

DOWLING BROS.
The Largest Retail Distributors of Ladies' Coats, Skirts and Blouse Waists in the Maritime Provinces.

Sale of Ladies' Suits

Exceptional values will be offered in this sale. The styles are the newest introduced this season and the materials and trimmings are of a high grade character.

Prices $10 to $18.90
For Values of $17.50 to $30

DOWLING BROS.
95 and 101 King Street

STANDARD PATTERNS are a good seller because people know they can rely upon them.

DYKEMAN'S COTTON DRESSES

for these fine warm days when you wish to keep cool and look stylish and jaunty.

Fine White Lawn Dresses, most of them made from allover Hamburg, very daintily made with high waist line, new set-in sleeve, very prettily tacked and set with insertion. Others are made from fine lawn in the newest style. Prices from $2.98 to $10.50.

Two very special and very popular lines are priced $5.25 and $6.75. These dresses are worth from $7.50 to $10 being so dainty and attractive in design and workmanship.

Colored Cotton Dresses. We have a large number of these many of them simple dresses which were secured at a big reduction and these stylish dresses are being passed along to our customers at equally low prices. We also have a special lot of dresses which we were fortunate in securing at a fraction of their cost. So that these, together with those of our regular stock make a most attractive display of colored dresses at most attractive prices. Prices from $2.75 to $6.

F. A. DYKEMAN & CO.
59 Charlotte Street

Snappy Styles in Men's Straws

This season we are showing the largest, most complete, most varied line of Men's Straw Hats we have ever offered, including all the latest brims and most fashionable shapes, among the more popular being the Soft Straw Yacht with snap brim, which can be easily turned down in front, back or side; also the more dressy Boater model with firm, straight brim, in either of these styles.

Prices Range From 75c to $3.00 Each.

J. L. THORNE & CO., The Centre For Seasonable Headwear
55 CHARLOTTE STREET

SPECIAL SALE
Tapestry and Brussels Carpet
July 2nd to 13th

We have placed on sale our entire stock of Carpet of the same high grades and reliable makes, the same artistic patterns and colors that have such high furnishing value, but, a fourth or a third of the usual cost dropped from the price.

TAPESTRY CARPET	regular price	reduced to	BRUSSELS CARPET	regular price	reduced to
$ .95 yard	1.25	85c	$1.25 yard	1.75	1.15
1.10 yard	1.50	1.00	1.80 yard	2.25	1.50
.80 yard	1.00	70c	1.15 yard	1.50	1.00

S. W. McMACKIN, 335 MAIN ST.

MID-SUMMER CLEARANCE SALE
Second Hand Pianos and Organs

No. 1—Upright Piano by Jenkins & Scribner. A beautiful instrument for a child to practise on. Original price $300.00, now $65.00. Terms: $8.00 down and $4.00 per month.

No. 2—Upright Piano, by George Anderson. Good little piano to practise on. Original price $300.00, now $25.00. Terms: $7.00 down, $4.00 per month.

No. 3—Square Piano, by A. McPherson, Jr. Original price $425.00, now $30.00. Terms: $7.00 down, $5.00 per month.

No. 4—Five Octave Organ (Standard), four sets of reeds, excellent tone, original price $110.00, now $30.00. Terms: $20.00 down and $5.00 per month.

No. 5—Upright Organ, four sets of reeds, treble and bass couplers. Original price $120.00, now $30.00. Terms: $20.00 down, $4.00 per month.

No. 6—Doberty Organ, five octave, treble and bass couplers, mouse-proof pedals, heavy plate mirror, beautiful black walnut case. Original price $125.00, now $35.00. Terms: $8.00 down, $4.00 per month.

A good stool and book included with each instrument. Parties living out of town, we will ship and prepay freight to their nearest station. Every instrument thoroughly guaranteed. Call at our warehouses, or write or phone for further particulars.

The C. H. TOWNSEND PIANO CO., 25 Germain St. St. John, N. B.

LOCAL NEWS

BATTLE LINE
S. S. Eretia, Captain Purdy, from Rosario, arrived at Hull today.

