

Young men, a warning take by this,
And give your time to God,
To serve him gives us joy and peace,
When dead, a rest above.

Farewell, my friend, and may you die
In peace with God and man;
With God's commands do now comply,
When dead we never can.

To die with guilt upon your head,
Most awful it will be,
We'll weep and wail, the Lord has said,
Throughout eternity.
