A LOCAL BUDGET

—Miss Ada Cutting, who has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. Sutherland, Wolfe street, for the last few weeks, returned home today.

—Mr. J. E. Smallman, of Grand avenue, South London, had his wheel stolen last evening. He left it standing on the street, and returning in a few minutes found it had disappeared. The police have been notified.

—The Bishop of Huron will administer the rite of confirmation to a number of candidates in Christ Church, Dresden, tomorrow evening. Mrs. Baldwin will address the ladies of the parish the same afternoon.

THE CARLYLE RECITAL.

The last of the Carlyle recitals will be given tomorrow (Thursday) evening, in the new concert salon of the London Piano and Music Company, at 188 Dundas street, which has been made ready for this last reading. Carlyle's most remarkable voice will doubtless display to the best advantage the excellent acoustic properties of this new candidate for public favor.

Of Carlyle's "Lady of Lyons," the play for tomorrow evening, the San Francisco Bulletin says: "Mr. Carlyle's 'Claude Melnotte' stamps him as one of the great romantic actors of the time. It is pathetically tender, noble, and full of the refinement of delicate feeling. It is passionate and full of Southern warmth. His renunciation of Pauline was magnificent." This will be the last opportunity of hearing the refined and remarkable man in good literature, skillfully interpreted.

CLEVER STUDENTS

Londoners Make a Good Showing at Toronto University.

London students made a good showing at the Toronto University as the results of the examinations show: Miss C. McDonald has carried off the bankers' scholarship in the first year, while Miss A. FEE OF $10

Will Be Charged Pupils at the Collegiate Institute.

This Affects All Departments—Mrs. McDermid Before the Board Re Cigarette Smoking—Minor Matters.

Pupils attending the Collegiate Institute will be charged a fee of $10 for all departments of the institute, including the commercial form. This move was decided upon at the regular session of the board of education last night. After mid-summer holidays the new regulation will come into practice. It is believed that the revenue derived therefrom will total $5,000. Principal Merchant stating that he did not think that the fee would materially affect the attendance.

On recommendation of Inspector Carson, the high school entrance examination will be held on June 23, 29 and 30. The reports of No. 1 and No. 2 committees of the board were adopted.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE FEES.

Trustee Bayly moved the adoption of the recommendation to impose fees of $10 and $15 upon the Collegiate Institute, which was seconded by Mr. Evans. Mr. Bayly said there were two reasons for imposing the fee. The first was to raise a revenue and the second was to discourage the attendance in the upper school. He pointed out that the cost of the school for maintenance had increased greatly of late years.

Dr. Campbell believed there should be no fees. The school here, he believed, had proved the most prosperous school in the Dominion. Expense had not been spared to place the school in its present high position, and he believed that to impose a fee would have the effect of causing retrogression.

High schools in the United States were free, and even some of the best universities were without fees. Education was the salvation of the nation. The fee would discourage the poor; free schools, and even the truant officer, were now needed to keep many of them in school. He believed a fee should be on the commercial school. He did not know that he would oppose the move, but considered it his duty to call attention to this view of the matter.

Dr. Teasdale agreed with Dr. Campbell that the commercial school should have no fees, as they were in competition with the business colleges. He moved that the fee be $10 upon the primary school and $12 for the other. And after the first year that a fee of $8 be charged for the commercial form. This was seconded by Mr. Zeigler.

Dr. English moved that the fee at the commercial form be $10. He supported the committee's report for $15 in the upper school.

Principal Merchant stated that a $5 examination fee was charged on the upper school at present, which would make the total fee $20.

Mr. Hamilton said the working people would be the hardest hit by this scheme. It would cut off the poor man's sons from being a professional man. He endorsed what Dr. Campbell had said.

Mr. Macpherson said public opinion was not demanding the imposition of a fee. What was $5,000 to a city like London? He would object to no fees upon education. He thought it ill became a professional man to say it was advisable to discourage attendance in the upper school. It looked as though somebody was afraid of competition.

Mr. Hughes said there was no doubt that a majority of the people were in favor of the fee.

Mr. Evans thought it would be a mistake to impose a fee on the commercial school. Otherwise he thought the fee was advisable.

Mr. Gillen was entirely opposed to the fee system.

Mr. Bayly made a pointed reply. Education, he agreed, should be free. But there should be a limit. He agreed with the advisability of imposing a fee on the commercial school.

Principal Merchant thought the fee might affect the attendance one-third and one-half possibly. He thought a poor man would raise $10 or $15, but when it came to $25 possibly, or $30 a month, it would shut his child out.

It was then moved by Dr. English that the fee be $10 all round. Mr. Jones seconded.

The fee was made $10 on all departments of the institute, from division 6, 7 and 8 up. This included the whole of the forms of the institute as regulated by the government. The first five divisions take up public school work. The amendment was carried on the following division: Mr. Zeigler, Messrs. McCormick, Dr. English, Bayly, Boyle, Colebrook, Jones, Evans, Regan, Teasdale, 10.

Nays—Dr. Campbell, Messrs. Wilkins, Hamilton, Gillen and Macpherson.