ST. JOHN LADIES IN IT
An enjoyable programme was carried out at Hibernia Monday evening by the Misses Knight and Miss Marion Magee, of St. John. It consisted of vocal and instrumental solo numbers, duets, and trios by the Misses Knight and Magee, who were assisted by Mrs. C. J. Osmann and Miss Lynde, who were heard in readings.

WAS NEW BRUNSWICKER
William M. Richardson, formerly a Maine Central railroad engineer, living in Bangor, was knocked from the cab of his locomotive on the Vermont Central near St. Albans on Saturday morning when his head struck a bridge. He fell into six feet of water and death was instantaneous. Mr. Richardson was born in New Brunswick.

TROOP CHANDLER
Moncton Transcript Miss Leah Chandler, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Chandler, surprised her friends by being quietly married this morning in Saint Bernard's church to Stewart H. Troop. Miss Chandler is a great granddaughter of the late Governor Chandler, and a grand niece of the late Sir James Carter, a former chief justice of New Brunswick. Mr. Troop is a son of Frederick Bay, Ontario, and he is a son of Frederick Troop of Grandville Ferry, N. S.

NOT YET DETERMINED
The announcement made in connection with the programme for Old Home Week to the effect that the Knights of Pythias would hold a reception on Friday evening was said today by the chairman of the committee appointed to consider the affair to be premature. The committee will meet tomorrow evening to decide as to whether or not they will conduct the reception, and until then, no definite announcement can be made.

CADETS INSPECTED
The annual inspection of the St. Andrew's church Scottish cadets took place last evening. The company was in command of Captain C. E. Inches and the inspecting officer was Lieutenant Roscoe, R.C.R. After the inspection Captain Roscoe addressed the boys, complimenting them on their efficiency and their smart appearance. The cadets camp will be held this year at Alton, N. S., from August 16 to 21. The camp is open to cadets, school boys of cadet age who are recommended by their teachers and to boy scouts.

A PRETTY INCIDENT
As Miss Margaret Anglin was coming down King Street about noon today a little youngster standing at Oak Hall corner, their clothes tattered, their faces in need of care. She stopped to the little chaps and gave them a few coppers, and then asked one of the ladies with whom she was walking to keep the little fellow for a few moments. Then she went into the store and emerged in a little while with two bundles. They contained an entire outfit of clothing for each of the little ones. The writhing scampers of old clothes delighted and filled with wonder at the kindness of a "Lady Bountiful." Had Miss Anglin known there was a newspaper man near this pretty incident might not have transpired, at least just as it did.

THE LATE MRS. WILLIAMS
Of the late Mrs. R. C. Williams, of the Transient of Moncton, says:—"In Halifax at the Old Ladies' Home on Sunday morning the death of Charity Frances, widow of Robert C. Williams and a cousin of the late J. C. Frazee, occurred. She had reached the ripe age of ninety. She spent the greater part of her life in Carlton St. John, where her husband died about forty years ago. She was also a resident of Moncton when it was known as "The Bend." She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Charles Williams, of Moncton, Mrs. Vall, of Boston, and Mrs. Adams of Worcester, and one son, ex-conductor W. H. Williams, of Moncton.

BERWICK CAMP MEETINGS
The annual camp meeting of the Methodist church of Nova Scotia will be held on their camp grounds at Berwick, N. S. from August 7 to 15 inclusive. Rev. Dr. Samuel Gray, of Amherst, Mass., who will be remembered through his connection with the simultaneous campaign at St. John, will again be the chief evangelist. He will be assisted by Rev. J. W. Akers and W. A. Clark, special workers for men and boys. The programme will include a Bible study class every morning led by Doctor Gray, a daily conference for ministers and workers, led by Mr. Akers; preaching services daily at two and seven o'clock p. m.; Temperance Day on Tuesday, August 13, young people's rally on Wednesday and on Thursday a grand mission rally. Accommodation for visitors is found in dormitories, cottages and tents.

