TURE THE RACES. Four Heats in Each Event-The Program

Finally they went away with Fred D in front and the 2 to 1 V.S. 3 lengths to the bad at the start. It was a pretty race around the lower turn. Golddust and Rideau Belle closed on Fred D, who kept the lesd all the way. The three came past the stand abresst. The gait put Golddust and Fred D. in the air. They steadied down nearing the wire and Bred D. got the verdict by a half length, with Rideau Belle came got to last place.

Fred D. scored in front, but went off his feet and lost the lead to Rideau Belle. She opened up a gap along the back stretch that looked as if the lot would be distanced. The rest came along in a bunch, with Ida Brock and Maggie C. fighting for second. Maggie C. broke, but steadied down and got the place. Through the liberality of Johnston the whole field started in the third heat, and as it was the Belle won by a dozen lengths.

With the exception of V. S. and Neil Mack, two lengths-behind, the field went nway in a line. Rideau Belle soon forged ahead and had four lengths opposite the stand. Golddust came second and Ida Brock third. Thus they trotted all the way, and the Belle finished first easily in a walk.

Rideau Belle captured the last heat as she liked. V. S. and Ida Brock were battling for second place at the half, and V.S. soon went behind. Ida Brock pressed the Belle at the stand, but it was no use, and the race was over. Maggie C. was third and Fred D. fourth.

Guy Nickalls, the celebrated amateur soulier of England.

He competed many a year for the famous diamond sculls at Henley, and carried off the trophy on three successive occasions. Mr. Nickalls did not scull this year for the prize, but rowed with Fletcher in the pairs. It was Nickalls who defeated the Cornell sculler, Frotta, at Henley in '90.

Mr. Nickalls arrived from Chicago yesterday. He would scarcely be taken for a champion sculler, but looks the typical English gentleman.