CONCERNING THE CIGARETTE EVIL—MRS. McDERMID'S STATEMENT.

I come before you tonight on behalf of the W. C. T. U., which I represent in the department of narcotics. My work is to arouse public attention to the fact that cigarette smoking among boys has become a great evil, and to devise ways and means of restricting and if possible suppressing it.

With this object in view I have visited the following schools: Princess avenue, Colborne street, King street, St. George, Rectory, Victoria, Worthy road, Quebec, Levee avenue, Aberdeen school and the Collegiate Institute. With the exception of Quebec street school, where the children are very small, and Worthy road school, I found that every school has its cigarette smokers. There is in spite of great vigilance on the part of the principals; but, as they said: "We cannot control boys out of school hours." Many of the teachers expressed earnestly their concern at the extent of the evil, and said they would be with me in anything that could be done to prevent it. One little fellow in Simcoe street is in a deplorable condition, seeming at times almost insensible from the effects of the narcotic, and is, in fact, an object lesson to the class. Mr. Burdick, late caretaker of Queen's Park, says that in the evening the harm is done. Parents allow their boys to remain on the streets after dark, and after play they congregate in groups and smoke. Out of a group of say nine boys one would rarely find more than one who did not smoke. They collect the ends of cigarettes picked off the streets and make them up in fresh paper. In many of the grocery stores may be obtained boxes of tobacco labeled "Puritan." Underneath the lid lies the paper wrappings with which the boys make their own cigarettes. The vendors thereof thus evading the law against selling cigarettes to minors. The majority of these boys inhale—the mere smoking becomes too tame. He asserts that these boys are not street gamins—they are our public school boys, the sons in many cases of well-to-do and Christian parents, parents who would indignantly reject the charge that their sons would indulge in such vice. A case was quoted in which the name given of one boy dying from the effects of cigarettes, who in his last moments cried frantically for "one more cigarette." Inspector Sanders bears testimony to the fact that he has repeatedly seen boys leave the school grounds at recess in order to smoke, and has frequently met them going to and from school with the cigarette in their mouths. Surely it is time that we who are parents should be aroused on this subject. The matter has been receiving much attention in the United States, and Charles Hubbell, chairman of the board of education of New York, has inaugurated anti-cigarette leagues, which have proved a great success. He says: "It has been my privilege in one single week to present this subject to over 5,000 school boys. Out of this number there were, I think I am safe in saying, less than 200 who failed to enroll themselves in the leagues of the respective schools attended by them. My experience teaches me that New York school boys are quick and earnestly respond to any effort that is made in the direction of helping them to the adoption of a higher standard of manliness. Convince them that this vice is unmanly, and they are against it; show them that it will surely break down the walls of their character, and they are with you. I have been frequently asked, 'Do you find that the boys stand by their pledges, made on becoming members of the league?' I am glad to be able to say that the number of smokers is unexpectedly small. It is considered such a disgrace to have the decoration of the order stripped from them, that comparatively few boys prove recreant."

If the establishment of such leagues would not be thought advisable, at least the teachers might be impressed with the thought of the deep need of making the prescribed lessons on narcotics effective, applying them especially to the cigarette.

I would also suggest that a resolution passed by the board condemning the use of the cigarette might arouse the attention of parents and stimulate them to greater watchfulness over the habits of their children.

The board agreed to the request of Mrs. McDermid, and No. 2 committee will see what can be done in the matter.

The members present were Dr. Teasdale (chairman), Dr. English, Dr. Zeigler and Messrs. McCormick, Bayly, Wilkins, Colerick, Jones, Boyle, Hamilton, Regan, Macpherson, Inspector Carson, Principal Merchant and Secretary McElheran.

KILLED AT COLBORNE STREET

Richard Hughes, of Brydges Street, Struck by a G. T. R. Train.

Was Discovered on the Engine Pilot at the Station—The Brain Injured—Death Followed Two Hours After the Accident.

When the Grand Trunk train, No. 513, a passenger special from the Guelph Model Farm, pulled up at the station at 9:30 o'clock last night, Car Distributor Auld, who chanced to walk in front of the engine, was horrified to see the body of a man lying across the top of the pilot, firmly held by one of the flag posts. The man, when removed, was in an unconscious condition, and a gaping wound in the forehead showed that he had been terribly injured.

It was learned later that he was Richard Hughes, of Brydges street. He had been walking south across the tracks at Colborne street as the special approached, and was apparently unconscious of his danger. Crossing Watchman Fred Albertstadt called to him, and the unfortunate man stood still between the rails. In a twinkling he was struck by the engine. Night Watchman Auld saw the accident and hurried to the spot with his lantern, expecting to find the body along the tracks. Nothing could be found but the man's hat. The driver on the special had noticed nothing unusual, and did not stop at 11 o'clock. Mr. Hughes was 47 years of age, and lived with his brother-in-law, Mr. Holmes. He was a shoemaker, and had resided in London for several years. He leaves no family.

FAGGED OUT—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength has gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there was nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Pills.

Our manners and customs go for more in life than our qualities. The price we pay for our civilization is the fine yet impassable differentiation of these.—Howell.
