SHOOT'S YOUNG WIFE THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Jealous Husband Sends Bullet Into Her Back as He Kisses Her Good-Bye—Then Tries to Restore Her.

West Nyack, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Harry Scott, a New York business man, called his young wife downstairs in their home here, told her he had forgotten his commutation ticket and asked her to wait while he ran up and got it from a bureau drawer, that he might kiss his good-bye.

A moment later Scott ran downstairs, drew the unusually pretty twenty-six-year-old wife close to him with an encircling left arm, pressed his lips to hers, put his right arm about her and shot her through the back. She fell unconscious and probably will die.

Scott, applying such crude surgical means as he knew, working over her for three hours, interrupting his ministrations now and then to bathe and dress and feed their nine-month-old twin boys. Then, as he heard Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Cornell, his wife's parents, returning from New York, he ran from the back door into the woods and killed himself with the same pistol. State troopers found his body in the woods a quarter of a mile from the home this afternoon.

Because jealousy because of his wife's beauty was the only motive her mother and father could offer to investigating officials. They said Scott loved his wife deeply and treated her perfectly, but that he could not bear even the faintest hint of admiration for her from any other man. They told that not long ago the couple were in a Manhattan department store. The wife was buying ribbon, and Scott, waiting near, heard a passing man remark to another:

"There is an unusually beautiful woman."

Their son-in-law was so enraged, they said, he started a fight with the two men and caused such a disturbance his wife threatened never to appear in public with him again unless he would promise to get sensibly.

Sergeant Francis McGarvey of the state police, District-Attorney Morton E. Loxow and Sheriff Al Merritt could find no more tangible motive for Scott's acts, but are continuing their investigation. They have little hope of learning anything material unless Mrs. Scott recovers. Tonight she still is unconscious and under the constant care in her home of Dr. S. W. S. Toms of Nyack.

Scott had started for New York, where, according to Mr. Cornell, he was employed as assistant manager by Kregg & Co., paper dealers, with Mr. and Mrs. Cornell, who were going on a shopping tour. He left them at the station, saying he had forgotten his commutation ticket. They are convinced that he really went back to kill his wife and that he called her downstairs that he might get his pistol from the bureau drawer unseen and thus encounter no resistance. Had he really gone back for the ticket, they say, he would have called to his wife to bring it down to him, instead of calling her down and then going up for it himself while she waited below.

The Cornell heard the back door slam as they returned in the evening. Upstairs they found the twins in bed and the wife unconscious. In another, Scott had taken some gauze from a medicine chest and applied it to the wound, which extended around the ribs, the bullet coming out in front.

After Dr. Toms arrived Mrs. Scott revived long enough to tell her story. She said she thought she heard a shot in the woods just as her mother and father came home, as she was conscious then for a moment.

Search was started at once, but in the darkness Scott's body lay hidden among the trees, and it was not until the attempt to find him was renewed today that it was discovered.

Directories do not show any Kregg & Co. or any firm of similar name in or about New York.

ECONOMICAL

VIEWPOINT OF DELICATESSEN

When, instead of spending a dollar, you only spend half of that, isn't that saving?

When you buy two items where only one is needed—well, that's waste, isn't it?

So, instead of making up a whole pot of stew the wise, the intelligent, the economical thing to do is buy it all ready to eat, in just exactly the quantity required.

Pint or quart should be enough instead of a gallon.

And, oh, the goodness of College Inn Beef Stew! Expertly home-produced from old-fashioned recipe, superbly but delicately seasoned, and made in the anticipation of true delight.

Also Mol's Dandee Loaf—16 cents. 105 Charlotte Street, opposite the Dufferin.

TELEGRAPH-TIMES

MEN WINNERS, 8-7

In a close game on the East End grounds last evening the Telegraph-Times aggregation of ball players defeated the Furness-Witby team, the score at the end of the first half of the eighth inning, when the game was called owing to the fog being 8-7. Both teams played snappy ball and the winner was in doubt until the last inning.

The Furness-Witby team started out well, getting one run in the first inning and two more in the second while the Telegraph-Times scribbled in both innings. In the third inning the newspaper men started and before their opponents could retire the third man five scribbles had crossed the plate. Neither team scored again until the seventh inning when the Telegraph-Times scored one and the Furness-Witby team scored one and the Telegraph-Times three times.

The feature of the game was a home run by McCachern, a liner to deep right field, with two men on bases. McCormack, the second baseman of the steamship team, fielded his position in excellent shape and pulled off a nice double play, unassisted.

Both Johnston and Thompson pitched good ball, the former having seven strikeouts and the latter four. The line-up was as follows:

Furness-Witby—Cuthbertson, catcher;