HEROIC ACT WHICH COST HIM HIS LIFE

Particulars of the Death of Dr. J. Douglas Trueman Received

LETTER FROM DR. BROCK

Speaks of St. John Man as Most Promising One on Geological Survey Staff, and Rapidly Making a Name for Himself in Science

"The most promising man on the staff, one who was rapidly making a name for himself in science and one whom the scientific world could ill afford to lose." These are the terms in which Doctor R. W. Brock, director of Geological Department of Canada refers to the late Dr. J. Douglas Trueman of this city, who recently lost his life in the wilds of Western Ontario.

That his reputation was more than local was shown by a letter received at Ottawa, about the time of his death, from the director of a scientific institute in Brazil commending in the warmest and most complimentary terms on an article on a geological subject from the pen of Doctor Trueman which was recently published in one of the principal American scientific journals.

In a letter from Port Arthur Doctor Brock gives a more complete story of the tragic occurrence than had been received previously. At Port Arthur he met Doctor Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, who was in the canoe at the time of the fatality, and who was then returning, badly broken in health, as a result of the experience in the water and the shock of the tragedy. Doctor Walcott tells the story.

On Monday afternoon, June 24, he and Doctor Trueman and the latter's assistant, Mr. Knox, embarked in the canoe to take a view of the surrounding country, regarding the geology of which the younger men wished to get his ideas. They paddled through Sheep Rock Lake and then went up the Seine River, which empties into the lake, going almost to the falls. Here the swift current meeting the breeze from the lake made very choppy water and in the turmoil the canoe filled and swamped.

The younger men helped to the canoe Doctor Walcott, who could not swim. He tried to hold on to the shore, but he was unable to do so. Finding it too exhausting in their water-soaked clothing, Knox left the canoe and swam ashore, where he stripped and then swam back to the others. He suggested that he could save the canoe by getting Doctor Trueman out of the water. He swam to the shore, and the latter started for the shore, swimming strongly, although very much fatigued after his struggle with the swamped canoe. Knox and Walcott had almost reached the shore when Doctor Trueman called for help. Turning, they saw him struggling in the water about fifty yards down the river. He had apparently taken a cramp, but had endeavored to hold and take care of himself until Knox had succeeded in getting Doctor Walcott out of danger.

When he heard the cry Knox thrust a cedar log in Dr. Trueman's direction and started to swim to his aid but he had sunk before he could get to him. Knox dived several times but could find no trace of him and as Doctor Walcott was too much exhausted by this time to hold up longer he had to return to his assistance. After he got him ashore, Knox emptied and righted the canoe and started out again, but after several hours of fruitless work he was forced to give up the search, and then had to make the trip to Atkinson, the nearest railway station, to wire the sad news to Ottawa.

After Doctor Brock arrived on the scene and their continued efforts to recover the body proved unavailing, he returned to Port Arthur to get a larger supply of dynamite to explode in the whirlpools and eddies, and to engage more men to help with the search. He attempted to secure divers, but was informed that the water was too deep for them to work the lake watching for the body out owing to the coldness of the water it is feared that it may not be found for some time.

NEWS OF ST. JOHN

PEOPLE IN REGINA

C. J. Milligan Wires Word of Safety—Mr. Mirey Gets Good News—Mr. Parsons' Fine Home Wrecked

The following message from C. J. Milligan, formerly of St. John, now in Regina, where he is master of titles for Saskatchewan, came today to his niece Miss Margaret Milligan of the Daily Telegraph staff and is good news. He wired:

"All well and unharmed. Home practically unharmed although we live in the center of the district covered by the cyclone."

Benjamin Mirey of King Square received word yesterday from his daughter, who is a Salvation Army captain in Regina, to the effect that she escaped the tornado and is safe.

The news of the destruction of the handsome residence of J. L. R. Parsons in Regina today will be learned with regret by the friends of Mrs. Parsons, formerly Miss Minnie Weldon, who is well known here. Mrs. Parsons, with her child is at present visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Weldon, Shediac. It is believed that her husband, who is a prominent railway contractor, was absent from Regina at the time of the destruction.

Some thirty years or so ago a cyclone swept down upon Bonaventure Point, N. B., destroying the church and several buildings, and cutting a narrow path through the trees for some distance. It occurred near the end of the week and on the Sunday following the disaster many people drove from Moncton to visit the site. It is said that an Indian and a squaw who were camping out in the woods near the point were killed by falling trees, and that in a house which was torn to the ground a sick woman was also killed.

