Is it the ministers who are keeping the stizens from so necessary a convenience, epscially in warm weather?

Or are the City Council to blame?

The city has become so large that the sufferne entailed on the public by the lack of Sunay cars is something enormous.

sequent; but, candidy speaking, we can't see it.

During many years back, and until quite recently, Canadian Protestants had been allowing themselves to alide into a state of dramy and dangerous indifference with regard to what used in healthier times to be alled by its proper name—Romist aggression, to wit. Our public speakers and our new-papers were getting more and more into the habt of going out of their way to find words of praces for the old religion and for that chivalrous people, the Ferench, aforetime our ememies in many a field, but yow our most admirable fellow-citizens in "this Canada." There was much "high-falutin" talk about cathedrale, cardinale, pictures, music, santa, angela, and what not; and it was more than hinted what an inferior lot we British Protestants were, lacking such accompaniments of a religion of Art and Culture. The admirstion expressed for in belle France and her people we take to have been sincere enough; in fact we see no reason why it should not have been so. For these is surely nothing forced or unnatural in one people, the members their admiration of another-people equally so renowned in both arts and arms, expressing their admiration of another-people equally so renowned. But we have a suspicion that much of the talk referred to about the ecclesiastical glories of the Roman Catholic Church was the result mainly of the affection called "bighead" on the nart of speakers and writers who war anxious to let the public see how familiar they were with the Continent of Europe, and with all the great things which are there to be seen and heard. Anyway it is cortain that, from one cause and another, British Protest and literature in Canada was rapidly running its admiration of France and of the Frence, about on of the most popular articles, and one of the popular articles, and one of the popular articles, and one of the popular articles and one of the popular articles, and one of the popular articles, and one of the popular articles in the result of the popular articles, and one of A meeting of the Equal Rights Association for it; if you feel like thanking anybody at all.

The Jesuits never had the reputation of being harmless and innocent as doves; to which let us add that their recent management fair attendance, and brief and stirring speechwhich let us add that their recent management in Canada has not displayed much of the wisdom of the serpent. Had they been really wise they would have "let sleepin' dogs lie" or would have let well enough alone; what was well enough for themselves, we mean. But such eastious counsel as this did not suit them, they had to do something to set the big bell ringing; and now this prevailingly British and Passexiant country is aroused. These Jesuits are not as cunning as some people infagine them to be.

fair attendance, and brief and stirring speeches: severe delivered by Mr. A. Fraser, Mr. J. K. Mascdonald, Rev. G. Webber and Mr. J. G. Holmes. A local organization was then formed and a number of ladies and gentlement of the suit them, they had to do something to set the big bell ringing; and now this prevailingly British and Passexiant country is aroused. These Jesuits are not as cunning as some people.

"Silence that bell" is what many a Jesuis would a say, with Othello; but it has been my now, and will not be so easily. In a time of peace, it pleased their to set the bell ringing for war; and we neet the bell ringing for war; and we has already they rue the blunder they for at Capada ever saw; and it is freely ised that next year the day will be big.

A Meeting and an Affourament.

There was a private meeting of the Court House Committee held yesterday to discuss contractors' spreties. There were present Chairman Gibbs, Ald. Hill, Hawitt, Gilleapie, Small and Mosea. The name, record and probable financial standing of every surety were thoroughly considered. The grand majority were found acceptable, but there were several who did not satisfy the committee and the contractors interested will have to substitute more suitable names.

In the afternoon Ald, Roaf and Fleming wated long to secure a quorum as a sub-committee of the Executive to consider the claim for compensation by the Loyal Orange Biotherhood for damage to their hall in Chest-nut-street by rowdise. The third alderman did not materialize and an adjournment was in order.

No. 152 Third-avenue on Saturday still remains a mystery. The body was yesterday removed from the morgue to the little undertaker's shop across the street kept by Charles Daly. But no one called there to dentify it. This is accepted as evidence bet the name, "Miss Dane," which she we to Mrs. Morris, when she rented a om of her, was an assured one. If that i been her name and she had been emyed under that new the street had been the new the street had been the s gave to Mrs. Morris, when she rented a room of her, was an assured one. If that had been her name and she had been employed under that name as a typewriter for any langth of time in New York, some one would certainly have called to identify her.

On her underclothing has been found a name which, as nearly as can be eciphered, is "Dane."

A Chinaman offered the Gas Company a $5 bill of the "Bettish Canadian Bauk." The bill is signed "M. A. Calder" and "E. A. hill is signed. "M. A. Calder" and "B. A. Griffin." The British Canadian Bank though chartered never came into existence. It looks as if the bills were printed, that some one has got hald of some of them, signed shem and put their in circulation. If this is the case the public ought to be on guard as others will be going about. The Ohinaman wrung his hands and said. "Bad man, give me for washee."

MINNEAPOLIS, July 15.—The rumors MINNEAPOLIS, July 15.—The rumors about the purchase by English capital of a big interest in Minneapolis flour mills are becoming more definite. Options were given on the Pillsbury and Washburn mills as a result of a thorough examination of the properties by experts. These options expire July 25 and though it was at first believed the deal would go through there is now unde stood to be considerable doubt about it. The scheme provides that the property, including mills with a daily capacity of 22,000 barrels or two-thirds of Minneapolis' capacity, is to be capitalised at $10,000,000. A controlling interest is to be said to the English syndicate.
