A New Use for Hearses.

The Advent of motor vehicles for funerals has thrown a large number of the old-style hearses on the market. They are being bought by dealis reported that 50 have already been shipped from Boston. It is said that the purchasers are putting the hearses to new uses. Instead of being used for conveying the dead, they are employed in some places in Nova Scotia to collect poultry. The rear doors are removed and the opening covered with slats, and the chicken and fowls are carried alive to market. Other hearses have been converted into LOCAL FISHERMEN DID WELL. -Though the weather was somewhat unfavorable, and a sea raged outside, some of the local fishermen did well yesterday with hook and line. Very little has been done with traps up to the present.

Trooping the Colour.

To-day, the King's birthday, will be celebrated by the Guards with music and splendour at the Trooping of the was in peace time, for the participating troops will wear khaki.

But from the picturesque point of view there is the consolation that the bandsmen will be in all their old glory-the mounted musicians of the Household Brigade in jockey caps, gold and scarlet striped coats, white buckskin breeches, and black packboots, and those of the Brigade of Guards in scarlet tunics.

While all armies have colours none but the British has the ceremony of "The Troup." Its stately impressiveness, accompanied by the marching ness, accompanied by the marching 250.00 tunes of each regiment of the Brigade in turn, makes a memorable appeal to the imagination, and the slow 250.00 march which is its most strkiing fea-250.00 ture is the admiration of everybody 250.00 but privates of fine regiments, who detest the Brigade when their ser-200.00 geant-major rebukes them by remark-200.00 ing, on parade, that their attempts 200.00 are "not a bit like the Guards."

200.00 It is a difficult manoeuvre, and not 200.00 at all the same thing as the goose-200.00 step of the Prussian Army, though 150.00 civilians are apt to imagine that it 150.00 is. The Prussians kick the toe up. 150.00 The British Guards keep a stiff leg with the toes down.

Exalted as the ceremony is, it had Exalted as the ceremony is, it had an origin which was scarcely credit100.00 able to the Army of the time. The 100.00 Duke of Cumberland originated it. 100.00 Drill was very slack in those days, 100.00 and he devised a parade which requir-100.00 ed assiduous rehersal and minute ex-100.00 actitude of performance. It is even 100.00 believed that the slow march was in-100.00 serted to test whether the ensign of the day was quite sober.
