A nourishing, blood-making and strength-sustaining food, its vitalizing properties are of such a nature that the worn-out dyspeptic will reap great benefit from its continued use.
It is a magnificent food for the young, for those in the prime of life, and for the aged.
It makes rich blood, strong bones, firm muscles, and, as a result, clear brain. It will strengthen the weak and keep in good condition the strong. It will not overheat the blood, as do out-meal and kindred foods. Its free use will assist the body to ward off disease.
For spring food it is unequalled.
Its low price places it within reach of all.
Will be sold by all good grocers.

Club (Limited) will shortly enlarge and improve their present quarters at the Forks. The suggestion comes from the London Rowing Club, whose honorary secretary, Mr. James S. McDougall, on behalf of his association, proffered the shareholders $300 with which to assist in defraying the expense. The proposition was favorably considered at the annual meeting held yesterday afternoon, and was referred to the directors, who appointed a committee to have plans drawn for the addition desired.

The following were elected to office:
Mr. H. S. Blackburn, president; Col.
Macbeth, first vice-president; J. H.
Brown, second vice-president; Edmund Weld, honorary secretary-treasurer;
Col. Macbeth, M. J. Kent, Edmund

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Jessie MacLachlan in Scottish Song at the New Grand.

Jessie Niven MacLachlan, the queen of Scottish song, was greeted by one of the largest houses in the great New Grand last night, the occasion being her second appearance before a London audience. The last seat had been sold on Monday morning, and yesterday afternoon the theatre was thronged with ladies. The vocal programme was Scotch throughout, and the occasions have been rare indeed on which the glorious music of Auld Scotland has been so sympathetically and skillfully interpreted. Miss MacLachlan again demonstrated her ability to win the hearts of all her auditors with her rendition of the pathetic ballads and the stirring war songs of Scotland. She was ably seconded by Mr. Harold Jarvis, of Detroit, always a favorite in this city, and Mr. H. Ruthven Mc-Donald, of Toronto, whose long residence here causes the citizens to yet regard him as a local singer. The balance of the programme was furnished by Miss Marietta La Dell, a talented singer, who showed herself equally at home in strong dramatic numbers and lighter humorous selections.
Her sketch of the confidently communicative little girl was inimitable. The companions were Mrs. H. R. McDonald, Miss Dorothy Yates and Mr. Robt.
Buchanan, jun. (Miss MacLachlan's husband). Recalls to almost every number were the order of the evening.
A pleasing feature of the concert was the presentation to Miss MacLachlan of a handsome St. Andrew's cross of gold, accompanied by the following address: Dear Madam,—The officers and members of St. Andrew's Society, of London, Ontario, take advantage of this interlude in the programme to ask you, the Queen of Scottish Song, to accept in their hands a little memento of your visit to our city. Wherever your voice has been heard, whether in the land of brown heath and shaggy wood —the land where blooms the heather; the United States, Australia or Canada, you have found those in whose hearts the storied history of Scotland, its traditions, its music, its immortal songs, are preserved in imperishable memory. We trust that wherever you visit, you will find the same warm welcome and the same hearty association. From the shadowy period of early tradition when Píngal fought and Ossian sang; from the songs of the Jacobites to the democratic music of Robert Burns, the immortal, or whether it be the strains of some stirring wailchant, or the pathetic chords of "The Land of the Leal," every mood and tense of national feeling and of individual emotion has found expression in Scottish music and song. Great must be the lyrical resources of a country that can number among its song-writ-

"LOVERS' LANE" CHILDREN.

To a casual observer the stage door of the New Grand Opera House yesterday morning would have resembled the entrance to a New York theatrical exchange, the occasion being the first "call" of the thirty or more embryo actors and actresses who will take part in the school scene of "Lovers' Lane" tomorrow afternoon and evening at the New Grand. They were a most enthusiastic lot of artists, and are now hard at work committing the lines and songs which they are to use in the scene. The matinee tomorrow afternoon at such unusual prices for a strictly high-class attraction should be a capacity one.

LODGE MEMBERS ENTERTAIN.

Members of Chorazin and May Queen Lodges of the Independent Order of Foresters were "At Home" to their friends in the East End hall, which was prettily decorated for the occasion.
A pleasant social evening was passed, and a programme of the following numbers, introduced by Mr. T.
W. McFarland, who presided: Solo, Misses Scott and May Barrett and Mr.
Gregory; recitations, Miss Barrett and Mr. Black; duet, Master and Mrs. Wagner, and Mrs. Brown and Mr. Gregory; quartets, Messrs. Lewis, Parker, W. neat and Gregory; instrumental, Miss Simmie; cakewalk, Miss Barrett. The committee was composed of Mesdames Harding, Woods, Showler, Johnston, Piper, Fitzgerald, Miss McFarland, Welford, Simmie, E. Rose, H. Lewis, J. Vining and Mallowh.

PAINE'S CELERY
COMPOUND

Rejuvenates the Fagged-Out Sys-

To thousands of people out-of-sorts, weary, despondent, morose, irritable, with weak, failing step, pale faces and dull and sunken eyes, not sick enough to be confined to bed, this is a critical and dangerous season—a time that urgently calls for prompt action, if recuperation and cure are the prime objects.

The past experience of hundreds of thousands, including able medical men, clergymen, judges, lawyers, literary men and women, the rich, and those in high social position, points unhesitatingly to Paine's Celery Compound the great medical prescription of modern times, that gives to the al-ing sick and diseased the true condition of health that insures happiness and true pleasure from day to day.

The virtues peculiar to Paine's Celery Compound quickly manifest their power in the correction of unhealthy nerve action, and supplying the veins with pure, more abundant more vigorous and life-giving blood.

Paine's Celery Compound is pre-eminently the best spring medicine known to medical practitioners for thoroughly cleansing and purifying the blood and banishing the impure and diseased elements from the system, and thus insuring a pure and condition of the life stream.

If you have any of the varied symptoms of rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, liver complaint, kidney disease, catarrh or salt rheum, a few bottles of Paine's Celery Compound used at this time will rapidly dispel all trouble and danger. We urge every weak, ailing and sick person to fairly test the medicine that is doing more for suffering humanity than all other combined remedies.
