Measure It's Cost In Years, Not Dollars

A purchase of a New Edison is a purchase of music. You must measure its cost, not by what you pay for the instrument—but by the length of time you enjoy its music.

If you wait for a year before buying—you lose a year of music. Buying next month means the loss of music for this month.

Several bottles were taken from the shop and only one tested above 25 per cent, while the rest were below the percentage required by law. Mr. Bell's shop was reopened Thursday.

She was a member of St. Luke's church.

POLICE COURT.

In the police court this morning, a case against Robert W. Wilson charged with non-support, was resumed. He was allowed by the court to make arrangements for support of his wife and child.

The case against Thomas Petrie and George Drew, on suspicion of breaking and entering into the store of Sydney Isaacs in Mill street, several weeks ago, was resumed. On account of the illness of Mr. Isaacs, who recently went south for his health, the prosecution closed the case and Petrie was committed for trial, while Drew was ordered to take his trial but not on commitment.

Robert Lovely was charged with sending threatening letters to Robert E. Jones, saying he would get even with him. Mr. Jones asked that the accused be compelled to get sureties to keep the peace. The accused pleaded guilty, but said he blamed the complainant with advising his wife to leave home and on account of this he sent the letters. He is a native of Perth, and a stranger here, so until proper sureties are obtained he must remain in jail.

One man charged with drunkenness pleaded guilty and was remanded, while another was arrested in the Union station yesterday morning but was too drunk to appear in court until this morning. N. B. Policeman Ross, who made the arrest, told of the incident, and the accused was remanded.

A SAMPLE BRICK.

The Standard this morning says: "The course adopted by the leader of the opposition so took the government aback that despite the fact that the house had still two hours to sit, Premier Foster moved the adjournment so that he might consult his colleagues as to how they were to get out of the mess."

That the leading organ of the opposition should feature this fulsome after the premier had courteously deferred the debate on the address to suit the convenience of the leader of the opposition is characteristic of the opposition idea of fairness.

The house adjourned early yesterday as is the invariable rule early in the session, in order that members might catch the train home for the week-end. The Standard knew this, and deliberately misrepresented the case.

HOPES AND AIMS OF FOUNDERS OF THE DOMINION

Sir John Macdonald, Before Confederation, Saw Future Greatness of St. John and Halifax.

It will interest today's visitors from the west to know what was in the mind of Sir John Macdonald in relation to national ports when he was urging these provinces to unite with old Canada and form the Dominion of Canada. Speaking regarding John. Today with St. John the Atlantic terminus of the Canadian Pacific and a terminus of two great lines of government railway, the words of Sir John Macdonald have special significance. He said in Halifax:

"We recognize, however, the fact that peace may not always exist, and that we must have some other means of outlet. If we do not wish to be cut off from the ocean for some months in the year. We wish to feel greater security—to know that we can have assistance readily in the hour of danger. In the case of a union, this railway must be a national work, and Canada will cheerfully contribute to the utmost extent in order to make that important link without which no political connection can be complete. What will be the consequence to this city, however as it is, from that connection? Montreal is at this moment competing with New York for the trade of the great west. Build the road and Halifax will soon become one of the great emporiums of the world. All the great resources of the west will come over the immense railways of Canada to the bosom of your harbor. But there are even greater advantages for us all in view. We will become a great nation, and God forbid that it should be one separate from the united kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland." (Cheers.)

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The report of A. E. Frane, provincial secretary, told of six new branches formed during the year, making the total twenty-two for the province. The new branches organized were at Milltown, Perth, McAdam, Campbellton, Centerville and Hampton. The report recommended appointment of a committee to select points in the province where it would be desirable to have branches formed, and pointed out the need of a provincial organizer.

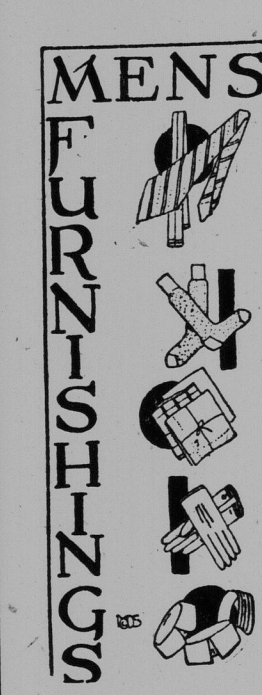

During the year a committee composed of Comrades Kinner, Allingham and Frane had interviewed the premier as to a cash grant to the provincial command. The answer was not satisfactory according to the report, and will be brought before the convention.

The secretary recommended the appointment of a committee to look into the policy of the Farm Settlement Board in the province. It said: "Apparently the settlers are not going on crown lands but on worked farms. This policy will not tend to increase our production nor cultivated areas, but rather to cause an increase in land values by the demand for ready-made farms."

The report spoke of more than 400 questionnaires sent to widows of soldiers in the province, and their being used as evidence at the hearing of the parliamentary committee. The report was laid on the table for discussion.

The financial report, audited and found correct, showed total receipts of $1,644.05 and expenditures of $1,205.86.
