

And how I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have shewed you, and have taught you publicly, and from house to house." Let your visits be frequent, short, spiritual, and altogether such as are adapted to leave an impression on the minds of your people that your great business is to save souls. "Preach the word in season, reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long suffering and doctrine."

As it regards the signs of the times, we would merely observe, in the language of our Saviour, "Let not your hearts be troubled;" and we would add, "Keep your heart and mind in the love of God."

Regarding our missions, it is but due to our brethren in England that we acknowledge with gratitude the interest taken by them in our favour; and it is as little as we can do in return to feel for ourselves as they have felt for us. Let us then vigorously prosecute our missionary operations.

We expect that during the year each Circuit will be visited by a deputation appointed to hold missionary meetings, &c. We trust that our people will be fully alive to the importance of this great enterprise, and will exercise their liberality, that more abundant means may be placed at the disposal of the Missionary Society. It is only in this way that the borders of our Zion can be greatly enlarged throughout the destitute portions of this country.

You will perceive by the list of stations that we have considerably enlarged our work. Our greatest difficulty has been to find an adequate supply of suitable labourers. We have however supplied most of the Circuits, and we hope very shortly to have it in our power to fill up every vacancy. May we press upon the attention of our people the necessity of supporting the Ministry. Your ministers need supporting, both as it respects their authority as ministers and their necessities as men. We would exhort our official brethren to pay particular attention to this matter. Let the leaders and stewards do their duty,
