

operation, no attempt should be made to add new courses in special subjects.

The re-arrangement of the curriculum will render necessary the preparation of lists of suggested readings in every course on which the examinations will be based. This will involve careful study in order to ensure satisfactory courses and close co-operation to ensure proper proportion between them. We suggest that in addition to the regular sessional readings summer readings be prescribed as an integral part of the course.

Your committee feels that a re-consideration of our examination system is desirable. At present a student attends a number of lectures, reads a few cases or extracts from theoretical works and immediately passes an examination prepared by his lecturer. Naturally he is able to foresee the type of paper to be set and instead of studying his subject prepares for the specific examination paper he anticipates. This can be rendered more difficult if not entirely eliminated

1. if examinations are held at less frequent intervals;
2. if they are conducted by an examination board;
3. if every student is subjected to a thorough oral examination; and
4. if the final examination cover the whole or substantially the whole of the three years' work.

It is therefore recommended that:

1. Examinations be held -

- (a) at the end of the first session covering the year's work.
- (b) at the end of the second session covering the second year's work, and the final examination in Roman Law on the work of both years to be also held at this time.
- (c) at the end of the course on the work of the three years except
