NOTE TO DEALERS:—Owing to the manufacturers of Brick's Tasteless having some difficulty in getting their supply of empty bottles in time, they were unable to make shipment to us till this week. The shipment just in will hardly be sufficient to fill all the orders we have on hand complete, but the greater portion of each order will be sent out in a day or two and the balance when other shipments arrive next week.

Washington Letter

(By Our Own Correspondent)

Nov. 14th, 1924.

Henry Cabot Lodge, for thirty-one years Massachusetts Senator and up to the time of his death Republican leader in the Upper House, died at Charleston Hospital here late Sunday night after battling heroically against the inevitable since receiving on Wednesday, the day following the election, the stroke from which he succumbed. His death, besides removing from United States Legislative circles one of the most outstanding public figures in many generations, brings about unforeseen changes in the legislative branch of the government machinery. In addition to being leader in the Senate for the Republican party, the deceased statesman was chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee and his passing is the signal for much speculation here as to who will be the ones chosen to fill the vacancies he has left.

As Senator for Massachusetts it is freely stated that Mr. Lodge's successor will be William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, and who it is said would have been senatorial nominee in Massachusetts this year but for the fact that the party depended on him to lead it to success at the polls. Butler would attain his seat in the Senate by appointment under the Massachusetts State law which authorizes the Governor of that state to appoint a successor to Senator Lodge who shall hold office until the next biennial election which does not take place till November, 1926.

The mantle of the chairmanship of the foreign relations committee falls on the shoulders of Senator Borah of Idaho according to the rule of seniority prevailing in the Senate and it is generally agreed that in this important office the new incumbent will add considerably to his already wide reputation as a statesman and diplomat. Next to Senator Lodge himself, perhaps Borah has been as prominent a figure in international politics in recent years as any man in the United States Legislature. As chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, however, he is not calculated to contribute greatly to the peace and contentment of the Republican household. His views regarding foreign relations are known to be widely divergent from those of Secretary Hughes in many important essentials. Borah was one of the Republican "irreconcilables" who prevented the ratification of the Versailles treaty containing the League of Nations covenant while he has also, in the past, vigorously favored the recognition of Russia. If Hughes remains in the cabinet and Borah gets the chairmanship of the foreign relations committee, President Coolidge may at times find it difficult to decide which one to harken to on matters concerning foreign relations. For the leadership of the party in the Senate Senator Wadsworth of New York and Senator Curtis of Kansas are being discussed.

But one woman out of twelve who offered themselves as candidates for congressional honors in the recent election won her seat. Ordinarily, this would have been accepted as unmistakable evidence of general disapproval of female representation in the national legislature, but the suffragette forces in the United States are determined not to regard such a temporary setback as a final blow to their political hopes and aspirations. Already they have a logical reason to advance why so many of their representatives went down to defeat—they represented the Democratic and Progressive causes. Like LaFollett himself, the women have only just begun to fight for their "rightful" place in the halls of the nation's government.

Estimates prepared by the Budget Department for the running of the Federal Government during the fiscal year beginning July 1st next place the cost at three billion dollars which is half a billion less than that for the current fiscal year. This is exclusive of the running of the Post Office Department which it is expected will pay for its own administration.

When United States Consul Imbrie was murdered in Persia, the Persian Government agreed to pay to this country the sum of $110,000 to defray the expenses of sending a warship to bring back the body. In a note delivered to the Persian Government on Monday last, the State Department proposed that the $110,000 payment would be devoted to the establishment of a trust fund to be utilized for the education of Persian students at institutions of higher learning in the United States. The answer of the Persian Government to this generous proposal is being awaited before precise arrangements for the establishment of this fund can be made.

President Coolidge has recommended the expenditure of more than $1,000,000 on new Embassy and consulate premises in Tokio. This should go a long way towards cleansing the Nippon mind of the rancor which the United States stand on Japanese immigration has engendered. Washington authorities who have originated the Tokio project look upon it as an expression of confidence in the industriousness of America's am-able relations with Japan. The important point is, will the Government of the Mikado so regard it?

An economic world survey designed to supplement the purposes of the Dawes plan and to stimulate production, revive industry and restore international trade has been announced here by President Willis H. Booth of the International Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Booth said: "If a constructive program can be outlined which will meet the approval of the business interests of all countries to which international trade is a matter of vital importance, the progress of reconstruction will be measurably hastened."

The modernizing of fifty steamers of the government's cargo fleet began this week with the granting by the Shipping Board of authority for the installation of internal combustion engines in these ships. This installation will cost in the vicinity of fifteen million dollars and will, it is said, give the American merchant marine the largest fleet of dieselized vessels under one control.

