lawlor for the trustees of Bathurst, on the one side; and George W. Fowler and C. N. Skinner for the complainants and the protestant minority of Bathurst, on the other. At the opening of the commission, solicitor general White stated that he would not recall Dr. Inch as he had intended to do when the adjournment was made from Bathurst. Mr. Fowler then opened the case for the complainants. He took the ground upon starting that practically all of the allegations in the bill of complaints had been borne out by the evidence. He then took the allegations one by one in order, and summed up the testimony on which he relied to prove them. His argument continued until half-past ten on Wednesday morning. He especially drew attention to the fourteenth allegation of the bill charging the use of catholic prayers in the schools school hours and before there was any regular and formal dismissal; and he read the evidence of Peter Doucett and Eliza May Ellis in support of this allegation. In closing Mr. Fowler emphasized the importance of the enquiry; the deep interest taken in it by people of all classes in New Bruns-school law maintained in its entirety. Mr. Lawlor followed Mr. Fowler on b half of the catholic trustees of Bathurst. He contended that the evidence of Bishop Rogers, Father Varrilly and others effectually rebutted the charge that the sisters were brought to Bathurst with a view to bringing protestant children under the influence of the conventual schools. Taking up the second allegation as to special arrangements being made for the examinatio of candidates from the religious teaching orders, he pointed out that the examinations, which the sisters were required to undergo, were the very same as those prescribed for other candidates attending the Normal school and were conducted in the same manner as the Normal school examininterference with the schools by catholic priests and the announcement of Father Varrily in his church as to the opening of the sisters' schools, Mr. Lawlor argued that there was no interference, and that the priest's announcement could in no way be construed as an infraction of the law. No attempt to dictate to his people nor assumption of control of the school could be inferred from such announcement. As to the fourth allegation charging observance of Roman catholic holy days in schools he jured. contended that whenever the schools were closed on holy days the time was made up on Saturdays and that under the law teachers had a right to certain substitute days were authorized by law. Continuing Mr. Lawlor passed in review sections 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14 of the bill of complaints. Regarding the latter which charged the use of catholic prayers in the schools and the forcing of protestant children to kneel and cross themselves. Mr. Lawlor read from the evidence of several witnesses to the effect that so far as the teachers were con cerned they had no desire at all to urge protestant children to join in the prayers or the kneeling and crossing, and that if any of them remained and did so they did it of their own accord with no compulsion on the part of the teachers. There was not a tittle of evidence to show that there was any fault found or complaint made by the parents of these protestant children who had thus remained, and had it not been for saved. the conduct of the complainant in agitating the minds of the protestant people there would to-day have been nothing heard of these things. Dealing with the case of Ida May Ellis, the protestant girl who testified she was compelled under threat of punishment to kneel and cross herself by the teacher, Mr. Lawlor claimed her testimony was contradictory and did not stand with the evidence of the two Corbett children, the only other protestant children in the same school. Summing up generally, Mr. pleasant day, they started on their jour- Lawlor contended that the Bathurst sisters were legally licensed and taught under the law: that the grammar school was not interfered with by the establishment of the conventual schools; that there was nothing in the latter schools that could reasonably be objected to by protestants; the schools were open to protestants, who had the same rights therein as their catholic brethren, and no attempt was made to interfere with their religion. He claimed that the catholic people and the catholic trustees had treated their protestant brethren all through fairly on the 17th of July, 1893, she dropped and well, and had it not been for the agitation started by Rev. Mr. Thompson there Referring to the alleged riot at the protestant private school in March last, Mr. Lawlor blamed the protestant leaders in the present they sent out grossly exaggerated reports of the occurrence for the purpose of creating public opinion against the catholics. He claimed that no interference with the schools in any way could be charged against either Father Varrily or Father Barry and Father Rice, the founder of the university protestant children by the teaching of the catholic religion in the schools. Mr. Lawlor to have been buried with the body. held that no obstacle whatever had been placed by the catholics in the way of the protestants in the conduct of the case: that every opportunity had been afforded the minority at Bathurst to establish their case. They had, however, utterly failed to show closed at 11.30 o'clock, having spoken near-

v seven hours. Mr. Lawlor was followed by solicitor general White on behalf of the board of education. The solicitor general first of all lished, constituted infractions of the law. He then distinguished the allegations imputing wrong doing to the school trustees of Bathurst from those imputing wrong doing on the part of the board of education which latter he proceeded to refute. He admitted that there may have been some inteachers and argued that it was impossible fractions but no censure could be laid against the board of education for these infractions until, at least, they were reported to them. He claimed that so soon as the matters here complained of came properly to the notice of the board, immediate steps grievances complained of. He then argued now in his 108th year. He says he was that by the statute creating the school districts of New Brunswick each district was made a corporation with certain powers. They were given a very wide discretion in a large class of cases and each one in these cases was practically a self governing body. In the exercise of this discretion a district might often displease a class of the rate-