GIVEN VETERAN'S JEWEL

Presentation to J. R. Smith Marks Installation Night of Peerless Lodge

District Deputy Grand Master, F. M. Griffiths, accompanied by grand officers last evening installed the officers of Peerless Lodge No. 19, I. O. G. T., as follows:

H. D. Ferris—N. G.
L. W. Beyer—V. G.
G. A. Chase—F. S.
M. D. Brown—Chaplain.
F. F. Meurling—J. P. G.
W. J. Seely—Warden.
Geo. Blizard—Conductor.
H. B. Elliott—R. S. N. G.
B. Gale—L. S. V. G.
A. Washburn—R. S. V. G.
E. W. Stanton—L. S. V. G.
W. Logan—R. S. S.
A. Diamond—L. S. S.
J. R. Smith—O. G.
M. D. Brown, H. B. Elliott, F. W. Stanton, trustees.

During the evening Past Grand M. D. Brown, on behalf of the lodge, presented to J. R. Smith a veteran's jewel for long and active service. Songs and speeches were given and ice cream, cake and cigars were served at the close.

MORE THAN 400 TEACHERS FOR SPECIAL PHYSICAL COURSE

More than 400 teachers will take the special course in physical instruction and sixty will attend the classes in military instruction organized by the provincial board of education this summer. The classes for the physical training will be held at Edmonstone, Fredericton, Bathurst and Richibucto for the convenience of the teachers in different parts of the province who wish to qualify for this work. The military class will be held in Fredericton. The classes all will open on July 9.

HEROIC ACT WHICH COST HIM HIS LIFE

Particulars of the Death of Dr. J. Douglas Trueman Received

LETTER FROM DR. BROCK

Speaks of St. John Man as Most Promising One on Geological Survey Staff, and Rapidly Making a Name for Himself in Science

"The most promising man on the staff, one who was rapidly making a name for himself in science and one whom the scientific world could ill afford to lose." These are the terms in which Doctor R. W. Brock, director of Geological Department of Canada refers to the late Dr. J. Douglas Trueman of this city, who recently lost his life in the wilds of Western Ontario.

That his reputation was more than local was shown by a letter received at Ottawa, about the time of his death, from the director of a scientific institute in Brazil commending in the warmest and most complimentary terms on an article on a geological subject from the pen of Doctor Trueman which was recently published in one of the principal American scientific journals.

In a letter from Port Arthur Doctor Brock gives a more complete story of the tragic occurrence than had been received previously. At Port Arthur he met Doctor Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, who was in the canoe at the time of the fatality, and who was then returning, badly broken in health, as a result of the experience in the water and the shock of the tragedy. Doctor Walcott tells the story.

On Monday afternoon, June 24, he and Doctor Trueman and the latter's assistant, Mr. Knox, embarked in the canoe to take a view of the surrounding country, regarding the geology of which the younger men wished to get his ideas. They paddled through Sheep Rock Lake and then went up the Seine River, which empties into the lake, going almost to the falls. Here the swift current meeting the breeze from the lake made very choppy water and in the turmoil the canoe filled and swamped.

The younger men helped to the canoe Doctor Walcott, who could not swim. He tried to hold on to the shore, but he was unable to do so. Finding it too exhausting in their water-soaked clothing, Knox left the canoe and swam ashore, where he stripped and then swam back to the others. He suggested that he could save the canoe by getting Doctor Trueman out of the water. He swam to the shore, and the latter started for the shore, swimming strongly, although very much fatigued after his struggle with the swamped canoe. Knox and Walcott had almost reached the shore when Doctor Trueman called for help. Turning, they saw him struggling in the water about fifty yards down the river. He had apparently taken a cramp, but had endeavored to hold and take care of himself until Knox had succeeded in getting Doctor Walcott out of danger.

When he heard the cry Knox thrust a cedar log in Dr. Trueman's direction and started to swim to his aid but he had sunk before he could get to him. Knox dived several times but could find no trace of him and as Doctor Walcott was too much exhausted by this time to hold up longer he had to return to his assistance. After he got him ashore, Knox emptied and righted the canoe and started out again, but after several hours of fruitless work he was forced to give up the search, and then had to make the trip to Atkinson, the nearest railway station, to wire the sad news to Ottawa.

