Appointed Bank Manager.

Mr. Richard O'Reilly leaves here today to take charge of the Royal Bank of Canada at Cape Breton. Richard is a young man, 21 years, and has been connected with the Bank since leaving the Christian Brothers School, except for an interval during the war, when he went overseas, with the regiment, there being wounded. Later he took up his duties at the bank, to be advanced to his present position. The Royal Bank of Canada is to be congratulated on the ever-increasing confidence it places in the natives of this Dominion. That this institution has branches over all this Dominion is evidence that the confidence is being reciprocated.

Secures Big Agency.

Messrs. James Baird, Ltd., have secured possibly the biggest agency ever known in this country and the famous firm of Vickers Limited is the agency, makers of everything from a needle to an anchor, the list includes: armaments and warships; super-torpedoes; submarines; field guns and howitzers; all kinds of agricultural implements; aeroplanes, seaplanes and engines and motors; scientific instruments; motor cars and accessories; printing; sewing machines; ships, including liners, vessels and concrete ships; and every earthly thing that is made.

The firm of Vickers Limited has never refused to construct anything yet and from great sky-scrapers down to hen-coops will be handled. It was this wonderful firm that built the bi-engined aeroplane in which Alcock and Brown were successful in flying the Atlantic.

Vickers Limited have branches established in some thirty countries over the world and more are being added. James Baird, Ltd., are much to be congratulated on their good fortune in securing this great agency.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of the late Mrs. William Harris was held from her late home, 49 Alexander Street, yesterday afternoon at 2.30, and was very largely attended. A short funeral service was conducted at the house by Adj. Earle, S.A., after which the cortege, headed by No. 1, S.A. Band and a guard of honor from No. 1 Home League, proceeded to the S.A. Citadel, New Gower Street, where a very impressive funeral service was conducted by Adj. Earle, assisted by Mrs. Adj. Oxford. Adj. Earle spoke feelingly of the good life of the deceased and her resignation to the divine will. After the service at the Citadel, the funeral proceeded to the S.A. Cemetery, Mundy Pond Road, where interment took place. The burial service at the grave side was read by Adj. Earle and Capt. Barter. Much sympathy was felt for Mrs. L. King, Grand Falls, daughter of the deceased, who arrived half an hour too late for the funeral, having been delayed by the washout on the railway.

Father, in Thy gracious keeping.
Leave we now Thy servant sleeping.

"Bradbury" and "Boycott".

WE ARE CONSTANTLY GAINING NEW WORDS.

The name of the Secretary of the Treasury who has just been promoted may figure in history; it will certainly figure in the dictionaries of the future, for whatever signature the one pound note may have next year or the year after, it will never be known as anything but the "Bradbury."

Few realise how many proper names become thus enshrined as part of the nation's language. The commonest articles of daily use and wear in some cases bear the name of their originator or inventor. Wellington boots, for instance, called after the Iron Duke, and the mackintosh now partially superseded by the "Burberry."

We drive on macadamised roads. It was Macadam who, about a hundred-and-twenty years ago, invented our present system of road-making. Some of us still drive in a "brougham," called after the famous Lord Brougham.

The American word "lynch," meaning to execute a criminal in a summary manner, perpetuates the name of a Virginian farmer of the seventeenth century, a man well known for honesty and good judgment, who was selected by his neighbours to act as judge at their rough-and-ready trials.

"Boycott," already an English word, comes from Capt. Boycott, the first to suffer under that abominable system of terrorism prevalent in Ireland some forty years ago. The Earl of Sandwich, who invented the article of food which bears his name, flourished in the time of George III, but Col. Negus, who first made the drink bearing his name, was a contemporary of Queen Anne.

The boy's knife was the invention of Col. Bowie; the galvanic battery is called after its inventor, Dr. Galvani, of Bologna. Mesmerism was practised by the physician Mesmer about 1766; while the word "Martinet," now a term for a strict disciplinarian, was the name of a French Colonel in the army of Louis XIV.

In a Nutshell.

Like the sun, the modern gas fire warms solid objects—such as the furniture of a room or its occupants—without appreciably raising the temperature of the intervening air. At the same time the products of combustion in their passage up the chimney flue keep the atmosphere in healthy motion.

That is gas fire science and gas fire hygiene in a nutshell.
