

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Page
1	INTRODUCTION
MATTERS PRELIMINARY AND FUNDAMENTAL
3	1. The nature of the threat — the need for a security intelligence service
4	2. Jurisdiction
5	3. The distinction between law enforcement and security intelligence operations
6	4. Classification
8	5. The security of the collectivity and individual rights
AN ANALYSIS OF THE SUBJECT MATTER OF BILL C-157
11	1. The mandate and functions of the CSIS
11	a) The primary function and mandate
13	b) Security assessments
18	c) The collection of information from foreign states and persons concerning defence and international affairs
20	2. The powers and immunities of the CSIS and its employees
24	a) Further investigation techniques and judicial control of their use
27	b) The protection of CSIS employees
28	c) Disclosure of identity of CSIS employees
29	3. Management, control and responsibility for the CSIS
28	a) The monitoring and review of CSIS operations
29	b) The Inspector General
30	c) The Security Intelligence Review Committee (SIRC)
31	d) A Special Parliamentary Committee
32	3. Other matters concerning the CSIS
33	4. The Security Officer Act — Part IV of Bill C-157
35	CONCLUSION
37	APPENDICES
43	MINUTES OF PROCEEDINGS