After Doctor Brock arrived on the scene and their continued efforts to recover the body proved unavailing, he returned to Port Arthur to get a larger supply of dynamite to explode in the whirlpools and eddies, and to engage more men to help with the search. He attempted to secure divers, but was informed that the water was too deep for them to work the lake watching for the body out owing to the coldness of the water it is feared that it may not be found for some time.

HEROIC ACT WHICH COST HIM HIS LIFE

Particulars of the Death of Dr. J. Douglas Trueman Received

LETTER FROM DR. BROCK

Speaks of St. John Man as Most Promising One on Geological Survey Staff, and Rapidly Making a Name for Himself in Science

"The most promising man on the staff, one who was rapidly making a name for himself in science and one whom the scientific world could ill afford to lose." These are the terms in which Doctor R. W. Brock, director of Geological Department of Canada refers to the late Dr. J. Douglas Trueman of this city, who recently lost his life in the wilds of Western Ontario.

That his reputation was more than local was shown by a letter received at Ottawa, about the time of his death, from the director of a scientific institute in Brazil commending in the warmest and most complimentary terms on an article on a geological subject from the pen of Doctor Trueman which was recently published in one of the principal American scientific journals.

In a letter from Port Arthur Doctor Brock gives a more complete story of the tragic occurrence than had been received previously. At Port Arthur he met Doctor Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, who was in the canoe at the time of the fatality, and who was then returning, badly broken in health, as a result of the experience in the water and the shock of the tragedy. Doctor Walcott tells the story.

On Monday afternoon, June 24, he and Doctor Trueman and the latter's assistant, Mr. Knox, embarked in the canoe to take a view of the surrounding country, regarding the geology of which the younger men wished to get his ideas. They paddled through Sheep Rock Lake and then went up the Seine River, which empties into the lake, going almost to the falls. Here the swift current meeting the breeze from the lake made very choppy water and in the turmoil the canoe filled and swamped.

The younger men helped to the canoe Doctor Walcott, who could not swim. He tried to hold on to the shore, but he was unable to do so. Finding it too exhausting in their water-soaked clothing, Knox left the canoe and swam ashore, where he stripped and then swam back to the others. He suggested that he could save the canoe by getting Doctor Trueman out of the water. He swam to the shore, and the latter started for the shore, swimming strongly, although very much fatigued after his struggle with the swamped canoe. Knox and Walcott had almost reached the shore when Doctor Trueman called for help. Turning, they saw him struggling in the water about fifty yards down the river. He had apparently taken a cramp, but had endeavored to hold and take care of himself until Knox had succeeded in getting Doctor Walcott out of danger.

When he heard the cry Knox thrust a cedar log in Dr. Trueman's direction and started to swim to his aid but he had sunk before he could get to him. Knox dived several times but could find no trace of him and as Doctor Walcott was too much exhausted by this time to hold up longer he had to return to his assistance. After he got him ashore, Knox emptied and righted the canoe and started out again, but after several hours of fruitless work he was forced to give up the search, and then had to make the trip to Atkinson, the nearest railway station, to wire the sad news to Ottawa.

After Doctor Brock arrived on the scene and their continued efforts to recover the body proved unavailing, he returned to Port Arthur to get a larger supply of dynamite to explode in the whirlpools and eddies, and to engage more men to help with the search. He attempted to secure divers, but was informed that the water was too deep for them to work the lake watching for the body out owing to the coldness of the water it is feared that it may not be found for some time.

HEROIC ACT WHICH COST HIM HIS LIFE

Particulars of the Death of Dr. J. Douglas Trueman Received

LETTER FROM DR. BROCK

Speaks of St. John Man as Most Promising One on Geological Survey Staff, and Rapidly Making a Name for Himself in Science

"The most promising man on the staff, one who was rapidly making a name for himself in science and one whom the scientific world could ill afford to lose." These are the terms in which Doctor R. W. Brock, director of Geological Department of Canada refers to the late Dr. J. Douglas Trueman of this city, who recently lost his life in the wilds of Western Ontario.

