

MAGIC BAKING POWDER
Contains no alum

We unhesitatingly recommend Magic Baking Powder as being the best and purest baking powder possible to produce. It possesses elements of food that have to do the building up of brain and nerve matter and is absolutely free from alum or other injurious substitutes.

Have You Tried.

Polishing freshly washed lamp chimneys with dry salt?

Rubbing a freshly cut lemon over ink immediately after it has been spilt on carpet? No matter what the color of the carpet this will take out the fresh stain without injury to it.

Cleaning tennis balls with pipe clay? Take a cake of pipe clay and dissolve it in just as much water as it will hold. Stir it well and add a talow candle melted. Mix all together and allow to cool. Then remove all the dust from the tennis balls by brushing them with a stiff brush. Take a lump of the pipe clay mixture and dissolve it in cold water to the consistency of cream. Apply to the tennis balls with a sponge.

Crab meat mixed with chopped peanuts and served on lettuce with mayonnaise as a salad?

Removing the odor of food from a wooden chopping bowl by soaking the bowl in boiling water in which a little soda is dissolved? A tablespoonful of soda to a gallon of water is the proportion.

Gathering herbs in the summer season, drying them and putting them away in tiny bags of cheesecloth? The bags should be kept in a glass jar tightly covered. When making soups or sauces, a bag of the mixed herbs is convenient to use.

A PRIZED OLD RIFLE.

A Relic of the Indian Wars of Kentucky.

There is a story of the American rifle that has been handed down in the hearthstone history and traditions of those who for generations have lived in the West. It begins with the Greenbrier region of Virginia of colonial times, thence into Kentucky, to Missouri in the days of Upper Louisiana, thence to the great prairies of the far West and on to California. The family rifle was dear and sacred. John and Margaret Ferril and their family were with a party of pioneers from the Greenbrier region who migrated to Kentucky in the early days. Owing to the hostilities of the Indians, they were armed and under the command of Capt. Jacob Baughman, a brother of Margaret Ferril.

They "packed" on horses over the Alleghany Mountains, and when in camp at or near Crab Orchard, Ky., were attacked in the night by Indians. In the fight that ensued Capt. Baughman, John Ferril and others were killed, but the men held back the Indians long enough to enable some of the women and children to escape. Among the number thus saved were Margaret Ferril, a son, John Ferril, and two daughters, and also Mrs. Jacob Baughman, a son Henry of tender age, and two daughters.

The Baughman-Ferril fight, or massacre, occurred in the fall of 1779. John Ferril, then fourteen years old, who had escaped, swore an oath of revenge on his rifle. He kept that view, and his rifle became a bloody one in the Indian wars of Kentucky. In the Boone Lick region of Missouri, new Howard county, in 1812, were built several forts for protection against Indians, especially the Sacs and Foxes and the Pottawatomies. John Ferril and family were in one of them, known as Fort Cooper. He here still possessed his old Kentucky rifle. After the war of 1812, in addition to farming, he often engaged in hunting expeditions up the Missouri and Kansas Rivers, and sometimes far out on the great prairies.

Over a century ago he hunted bear and other game on what is now the site of Kansas City. He and other frontiersmen then predicted that a great city would be founded on the confluence of the Missouri and Kansas Rivers.

The old rifle of John Ferril has been preserved. During the civil war, when the authorities were collecting all the guns in Saline county, Missouri, they seized the old Ferril rifle. Keziah Ferril, then about 90 years old, cried and said that it be not taken. Her son and grandsons were wearing the blue and gray, and a compromise was effected. It was agreed that this old rifle should be hid away, and thus the old Ferril rifle became a non-combatant in the civil war. It later passed to the possession of Jesse Ferril, county judge, son of Henry Ferril, who founded Miami, Mo. On the death of Judge Jesse Ferril the rifle was passed on as an heirloom to his brother, John Ferril, who had been a soldier from Saline county with Doniphan's Missourians in the Mexican war. John Ferril died some months ago at his home in Exeter, Cal.

WELL SATISFIED WITH BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mrs. A. Bernard, La Presentation, Que., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my baby and am well satisfied with them. I have recommended them to several of my friends, who have also used them with beneficial results." The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative, which regulate the stomach and bowels, and thus prove of benefit in cases of indigestion, constipation, colic, colds, etc. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Meaning of the Crescent.

