Don't Be a Quitter.

We cannot always find the ways that lead to waiting treasure; There must sometimes be dismal days that are devoid of pleasure; The winds that blow so swiftly now Tomorrow may be bitter; The storms may come, but any day Don't be a quitter.

We cannot always do the things we wish we might be doing; We may not all be dimes and dimes Some men must plow and some must sow; While some in jewels glitter, But if your place is high or low, Don't be a quitter.

Some men may rise in lifeless graves to see their children; Some men may rise in lowly state, While others bear the litter; But rich or poor, or small or great Don't be a quitter.

You cannot win by sitting in your corner, sighing heavily; Inflate your chest, thrust out your chin And do your duty bravely; You may have cause to be in doubt Your hardships may be bitter, But never let the world find out— Don't be a quitter.

Playing in Streets is Dangerous.

CHILDREN MUST PLAY SOMEWHERE—URGENT NEED OF SAFE PLAYGROUNDS.

In connection with the 'safety first' campaign, much is being said just now as to the danger of children playing in the streets. Films are being shown in the moving picture theatres, picturing dangers from motor-cars and other vehicles vividly before the eyes of the children themselves. No doubt this is a good work for the cause of human life, but it is a sad state of affairs that the children have no better place than the streets in which to play. Very often the man with the automobile is only using the streets for a playground—there are as many auto bouches on pleasure as on business—and if we give the man in the motor the right of way over the child on roller-skates, it is incumbent upon us to find the latter some place in which to amuse himself, free from danger. If new sub-divisions were laid out on garden city lines, there would be a space in the centre of every block where small children could play near home, and open spaces would be reserved here and there for larger children and adults. Much must be done, however, to remedy existing conditions, as well as to plan for adequate recreation facilities in the future. A much greater use could be made of school playgrounds after hours than is now the case, and in many cities, where sufficient playing fields do not exist, a very considerable expense is justified in providing such. A city is a place in which not merely to work, but to live completely, and complete living includes wholesome bodily exercise for every citizen.

Robbing Women of Their Health.

ANEMIA UNLESS CHECKED PASSES INTO ROUGH DECLINE.

Anemia is like a spectre that steals on you unawares and drives all happiness out of existence. It is a thief that robs you of your life and energy. Thousands of women in this country are the victims of anemia (that is, bloodlessness), which spares neither rich nor poor, young or old. It robs woman of her health, her vitality, her beauty of everything that gives a woman her charm. The chief symptoms of this trouble include a distaste for food, prostrating headaches, extreme languor, loss of weight, nervousness, pale cheeks, lips and nails, heart palpitations, dizziness and a constant feeling of wretchedness.

The only way to effect a cure is to increase the blood supply—to make it pure, rich and red. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved thousands of young girls and women from the fearful fate that threatened them through anemia's ravages; for these pills enrich the blood, stimulate the circulation, nourish the nerves, and restore the energy and perfect health that make women attractive. If you are a victim of bloodlessness in any way, do not let it run into a hopeless decline, but begin the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to day. The following bit of evidence proves the worth of this medicine. Mrs. Maurice Sims, Liverpool, N. S., says: 'Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a blessing to me. About two years ago I was so badly run down that I had to give up all work and go to bed. My husband and parents were much worried about me as they thought I was going into consumption. The doctor who was attending me changed his medicine several times, but it did me no good and I began to feel very much discouraged myself. One day a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to do so. In a few weeks I felt much better and I continued taking the pills for a couple of months until I was again in perfect health. I believe that if I had not always been very grateful for what they have done for me.'

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Her Mother's Partner.

A sturdy little figure she was struggling bravely with a pail of water. So many times she had passed I passed to remark: 'You're a busy little girl today.'

'Yes'm.' The round face under the broad hat turned toward us. It was freckled and perspiring, but cheerful withal. 'Yes'm; it takes a heap of water to do a washing.'

'And do you bring it all from the brook down there?'

'Oh, we have a cistern mostly, only it's been such a dry time lately.'

'And is there nobody else to carry the water?'

'Nobody but mother, an' she is washing.'

'Well, you are a good girl to help her.'

'It was a well intended compliment; but the little water carrier did not consider it one at all, for there was a look of surprise in her gray eyes and an almost indignant tone in her voice as she answered: 'Why of course I help her. I always help her to do things all the time. She hasn't anybody else. Mother 'n I are partners.'

WILSON'S FLY PAD. POISON.

DON'T SWAT THAT FLY and leave the disease germs to be scattered through your house.

USE WILSON'S FLY PADS and kill both the flies and germs. Sold by all Druggists and Grocers all over Canada.

Keep the Flies Out.

It has been generally observed that wire screens serve rather to keep flies in a stable than to keep them out.