That his reputation was more than local was shown by a letter received at Ottawa, about the time of his death, from the director of a scientific institute in Brazil commending in the warmest and most complimentary terms on an article on a geological subject from the pen of Doctor Trueman which was recently published in one of the principal American scientific journals.

In a letter from Port Arthur Doctor Brock gives a more complete story of the tragic occurrence than had been received previously. At Port Arthur he met Doctor Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, who was in the canoe at the time of the fatality, and who was then returning, badly broken in health, as a result of the experience in the water and the shock of the tragedy. Doctor Walcott tells the story.

On Monday afternoon, June 24, he and Doctor Trueman and the latter's assistant, Mr. Knox, embarked in the canoe to take a view of the surrounding country, regarding the geology of which the younger men wished to get his ideas. They paddled through Sheep Rock Lake and then went up the Seine River, which empties into the lake, going almost to the falls. Here the swift current meeting the breeze from the lake made very choppy water and in the turmoil the canoe filled and swamped.

The younger men helped to the canoe Doctor Walcott, who could not swim. He tried to hold on to the shore, but he was unable to do so. Finding it too exhausting in their water-soaked clothing, Knox left the canoe and swam ashore, where he stripped and then swam back to the others. He suggested that he could save the canoe by getting Doctor Trueman out of the water. He swam to the shore, and the latter started for the shore, swimming strongly, although very much fatigued after his struggle with the swamped canoe. Knox and Walcott had almost reached the shore when Doctor Trueman called for help. Turning, they saw him struggling in the water about fifty yards down the river. He had apparently taken a cramp, but had endeavored to hold and take care of himself until Knox had succeeded in getting Doctor Walcott out of danger.

When he heard the cry Knox thrust a cedar log in Dr. Trueman's direction and started to swim to his aid but he had sunk before he could get to him. Knox dived several times but could find no trace of him and as Doctor Walcott was too much exhausted by this time to hold up longer he had to return to his assistance. After he got him ashore, Knox emptied and righted the canoe and started out again, but after several hours of fruitless work he was forced to give up the search, and then had to make the trip to Atkinson, the nearest railway station, to wire the sad news to Ottawa.

After Doctor Brock arrived on the scene and their continued efforts to recover the body proved unavailing, he returned to Port Arthur to get a larger supply of dynamite to explode in the whirlpools and eddies, and to engage more men to help with the search. He attempted to secure divers, but was informed that the water was too deep for them to work the lake watching for the body out owing to the coldness of the water it is feared that it may not be found for some time.

HEROIC ACT WHICH COST HIM HIS LIFE

Particulars of the Death of Dr. J. Douglas Trueman Received

LETTER FROM DR. BROCK

Speaks of St. John Man as Most Promising One on Geological Survey Staff, and Rapidly Making a Name for Himself in Science

"The most promising man on the staff, one who was rapidly making a name for himself in science and one whom the scientific world could ill afford to lose." These are the terms in which Doctor R. W. Brock, director of Geological Department of Canada refers to the late Dr. J. Douglas Trueman of this city, who recently lost his life in the wilds of Western Ontario.

That his reputation was more than local was shown by a letter received at Ottawa, about the time of his death, from the director of a scientific institute in Brazil commending in the warmest and most complimentary terms on an article on a geological subject from the pen of Doctor Trueman which was recently published in one of the principal American scientific journals.

In a letter from Port Arthur Doctor Brock gives a more complete story of the tragic occurrence than had been received previously. At Port Arthur he met Doctor Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, who was in the canoe at the time of the fatality, and who was then returning, badly broken in health, as a result of the experience in the water and the shock of the tragedy. Doctor Walcott tells the story.

On Monday afternoon, June 24, he and Doctor Trueman and the latter's assistant, Mr. Knox, embarked in the canoe to take a view of the surrounding country, regarding the geology of which the younger men wished to get his ideas. They paddled through Sheep Rock Lake and then went up the Seine River, which empties into the lake, going almost to the falls. Here the swift current meeting the breeze from the lake made very choppy water and in the turmoil the canoe filled and swamped.

