IT'S A BAD WORD ANYHOW.
 Indianapolis News: Of course, not-male is a word that is not easy to define. Wages, prices and taxes may all be perfectly normal, even though extremely high—normal, because conforming to economic and industrial conditions existing at the time. Those conditions, too, may be normal in the sense that no others were at the time possible. But what all looked for, and still look for, is a lower range of prices, high prices being probably the abnormality against which the principal protest was made. Considering the world-shaking experience through which the nation has passed, it may be that our recovery is going forward as rapidly as could be reasonably expected.

ADVENTURE OF WHALING.
 London Daily Telegraph: The history of whaling is, indeed, a repetition of the theme of success ending in failure. Those who still read Longfellow will remember that there were Scandinavian whalers in the days of King Alfred. In the Middle Ages the seamen of the Biscay ports fished the bay for whales, and so profitably that there were after a while no more to kill. In the seventeenth century English and Dutch sailors established an Arctic fishery. After a hundred years it began to decline. Before it failed the great whaling grounds in the southern hemisphere were developed. In the middle of last century more than 700 American ships were hunting the sperm whale. Thirty years later there was not a quarter of this fleet engaged, and now one of the firms which made whaling history in those days has gone out of business altogether.

City Water Supply.

SAMPLES FROM WINDSOR LAKE TESTED.

Within the past couple of weeks many citizens were complaining of a disagreeable odor and peculiar taste from the Windsor Lake water supply. The attention of the authorities was drawn to this matter through the columns of the Evening Telegram, and very promptly the Municipal Council communicated with Mr. Davies, the Government Analyst, who immediately visited the Lake, and made an examination. The following report submitted by Mr. Davies will, it is hoped, tend to allay the fears of citizens generally:—"Samples of water taken from Windsor Lake on May 30th and tested at my Laboratory on May 30th, were found to be contaminated with organic matters of vegetable origin (there is not the slightest evidence of contamination with organic matters of animal origin)."

"Though there are undoubted evidences of vegetable contamination I do not think there is any cause for alarm, as this condition of the water is purely temporary and due to what is known as the 'Spring Turn Over.' During the long winter months, when the surface of the Lake is covered with a thick sheet of ice, the lowest or bottom layers of water remain, more or less, stationary, and as there is a good deal of vegetable matter deposited on the Lake bottom, the lowest layers in time become contaminated."

"When the thaw sets in, in the spring, the surface ice melts and the temperature of the surface layers of water gradually rises to about 39 degrees F., at which point water is at its heaviest."

"The surface layers then sink to the bottom, and the bottom layers rise to the surface, and for a few weeks our drinking water may be slightly contaminated with vegetable matter. In a short time the high winds to which the Lake is exposed thoroughly aerate, and purify the water, and for the rest of the year, we, in St. John's, are fortunate in having a pure supply of drinking water right at our doors."

Professor Davies' statement "although there are undoubted evidences of vegetable contamination, I do not think there is any cause for alarm," shows that the complaints of citizens were well founded. Mr. Davies' Report however, is based on samples taken at Windsor Lake, and whilst this might show that the source of supply is safe, it does not prove that the water does not become contaminated before reaching the houses in the city. A test of samples taken from taps in different sections of the town should be made for it may be stated that "the disagreeable odor and peculiar taste" is much more pronounced in some sections than in others.
