C.P.R. DIRECTORS ARE CONSERVATIVE.

World Office, Tuesday, Aug. 14.

At the meeting of the C.P.R. directors on Monday, only the old rate of dividend, viz., 3 per cent, on the common stock for the half year, was declared, altho the surplus after payment of all dividends declared for the year was $8,268,082. Keen dissatisfaction was felt among speculators, in that a greater distribution to shareholders was not announced. The splendid surplus carried forward demonstrated the ultra-conservative character of the directorate. Accumulations of reserve like to that of last year may not have the lightning effect on the stock that an increased dividend would, but it certainly contains the substance that will give the shares inherent value in an adverse market. Nothing perhaps could add more to the esteem of these shares among the British and European investors than the policy followed out at the meeting. The action was not appreciated by the clearly speculative fraternity, and stock held as a gamble over the meeting was discarded to-day in disgust. The retention of moneys in the treasury of the company that might otherwise be dissipated in dividends strengthens the position of the security and shows a consideration for future years when earnings may not be as prolific sideration for future years when earnings may not be as prolific of profit as at present. Herbert H. Ball.