The younger men helped to the canoe Doctor Walcott, who could not swim. He tried to hold on to the shore, but he was unable to do so. Finding it too exhausting in their water-soaked clothing, Knox left the canoe and swam ashore, where he stripped and then swam back to the others. He suggested that he could save the canoe by getting Doctor Trueman out of the water. He swam to the shore, and the latter started for the shore, swimming strongly, although very much fatigued after his struggle with the swamped canoe. Knox and Walcott had almost reached the shore when Doctor Trueman called for help. Turning, they saw him struggling in the water about fifty yards down the river. He had apparently taken a cramp, but had endeavored to hold and take care of himself until Knox had succeeded in getting Doctor Walcott out of danger.

When he heard the cry Knox thrust a cedar log in Dr. Trueman's direction and started to swim to his aid but he had sunk before he could get to him. Knox dived several times but could find no trace of him and as Doctor Walcott was too much exhausted by this time to hold up longer he had to return to his assistance. After he got him ashore, Knox emptied and righted the canoe and started out again, but after several hours of fruitless work he was forced to give up the search, and then had to make the trip to Atkinson, the nearest railway station, to wire the sad news to Ottawa.

After Doctor Brock arrived on the scene and their continued efforts to recover the body proved unavailing, he returned to Port Arthur to get a larger supply of dynamite to explode in the whirlpools and eddies, and to engage more men to help with the search. He attempted to secure divers, but was informed that the water was too deep for them to work the lake watching for the body out owing to the coldness of the water it is feared that it may not be found for some time.

HEROIC ACT WHICH COST HIM HIS LIFE

Particulars of the Death of Dr. J. Douglas Trueman Received

LETTER FROM DR. BROCK

Speaks of St. John Man as Most Promising One on Geological Survey Staff, and Rapidly Making a Name for Himself in Science

"The most promising man on the staff, one who was rapidly making a name for himself in science and one whom the scientific world could ill afford to lose." These are the terms in which Doctor R. W. Brock, director of Geological Department of Canada refers to the late Dr. J. Douglas Trueman of this city, who recently lost his life in the wilds of Western Ontario.

That his reputation was more than local was shown by a letter received at Ottawa, about the time of his death, from the director of a scientific institute in Brazil commending in the warmest and most complimentary terms on an article on a geological subject from the pen of Doctor Trueman which was recently published in one of the principal American scientific journals.

In a letter from Port Arthur Doctor Brock gives a more complete story of the tragic occurrence than had been received previously. At Port Arthur he met Doctor Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, who was in the canoe at the time of the fatality, and who was then returning, badly broken in health, as a result of the experience in the water and the shock of the tragedy. Doctor Walcott tells the story.

On Monday afternoon, June 24, he and Doctor Trueman and the latter's assistant, Mr. Knox, embarked in the canoe to take a view of the surrounding country, regarding the geology of which the younger men wished to get his ideas. They paddled through Sheep Rock Lake and then went up the Seine River, which empties into the lake, going almost to the falls. Here the swift current meeting the breeze from the lake made very choppy water and in the turmoil the canoe filled and swamped.

The younger men helped to the canoe Doctor Walcott, who could not swim. He tried to hold on to the shore, but he was unable to do so. Finding it too exhausting in their water-soaked clothing, Knox left the canoe and swam ashore, where he stripped and then swam back to the others. He suggested that he could save the canoe by getting Doctor Trueman out of the water. He swam to the shore, and the latter started for the shore, swimming strongly, although very much fatigued after his struggle with the swamped canoe. Knox and Walcott had almost reached the shore when Doctor Trueman called for help. Turning, they saw him struggling in the water about fifty yards down the river. He had apparently taken a cramp, but had endeavored to hold and take care of himself until Knox had succeeded in getting Doctor Walcott out of danger.

When he heard the cry Knox thrust a cedar log in Dr. Trueman's direction and started to swim to his aid but he had sunk before he could get to him. Knox dived several times but could find no trace of him and as Doctor Walcott was too much exhausted by this time to hold up longer he had to return to his assistance. After he got him ashore, Knox emptied and righted the canoe and started out again, but after several hours of fruitless work he was forced to give up the search, and then had to make the trip to Atkinson, the nearest railway station, to wire the sad news to Ottawa.

