MRS. THOS. McAVITY HAS PASSED AWAY

Death Occurred at Early Hour This Morning After Illness of Almost a Year—Will be Sincerely Mourned by Many Friends.

A wide circle of friends in the community will be saddened to learn of the death of Elizabeth Anne McAvity, beloved wife of Thomas McAvity, which occurred at her home, 192 King street, East, at an early hour this morning.

Mrs. McAvity, who was seventy-six years of age, had been in failing health for almost a year. She was born in St. John, the only child of the late Captain James H. and Margaret Haddon. She is survived by her husband, one son, Mr. Haddon McAvity, and two daughters, Mrs. Frank A. Fairweather and Mrs. Horace A. Porter, all living in St. John.

A kindly woman of generous impulses, in the more active years of her life she was keenly interested in charitable work and manifested a particular benevolence towards the poor. She was a lifelong member of St. John's (Stone) church and closely identified with the activities of the congregation.

Mrs. McAvity was a woman beloved by all who knew her and the genuine sympathy of the many friends of the family go out to them in their bereavement.

RECENT DEATHS

William Wright.
Newcastle, June 1.—(Special)—William Wright, one of Newcastle's best known residents, passed away at an early hour this morning after an illness of several months. In his younger days Mr. Wright was a well known stovemaker and millman and later a fish warden on the Miramichi. He is survived by his wife, three sons, and a daughter. The sons are William, George, and Raymond, all of Montreal, two daughters, Miss Hugh Quilly, of Newcastle, and Mrs. John O'Reilly, of New York.

John Ryan.
Newcastle, June 1.—(Special)—John Ryan, a well known farmer and lumberman, died at his home, Chapin Road, on Sunday, May 28, aged seventy-five. He leaves a wife (formerly Miss Elizabeth Moran, Blissett), five sons, Dennis, John, James, William and George, all of Chapin Road; also three daughters, Mollie, (Sister Beatrice), of Providence, (R. I.), Thelma and Annie at home; one sister (Mary), Sister St. Peter of the Good Shepherd, Milwaukee, (Wis.), and one brother, George D. Ryan, of Oskosh, (Wis.).

Florence O'Regan.
The death of Florence O'Regan, which occurred early this morning at the Home for incurables, removes a man who for many years was a familiar figure around the water-front. In the days of wooden ships Mr. O'Regan sailed to many ports, and in later years was engaged in work about the wharves and ships. His reminiscences of the old days were always interesting. Mr. O'Regan was stricken with partial paralysis several years ago, and later became afflicted with cancer. His suffering came to a peaceful end this morning. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Richard Callaghan of this city, and two sons, Richard F. O'Regan, a well known member of St. Peter's baseball team, and Wilbert F. O'Regan of Boston. There are also several grandchildren and other relatives. Many friends will sympathize with the family in their bereavement.

TWO ARE DROWNED IN ST. CROIX RIVER

Father Gives Life in Vain Effort to Save Son.

St. Stephen, June 1.—A sad fatality occurred late this afternoon at Woodland, on the St. Croix river, about eighteen miles from St. Stephen. It is the site of a large dam of the St. Croix Paper Company and of a large power plant of that company. About 5 o'clock this afternoon, while children were fishing from the bank, one little boy, Freddie Guest, about six years of age, slipped from the bank into the river. His companions gave a speedy alarm and the child's father, William Guest, rushed from the power plant, where he was employed, and plunged into the rapidly running river in a vain effort to save his child. Both were swept down stream and were drowned. Mr. Guest was an industrious citizen, a valued employee of the paper company and popular with all who knew him. He was about forty

CHINESE FEMINIST.

Editor and Emancipator is Studying at Columbia.

Miss Alice Lee, one of the first Chinese women to become a feminist, and a pioneer in the movement to have women's feet unbound, has recently been staying at the Pennsylvania Hotel, New York. She is the daughter of the Chinese minister of education and, as one of the revolutionaries instrumental in making China a republic, she has had a most varied career.

"Upon my graduation from an American school in China," Miss Lee tells, "I became editor of the women's paper of an important Chinese newspaper, the name of which could be liberally translated as Fair Play, and my page dealt with all subjects pertaining to the advancement of the Chinese woman."

"The Viceroy of Tientsin became so interested in my work that he opened a school and persuaded me to take charge of it. It was supported by government funds and was the first common school for girls in China; the boys had been receiving a liberal education, but prior to that time the girls had been neglected."

"In Tientsin, while I was doing this work, I met Miss Chu King, an older woman, and together we founded a magazine for women, the name of which in English would be The Woman's World. Miss King was the business manager of this magazine and furnished the funds and I was the editor. While it was ostensibly a magazine devoted to women's interests, this cloak a deeper purpose, for it was really an organ of the revolution. Miss King was not only engaged in the management of this paper, but was actively engaged in working with the revolutionaries in Hong Chow. At last our activities were discovered by the government."

"I was in Tientsin at the time, and Miss King was in Hong Chow. Of course we were frightened, but we stood fast by our principles. One terrible morning word reached me that my friend, Miss King, had been arrested. She was dead, for without a trial they took her out and beheaded her. She was the first woman martyr to shed her blood for her country and for the republic."

"Why did they not get me? I do not know. I lived in constant fear of arrest. Many persons lost their lives, but for some reason they passed me by, and then came the revolution, and my old friend, the Viceroy of Tientsin, became president of the republic."

"I am studying at Columbia now that I may go back and teach my people. I believe in the future of China, and, above all, in the emancipation of her women. We have progressed very fast in the last eleven years that I have been working, and I believe that even more rapid strides will be made in the next few years."

Use the Want Ad. Way

TWO THOUGHTS.
I like to think that every wind that blows
Is just a breath of God's, and breathes on me
A tender benediction ere it goes
To waft the flower's perfume to the bee.
And then I think that every lovely flower
Grows from a spot where God's Thoughts rested, late
Perhaps, long after sunset hour,
For beauty must unfold where God can wait.
