"As to the tariff, what shall I say?" he continued. "Is there a sound scheme which hon. gentlemen oppose, and are builded for themselves, in which they have installed their gods and said, 'There be our gods, Israel, and here we will call them and worship?' Is there one single shrine that they have ever sanctified and filled and worshipped that has been profitable to the people?"

molished, from which they have not cast out their gods and gone into what they used to call the old Canaanish country and embraced its idolatry, and put them on a pedestal and bowed down to them.

Mr. Foster then went on to point out that these one-time apostles of free trade had now arrived at a tariff that was the ne plus ultra of protectionism, plus bounties, and plus duties, and plus chicanery. Mr. Foster also pointed out that in 1896 the total expenditure was Discase Problem on the Isthmus.

New York Times: The troubles in the Panama situation are apparently increasing daily. The designation of Chief Engineer Valcarlos as left in his own plans for organization are left in a confused and incomplete state, and even so much depends on centralized and authoritative control of complicated system of work is followed by a yellow fever cases increasing in number.

While there may be no occasion for a formal declaration of quarantine, the spread of either disease their existence in any shape cannot fail to have a demoralizing effect on the workmen already on the ground and on those who demoralize others who may contemplate joining the force.

The disease has spread to other parts in the neighborhood, and a declaration of quarantine against the neighborhood is being considered. A quiet public opinion regarding the necessity of less than $5 be paid for attendance of less than $5 be paid for attendance after the summer holidays. Trust Kent thought that it should be left to the management committee. Mr. Martin referred to her motion that the school, in at least three of the public schools, and of the high schools, be discontinued after the holidays, and asked to have the motion put over until September as she had not time to prepare a policy. the situation of affairs. "It is quite clear that the sanitary problem is one of first importance," he said.

The most strenuous efforts of the chief health officer at Panama should be directed toward the removal of the city with the least possible delay. It has been hitherto hampered in any way by the lack of funds, the lack of the exercise of his authority. In other way can the present difficulties be met. In the present situation of sanitary science and the well-understood preventive measures

Is Oscar Wilde Living?

Boston Herald: Is Oscar Wilde still alive? The tale which has been published about him from literary folk for years, that he is not, is dead only to the world, is not. He is still living, as recognition by a writer in the careful Illustrated Weekly while not vouching for the truth of the story.

The recommendation of the finance committee's report "that Mr. Richardson be paid no more than the allowed amount nor instructed to reimburse his expenses in attending education conventions, etc., during the vacation."

Trustee Levee favored the claim because Mr. Richardson went to St. Louis everly, as it came him. He quoted "very charming and clever woman" and "a very good cook" and "a very good cookshop." The charming woman related to him, softly, during the interview, that she had been told that the monks in a Spanish cloister had taken the poet under their shelter. The poet was "an actual meeting with Wilde" right "in the work," and of a 10-minute talk at the time of the clerk's outgivings sundry "regret having forgotten him so far."

Windsor, July 6.—Friends of Will Forber and Frank Beaman, the Windsor boys now serving a term in the Federal House of Correction, for being implicated in the smuggling of opium into the United States, are circulating a petition to be sent to the British ambassador at Washington asking his assistance in obtaining their release.

Case of Bright's Disease.

According to Dr. T. L. Macdonald, the combined with gorging, explains the frequency of Bright's disease in rich, over-eating, and over-drinking circles at Washington. He says that the mental activity and physical exertion of the soldier are the chief aids in its production, and that drinking causes the disease in a cumulative fashion. Bright's disease is prone to attack the intellectual and the sensitive, and the cause is generally the patient's cause as in general is the cause of all diseases.

SALARY AND HONORARIUM IN PAYMENT OF TEACHER

Why Superintendent Richardson Not Allowed $50 Towards Ex- penses During the Vacation.

The board of education held the regular meeting last night. Trustadavis moved that no classes with pendance of less than 35 be open after the summer holidays. Trust thought that it should be left with the management committee. Miss Martin referred to her motion that education in at least three of the public schools, and one of the high schools be discontinued after the holidays, and asked to have the motion laid over until September, as she had not met the teachers collectively as she hoped.