The Turkish crescent, although now regarded as essentially Mohammedan in significance, is, it appears, of Christian origin. A crescent moon was the emblem of the Byzantine Empire and the Eastern Church. The Turks adopted it as a badge of triumph after the capture of Constantinople in 1453.

With reference to the crescent, the story of the origin of the crescent shaped Vienna roll is of curious interest. It arose in the sixteenth century, when the Turks were besieging Vienna. Falling to carry the city by assault they began to mine the walls. At that period the city's bakehouses were in the walls under the fortifications, and when the mines were almost through the sound of the work was heard in the underground bakehouses, and an alarm was given. To celebrate this event the bakers of Vienna adopted the Turkish emblem as the form in which to mold and bake their bread.

Admiral Sims and the Sinn Fein.

Certain references by Admiral Sims to the treatment given by the Sinn Feiners to the United States sailors on duty in Ireland having brought upon him severe strictures from Irish-Americans, Henry B. Sheehan comes to the admiral's defence in the New York Times in these terms:

"As one of the few American journalists who were attached by official permission to the United States navy on foreign service, may I avail myself of your columns to substantiate in every detail the story which Admiral Sims recently published concerning the attitude of the American flotilla? From the very first, exactly as Admiral Sims writes in his just and fair-minded review, the Irish republican groups, not the Irish people, met our men and every evidence of pro-Ally activity with a marked and constant hatred. United States sailors were again and again insulted and jeered at, even set upon and brutally beaten, not because, as Mr. O'Connell suggests, they formed a danger to Irish virtue, but because they represented a great new source of strength for the allied cause.

"Mr. O'Connell will have no criticism of Sinn Fein because a large number of Irish soldiers fought in the allied armies. This is too much. Let me tell Mr. O'Connell that Sinn Fein not only did everything in its power to prevent the enlistment of these brave men, but also has, since their return to Ireland, so persecuted and embittered them that the Irish press is full of their story. His neighbors maliciously set against him by Sinn Fein propaganda, disowned by friends and business associates, an outcast in the land which he preserved from German domination, the tragedy of the Irish soldier is the most poignant of the war.

The truth of Sinn Fein hostility to the allied cause in Ireland ought to be known, and Admiral Sims has given us the truth."

Young Conquerors.

Napoleon said that a man ages quickly on the battlefields. Speaking of one of his generals, he said at Austerlitz that Ordener was worn out, adding: "One has a short time for war. I am good for another six years, and then I shall have to stop."

"Strangely enough," says Lord Rosebery in The Last Phase, "his judgment was exactly verified. Six years and a month from Austerlitz (which was fought on Dec. 2, 1805) would have brought him to 1812, to the Russian campaign, which, if he had observed his own rule, he would have avoided."

When his "star" was eclipsed for ever at Waterloo he was but forty-six years of age, but he had been a broken man in body, and to an increasing extent in mental power, long before. Wellington fought his last battle at forty-six, Ney at forty-five, Nelson at forty-seven. Alexander the Great was only thirty-three when death ended his career of conquest. Hannibal was in his forty-sixth year when he was finally defeated at Zama by Scipio.

ERROR AT SEA.

Whales and Porpoises Taken for U-Boats, Torpedoes.

There is peril in being a whale or a porpoise in the North Atlantic these days. If you are a whale, particularly a spouting whale, you are apt to be mistaken for a submarine; and if you are a porpoise you are apt to be taken for a torpedo.