A case unique in American history came to court in the District of Columbia to-day in the application for an injunction filed by a citizen of New York, William H. Shearer, a naval expert, against the Secretary of the Navy seeking to prevent the destruction under the arms-limitation treaty of the battleship Washington, which is now 85 per cent. completed, and according to official schedule, tomorrow to be used as a target and sunk by high explosives and gun fire from the Battleship Texas off the Chesapeake capes. The building of the Washington cost the taxpayers of the United States in the neighborhood of $35,000,000.

The plaintiff in the action for the injunction claims that the arms-limitation plan has never been properly ratified by the other nations and that it has not been faithfully executed by them, notably by Great Britain and Japan. The further claim is made that by the destruction of the Washington the United States would reduce its naval power below the point of relative strength as in theory prescribed by the treaty owing to the failure of other governments to comply faithfully with it. It is expected that the Court will grant a temporary injunction and set the case for hearing on its merits.

It begins to look as if the Roosevelt penchant for the Navy Department is really traceable to an hereditary streak. It is said that Theodore Douglas Robinson, nephew of the late President Roosevelt is to be the post of Assistant Secretary of the Navy which was vacated by Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., to undertake his unsuccessful campaign in the recent election. The job was also held one time by the late President Roosevelt.

The proportionate increase in divorces in the United States during 1923 was greater than that in marriages. The marriages in that year amounted to 1,233,825 while the divorces totalled 165,138 or an increase over the previous year of 11 per cent.

The outstanding feature of Washington's observance of the sixth anniversary of Armistice Day was a visit to Arlington Cemetery by President Coolidge who placed a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier. The President was accompanied by detachments of the three armed forces of which he is the commander-in-chief.

Representative John Philip Hill of Baltimore, in order to prove that the framers of the Volstead Act did not intend to include beverages made for home consumption when they prohibited the manufacture of intoxicants, made himself some wine and cider recently and got arrested. On Tuesday the court at Baltimore ruled that Representative Hill was not guilty of a breach of the Volstead Act although his manufacture contained more than the minimum of alcohol stipulated by the Act. While this interesting test was being made by the heroic and patriotic Congressman in Baltimore, eight persons were lying dead a few miles away in a Virginia town as a result of drinking home brew.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon had a conference with President Coolidge on Wednesday when it was agreed that no tax legislation would be sought when congress meets for the short session. Pressure is being brought to bear from some quarters for a special session to deal with tax amendment legislation but it is held that until the new congress meets any discussion on the matter would be futile.

Washington, the capital city of "Dry" United States has five thousand boot-leggers actively engaged in supplying drink to the thirsty. With a population of about four hundred and fifty thousand, this means that one out of every ninety people in Washington has a bootlegger. Of this number Assistant United States Attorney Hart, who has charge of Prohibition prosecutions, claims only two hundred and fifty have escaped the clutches of the law as first offenders.

America's two most powerful organized industrial groups—Labor and Agriculture are arrayed against each other in the child labor amendment fight, the most momentous issue that has come before the country since Prohibition and Woman Suffrage occupied the national political stage. At the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor to be held at El Paso, Texas, on Monday, Nov. 17, plans will be formulated for a final desperate attempt to influence the vote of the forty-three state legislatures which have yet to ratify or reject the amendment. It must be ratified by three-fourths of the states or thirty-six altogether, in order to become law and as every farming state and a few others are opposed to it, there is little doubt of what the outcome will be.

TERRIFIC FROSTS IN PRAIRIE CITIES.

Mercury at Calgary Dropped to Four Below, With Winnipeg and Edmonton Showing Zero—Dominion Records for Cold Snaps Likely Shattered.

Mid-winter conditions prevail in Western Canada. An icy blast swept from the north over the prairie states last night, and at the peak of the cold snap barometer thermometers registered two-one below zero.

This figure is abnormal for mid-winter, and quite likely has not before been duplicated in the Dominion since official records have been kept.

Calgary reports four below the cypher, with Winnipeg and Edmonton at zero.

From Toronto east and through the Maritime Provinces fair weather was recorded during the past twenty-four hours, with an average temperature of 45.

The extraordinary fine period experienced in Cape Breton since the beginning of November continues, with no forecast of an immediate break by meteorological experts.

The minimum temperature recorded in Sydney on Thursday was 59, with a maximum of 87, the best in Canada, with the exception of Halifax which reports a maximum of 58.—Sydney Post, Nov. 14.

THE BROUGHAM

In literal sense, a revolutionary car! What other term could describe the Chrysler Six—a car that gives a high gear speed range of 2 to over 70 miles per hour—that weighs only 2705 pounds and yet can be driven in comfort 60 miles an hour on a cobbled street or a rutted road.

Never has there been a car within many hundreds of dollars of the Chrysler price, that could begin to do the things it does.

Never has there been a car that combined such startling performance with such economy of investment, maintenance and operation.