After Doctor Brock arrived on the scene and their continued efforts to recover the body proved unavailing, he returned to Port Arthur to get a larger supply of dynamite to explode in the whirlpools and eddies, and to engage more men to help with the search. He attempted to secure divers, but was informed that the water was too deep for them to work the lake watching for the body out owing to the coldness of the water it is feared that it may not be found for some time.

Store closes 6 p. m.—Saturdays 11 p. m.

You Like Good Clothes

You are particular about your clothes. When you buy clothes you like to feel sure that you are getting the kind that will hold their shape and good appearance till they are worn out, in fact, you want the kind of clothes that will give satisfaction—best values to be had for the money you pay.

We think you are just the kind of a man who will like the clothes we sell.

SEE OUR MEN'S SUMMER SUITS
At $5.00 to $20.00

H. N. DeMILLE & CO.
199 to 201 Union St. Opera House Block

Let Us Help You Have Foot Comfort

If careful measurement of the foot and a still more careful selection of the shape that suits your feet will help to give you a comfortable fit, and we know it will, then we really can help you have this greatest of all comforts.

The Seal of certainty is on every pair of Slater Shoes and is your guarantee that nothing but the best of material and workmanship enters into the construction of the shoe. Don't get the wrong kind.

Popular Prices: For Men, $4.00 to $6.50; For Women, $3.50 to $5.00

E. G. McColough, Ltd., The Slater Shoe Shop
81 King Street

Rig Out Your Boy So That He Can Suitably Enjoy His Holiday

A real boy is never more miserable than when he's fixed up so fine that he dare not romp. A tub suit saves many a heartache. All the difference imaginable between styles and making of boy's washable suits.

Most of them are helter-skelter as to color combinations and fit. Many are honest in materials but lack in style.

The stocks at Oak Hall are the kinds that have made careful mothers know this boys' clothing store as the best in the city, for materials, making, style and dependableness. It doesn't cost any more to get the proper kinds if you come here.

Sailor Styles, Bloomer Trousers, 6 to 10 years	$1.00 to $2.50
Russian Styles, Bloomer Trousers, 2 1/2 to 7 years	.75 to 3.00
Sailor Collar Blouses	1.50
K. & E. Patent Loop Blouses	.60 to 1.00

KING STREET COR. GERMAIN GREATER OAK HALL
SCOVIL BROS. LIMITED, St. John, N. B.

DEAR SIR:

It takes an alarm clock to get the attention of some people. There are others who can "hear a dollar bill drop."

If a dollar bill should drop at your feet, it would be less important to you than the reading of this letter.

Just imagine I am looking you square in the eye. Lend me your ear. I want to say a few words to you straight from the heart.

You are anxious to get the most actual value possible to secure for every dollar you spend for clothes. That's why you should investigate the extraordinary values we are now offering.

You like to buy goods you can depend upon—the kind you know are right in style, right in quality and right in price.

You will find only that sort of clothes here.

I am determined that I will gain for this store a host of new customers this season by the giving of exceptional values. I am succeeding. We are doing the largest business in the history of this store.

An investigation will prove to YOU that this store is giving better values for the same money or the same values for less money than any other store.

I know beyond the shadow of a doubt, that if you investigate the unusual values we now present in stylish, serviceable clothing and compare them with what you can get elsewhere, you are sure to buy here.

You certainly cannot afford to buy a dollar's worth of clothes before you see what we offer.

It is better to find out about these values before you buy, than later to wish you had.

We'll be just as glad to see you if you come simply to look as though you come to buy.

Yours for economy,
C. B. PIDGEON.

P. S. Shoes too for all the family at a saving.

A Regular Snap in Outing Hats

We have a few lines of felt Outing Hats for men and boys which are broken in sizes, so to clear them out we have put them at two special prices.

39 cents for 50 and 75 cent hats
65 cents for 75 cent and $1.00 hats

They are in White, Grey and Marble colors.

SEE OUR WINDOW

D. MAGEE'S SONS, LTD. 63 KING STREET