There is many a shattered carcass and smashed gun crew. In the phosphorescence of even winter nights a porpoise just under the surface can make an experienced lookout have a moment's suspense. The line of white is a little narrow and a little high for a torpedo, but in the first moment a lookout isn't given to exact measurements. The white at bow and stern on a phosphorescent night is a conspicuous evidence of a ship, though it is a question how plain it would be through a periscope at about its own level. From the decks of the ship itself from the deck of an emerged submarine it flashes plain. If it could only be camouflaged along with the smoke! And on such a night in the zone there is the eerie sense of more than one submarine that has worked her way along in the white wake of a slow ship, keeping tab so thorough the night and waiting for dawn to sheer off and strike. That is why, as dark comes on, a destroyer is apt to drop back from the side of the ship and lurk along the wake, seeking its prey also. I remember one velvety black night. Suddenly a great white trail shot

A Witness Testifies
SHE WAS WEAK AND NERVOUS

Brampton, Ont.—"About five years ago I began suffering with woman's trouble. I became all run-down, weak and nervous. I was so completely down and out that I could not do anything, could scarcely dress myself. I had the doctor and took other medicine but without getting better until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his Golden Medical Discovery. It was only necessary for me to take about three bottles when I was completely restored to health and strength and I have been in better health than I ever was before. I have had no use for medicine since, but should I need it I would take these same remedies, knowing them to be excellent."—MRS. HARRY KNIGHT, Jessie St.

OWES HER LIFE

St. Saskatchewan, Ala.—"It is with great pleasure that I write the following and I hope it will help the many sufferers who do not know the good Dr. Pierce's medicines would do them if they would try them."

"In regard to my condition, I will say that I suffered from childhood from a very weak back; I had the misfortune of having spinal meningitis when I was one year old and until I was 13 I did not see a well day, but a very kind lady told my mother about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and she got a bottle to try it. It did me so much good that mother got me 6 bottles. Recently I happened with a car accident and hurt my back badly. My doctor gave me up and said I would not live, but I still stuck to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and to my surprise in three weeks I was out of bed and better. I owe my life to it and nothing else, and shall never be without it."

"If any sufferer wishes to write I will answer with pleasure."—MRS. NOEL BARTHOLOMEW.

A Priceless Idol.

It is a part of the creed of Mohammedans to smash the noses of all idols they may come across. When they invaded India they defaced in this way every Hindu god. A figure of Vishnu cut in green jade was buried in the bed of the Ganges during this invasion and is now preserved in a temple in Benares. It is the only perfect image left of all such idols, and its sanctity is such that the priests at Allahabad have offered for it its weight in gold, together with two magnificent rubies, formerly the eyes of Buddha. But they cannot buy it.

Sleep Without Drugs.

"Doc, how can I get to sleep without using dope?" asked a man troubled with insomnia of a noted physician.

"On going to bed assume a comfortable attitude in which every muscle is relaxed," said the doctor, "but not the attitude in which you are accustomed to go to sleep, though something resembling it. Every movement, even coughing and yawning, must be strictly repressed, especially the desire to turn over. Maintain the same attitude without change, constantly resisting the longing to move or turn over. As a rule, by the end of fifteen or twenty minutes of this you will find yourself growing very drowsy, and then, just as the desire to roll over become absolutely uncontrollable turn with the least possible effort; and assume the position in which you should follow to sleep. Natural sleep seldom falls. Give it a thorough trial at least before resorting to a drug to bring sleep."—Buffalo Express.

Gone Forever.

The murderer had committed his crime without leaving any trace, except that he had found there were blood-marks on his handkerchief. How could he get rid of this tell-tale article?

For a moment he sat deep in thought, then a diabolical smile crept over his cruel features. He sat down at a writing desk and, with great care he marked his name on his handkerchief. Then, wrapping it up in a across our bow from port to starboard and just a few yards dead ahead. If a porpoise is too narrow and too high to make a torpedo trail, this seemed too broad, but deep enough. It was the wake of a destroyer that has cut across in a hurry.—Nelson Collins, in the Century.

"Kicked Into Literature."

Son of an adventurous naval captain, Rolf Boldrewood, or, to give him his real name, Thomas Alexander Browne, the author, had one of the most romantic careers in the annals of literature. Pioneer squatter in early life in Victoria, he made such good use of his opportunities that while still in the twenties his cheque was good for a quarter of a million. Then, if unfortunately for himself, luckily for novel readers, a long drought killed off his flocks, and herds and compelled him to enter the government service as a stipendiary magistrate. Shortly after this he happened to be kicked by a horse. This laid to his being laid up, and to while away the tedious hours he wrote an Australian sketch called "The Kangaroo Rush." He sent it to the Cornhill, which accepted it, and so, as he used to say merrily, "he was kicked into literature."—London Opinion.
