ED-BOLEMAN IS IDENTIFIED AS THEF

Edward Field, Who Was Held Up at Point of a Revolver in His Liquor Store, is Positive That O. H. Latremouille is the Man Who Did the Deed.

With all the evidence taken, it remains but for the addresses of the crown and defending lawyers to be made, ere O. H. Latremouille, the ex-policeman, charged with having entered Edward Field's liquor store at 307 Wellesley street on October 7 last, and robbing the till, holding Field manacled at the point of a revolver, will learn his fate.

"Look at that man in the box," said Chief Justice Sir William Mulock to Field. "Now, do you positively recognize him as the man who robbed you on that night?"

"I do, without doubt," was the reply. Field told of how a man, whom he identifies as Latremouille, entered his store about 8:30 on that night, and asked for a couple of bottles of liquor. He turned to serve him when an exclamation from the man made him turn around, to find himself looking into the barrel of a revolver.

Asked what the man said to him, Field declared he said "I want that till, do you understand?"

"Here he comes to him," asked Edmund Meredith, K.C., crown prosecutor.

"No, I couldn't speak, I was scared."

Field stated that to the best of his knowledge prisoner was dressed in a light gray coat, with a black soft hat. Beyond that he could not say.

John Martin, who entered the store just as the robbery was leaving, also identified Latremouille as the man he saw leaving the store.

"You are perfectly sure?" asked his lordship.

"Perfectly," was the reply.

Martin corroborated Field in that he wore a soft black hat with a grayish collar and a light-colored coat.

Mabel Finnes related how in standing across the road waiting for her sister she noticed a man on the same side with her looking over at Field's store. She could not say what made her watch him, beyond that it seemed odd that he should be gazing into a store from across the road.

"Looking at that man in the box, do you positively recognize him as the man who robbed you?"

"I do."

This, Mr. Curry asked for the right to resign.

"I can't grant that either," declared Sir William.

Then, said Mr. Curry, "I desire to have stated for the court of appeal a reserved case as to whether or not there has been a miscarriage in the calling of the witness Donnelly."

"The request is declined," declared his lordship.

Donnelly was asked by Prosecuting Attorney Meredith if he identified Latremouille as the man who was in his store that night.

"Yes," he replied. "And he was in some money."

His lordship held that the statement was got some money, did not implicate any person in a robbery, and that so far the jury could not determine but that it had been a legitimate business transaction.

Mrs. Latremouille, on being called to the witness box, declared that her husband had come home that evening very drunk, at about 8:15. She remembered the time, because she had wound the clock just before he came home. He wore that night, she said, a brown suit and a brown hat. He did not give her any money, she said, and the police, when they searched the house, could find neither money nor revolver.

Mrs. Bug, prisoner's mother-in-law, remembered him coming home, that evening. She could not remember the exact time, but thought he wore a grayish suit.

Prisoner's Defence.

"I was very drunk that night," declared Latremouille, in his own defence. "I had on this same brown suit, and do not even know where Field's store is. I remember getting on a car downtown, but after that only remembering getting home."

Prisoner declared that he had known Donnelly for years, and had served him hundreds of times.

"Then," said his lordship, "if he identifies you as being in his store, he—"

Here his lordship broke off, remembering the protest against Donnelly's evidence.

The evidence of Police Sergeant Grant and Constable Lipsitt was to the effect that they had both seen Latremouille that night, and that 9:50 was the time he got home, not 8:15, as stated by Mrs. Latremouille. Lipsitt declared that he thought prisoner wore a gray coat. Grant also stated that he was not so very drunk.

RENOVATING CO. Hillcrest 1889.

Mr. Curry objected strongly to the evidence of William J. Donnelly, whose store was robbed on the same evening being admitted. After Donnelly had answered the questions, Mr. Curry asked the jury to retire, and then on the grounds that Donnelly's statement that he recognized Latremouille as being in his store, and that he saw him leaving the store, would have the effect of influencing the minds of the jury, the same as a previous conviction, he declared that there had been a miscarriage, and that the jury should now be discharged and the case retried at the next assizes.

On his lordship declining to grant a new trial, Mr. Curry asked the jury to return a verdict of guilty.

MUSIC TAUGHT FREE

HOME INSTRUCTION

Special Offer to Readers of The World.

In order to advertise and introduce their home study music lessons in every locality the International Institute of Music of New York will give free to our readers a complete course of instruction for either Piano, Organ, Violin, Mandolin, Guitar, Cornet, Banjo, Cello or Eight Singing. In return they simply ask that you recommend their institute to your friends after you learn to play.

You may not know one note from another; yet, by this wonderfully simple and thorough method, you can learn to play. If you are an advanced player you will receive special instruction.

The lessons are sent weekly. They are so simple and easy that they are recommended to any person of little child who can read English. Photographs and drawings make everything plain. Under the Institute's free tuition offer you will be asked to pay only a very small amount (averaging 14 cents a week) of cover postage and the necessary sheet music.

No one should overlook this wonderful offer. Tell your friends about it—show this article to them.

The International Institute has successfully taught others and can successfully teach you, even if you know absolutely nothing whatever about music. The lessons make everything clear. Write for a free booklet, which explains everything. It will convince you and cost you nothing. Address your letter or postal card to International Institute of Music, 98 Fulton St., Dept. 270-A, New York, N. Y.

Take This, Weak Man!

Use it in your home. It will restore your vital power, cure your rheumatism, backache, neuritis, chronic ailments, and make you the man you used to be.

In the words of the poet, "While you live, enjoy! For, once dead, you never shall return!"

Here in this booklet we have everything to make us happy. We have much misery, it is true, but most of it can be traced to man's own weaknesses.

To be healthy and strong is to be happy. If you are unable to enjoy the gifts which nature has bestowed so lavishly upon mankind, it is because of some fault of your own. You were endowed with a constitution that should have held good for your allotted term, score and ten years, but you have broken nature's laws, and now you are paying the penalty.

You have wasted your vitality. You have traveled the pace that kills. The spark of life has been snuffed by your own follies.

Brace up! Arouse yourself from the state of dejection into which you have fallen. Turn your back upon the past. Make up your mind that while you live you are going to be a live man. Avail yourself of the means which nature has placed within your reach for overcoming your physical ills. Make this world a heaven. Be healthy and happy. Radiate sunshine and joy. Get back your strength and ambition by wearing my Belt, write you steep.

My Belt is a scientific device for infusing a "subtle stream of life-giving electricity" into the human system for hours at a time, without the least shock or irritation.

Under its powerful influence your pains and aches vanish like mist before the morning sun. The blood courses through your veins with renewed vigor. The glow of health returns to your cheeks, and you feel the thrill of new life that comes with increased vitality and nerve power.

It can show you plenty of men who came to me at a last resort after being told by medical doctors that they could never hope to regain their old-time energy and who are now in possession of perfect health and strength. The men will tell you that I don't praise my Belt half enough.

It does not matter how skeptical you may be, I am ready to prove to you my own satisfaction that my appearance is due to the use of my Belt. Dr. McLaughlin—St. Mary's, Ont., Aug. 24, 1912.

Dear Sir,—After wearing your Belt for six weeks I find a wonderful improvement. The lame back I had been suffering with for years is now a different person. I am more than pleased with the Belt. It has fixed me up fine in every way. Wishing you every success, I remain, Yours truly, Thomas Teavin.

FREE TO YOU

You ought to read my big free book explaining my method of treatment. This book is illustrated with photos, showing how my Belt is applied, and contains some of the most interesting information that you can't call. I'll send it, please, to you, if you will send me your name and address. Consultation free. Office hours—9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday and Saturday till 8:30 p.m.