Stock journals recommend removing the window sash from each window, and nailing laths or strips of wood, six to eight inches apart, across the opening of the window frame on the outside. Then at the top of each frame on the inside a curtain of some cheap tarpaul or gunny sack is tacked, the height and width of the frame. The strips of wood prevent the curtain from blowing outward, and therefore as the curtain moves to and fro it is blown inward. The insects fly toward the opening, and as the curtain falls back it carries the flies with it. The same device may be applied on the stable door. The door may be removed and a skeleton door, fitted with cross pieces put in.

Owners who have tried this method claim that in a short time after the horses have been taken into the stable, there will scarcely be heard the stamp of a hoof or the swish of a tail.

Wheat Exports.

We think, for the first time in her history, Canada last year was the leading wheat exporting country in the world. Her exports for the year mounted to 129,950,000 bushels, compared with 121,938,000 from Russia, Argentina, which stood third on the list, exported 102,275,500, and the United States was fourth with 99,470,000 bushels. These figures deal with wheat in its raw state, for, in the exports of flour, the United States exceeded this country by nearly three times, sending out 13,273,700 barrels to Canada and 4,594,500 barrels. These latter figures would suggest that the milling industry in the Dominion has not been cultivated to the extent it might. If the finished product were exported instead of grain in its raw state it would mean the expenditure of more money in the country by the extension of the milling industry. There are insufficient flourmills manufactured in Canada, a country which bases so much of its prosperity on its grain producing areas should be in a position to complete successfully with any other agricultural country in the matter of such food-stuffs.

From an Autograph Album.

There are no friends like old friends. Friendship, like confidence, is a plant of slow growth.

The only way to have a friend is to be one.

Guard well thy thoughts, for they are heard in heaven.

He is the richest who the most beloved is.

A pound of pluck is worth a ton of luck.

The foolish and the dead alone never change their opinions.

Love is better than lame.

There is no beauty for face or complexion like the wish to scatter joy and not pain about you.

Be satisfied with doing well and leave others to speak of you as they will.

The best way of destroying an enemy is to make him your friend.

Live for the happiness of others so you will be happy yourself.

Experience is the best teacher but the school fees are heavy.

The way to obtain a good reputation is to endeavor to be what you desire to appear.

Live not for thyself alone.

Those who wait friends must show themselves friendly.

A Jolly Good Fellow.

Some years ago one of the popular illustrators drew for a magazine a picture entitled 'For he's a jolly good fellow.' It showed a clubroom; good looking young men, whose faces were flushed with wine, stood, with lifted glasses and sang their toast to the one who stood at the head of the table. He was evidently greatly gratified. He looked as if he thought it supremely worth while to have his masculine friends so late in the evening, demonstrative over his social qualities.

But there was another side to the picture. It showed the home of the 'good fellow,' where his young wife sat waiting for him. His house jacket was laid over a chair. His slippers stood ready before the fire. He had planned to spend the evening at home and had not been strong enough to do it. Meanwhile the young wife had waited, watching the big clock count the hours. Now it was past midnight. It was not the first time it had happened; it would not be the last by any means.

It was not simply the disappointment, the loneliness that made the young wife lay her head on the table yawnng. She wept because she knew she had married a wastrel. She saw that it meant so much to him to be regarded as a 'jolly good fellow' that he gave up other things infinitely greater. She had learned that his good-relationship had in it selfishness and weakness.

It is pleasant to be called a 'good fellow,' but it is a shameful thing, if we gain it through another's needless suffering or at the cost of our own respect and manhood.

Flowers on Icebergs.

Flowers blooming on icebergs would certainly be a rare sight, but travelers in the northern portions of the Pacific and sometimes in the North Atlantic have witnessed this strange but very beautiful spectacle. It appears that some animals carry on their feet a growth of moss, which is deposited on the ice while it is attached to the mainland in Polar regions. In time this decays and forms a shallow soil, in which the seeds of buttercups and dandelions often find a lodging, borne by currents of wind that doubtless caught them up in some Southern clime. These take root and bloom when the great gleaming ice-bergs float out to sea and are carried southward, where the soft winds melt the surface and give the plants the moisture they need.—Manchester Evening News.

CONCRETE BUOYS TO THE FRONT.

Reinforced concrete, during the past few years, has been considered as belonging exclusively to iron and steel. One of the interesting innovations of this fact is the construction of a concrete buoy at Kingsport, Jamaica. It is stated that the cost is only fifty per cent of that of similar buoys made of steel. To prevent the mooring chain from injuring the bottom of the buoy, the latter is made concave. The manhole cover was grouted into place while the buoy was afloat. Leakage is handled by means of a small pump-hole provided for that purpose.

Joseph Chamberlain Dead.

Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, the greatest Imperialist statesman Britain has had since Pitt, died at London on July 2d. For 38 years he represented Birmingham in parliament. In 1906 his career of storied activities was ended by a stroke of paralysis. Since that time the strong fighter had been an invalid, a pitiable outcast at the political game. Birmingham would not depose her leader, although he was no longer able to represent her upon the floor of the House of Commons. In each year he sat and appeared at the House, but once where amidst respectful applause he made his way to the Speaker's desk on the arm of his son and took the oath of office, January 5, 1913. Mr. Chamberlain wrote to his constituents, resigning his seat and saying: 'I cannot hope again to do any work in Parliament, and I feel that our city and the constituency need a younger man.' While his greatest claim to fame was his determined and brilliant advocacy for years of a protective policy for Great Britain, the child of free trade, he will also be remembered as the bitterest and most tenacious opponent of Gladstone and that statesman's work for Home Rule for Ireland, as one of the founders of the Liberal-Unionist party, and as the minister whose policy in South Africa involved his country in the greatest war it had experienced since the Crimean, but blotted out the two Boer Republics and made South Africa 'all red.'

The Business of House-Keeping.

The following is an excellent thing to keep in the house, it is a fluid that will remove paint, grease, etc., from all sorts of fabrics without the least injury to the most delicate material. Carpets, portieres and draperies are also renovated by its use. The form is: four ounces of ammonia, two ounces of finely chopped shavings of white soap and two quarts of water. Mix together, let stand a few days with out using. Cover the spot to be cleaned and rub with a sponge, then wash out with clear, warm water. For carpets sweep off the dust first, then apply the liquid and scrub gently with clear water. If coked and sealed this will keep for a long time.

To remove machine oil stains cover them with lard for several hours, and then wash with soap and water.

Mud stains can be removed from dresses by dissolving a little carbonate of soda in some tepid water. Apply with a piece of cloth, rubbing the spot well, and press out the part later with a hot iron.

In order to make a dusty straw hat look like new, brush it well with a bit of wet melted soap with alcohol. The result is surprising.

Another good way to clean a white straw hat is to cut a fresh lemon in half and rub the hat well with the juice, then rinse quickly with clear, cold water, dry as much as possible with a towel and hang the hat in a current of air in the shade. Of course all trimming should be removed first.

Woman's Dress.

Men are always running down modern dress and modern manners in women, says The London Express. Yet they often find attractive in other women what they condemn in the women talk of their own house. Women, of course, dress largely for the eyes of other women. But man is still the main object, and it is frowned upon woman she would change the guise in which she presents herself.

Dividing the Sheep and Goats.

Two boys went out nutting and gathered quite a lot. On their return they sought a nice quiet place to divide them, by getting over the high cemetery fence. In doing so, they dropped some of the nuts, but said they would get those on their return. They then began saying 'I will take this and you'll take that. I will take this and you will take that,' repeatedly. An old dicker, half boozed and along and heard them talking and became paralysed with fear. He called a white man and said 'The Lord and the devil are dividing up the dead.' They returned to the fence to hear the tried voice concluding, 'I will take this and you will take that, that finishes them.' Then one boy remarked, 'what about those on the other side of the fence?' 'Needless to say the other two 'beat out.'

What's the News?

High line in this newspaper is of interest to some one.

Each has been written and printed with a definite purpose.

To many men and women the most important thing this journal has to offer for their consideration is the advertising.

It is constructive, helpful, brightly written, often cleverly illustrated. It is all supposed to have a 'punch' in it.

It is the news of business—the voice of opportunity.

To overlook reading the advertising is to neglect one of the best features in the newspaper.

Legal Brutality.

A New York lawyer tells of an English widow who, by reason of certain legal complications found necessary to retain a distinguished attorney to represent her in the adjustment of her late husband's estate.

'You will,' said the attorney, during the course of this consultation, 'you will get your third of the estate.'

'Oh!' exclaimed the widow, aghast, 'how can you say such a thing, with my second scarcely cold in his grave!'

A lawyer for a railway company once had to defend his employers from the charge of negligence in the case of a farmer whose cart was demolished at a grade crossing. The accident happened at night and the principal witness was an old colored man who was on guard armed with a lantern to direct the approach of trains.

'Now, John,' said the lawyer, 'did you swing your lantern when you saw the cart coming?'

'Yes, I swung it right and true, I done swung dat lantern right out de road.' On the strength of this testimony the lawyer won his case. He took occasion to thank the witness. 'Much obliged to yo' Marse Tom,' replied that worthy. 'Ise pow'ful glad I could be 'p' yo'. But I was plumb frightened dat other lawyer gwine ax me ef dat lantern was lit.'

'Have you an opening here for me?' asked the assertive young man.

'Yes,' answered the capitalist, 'it's right behind you.'

MRS. ROSE, London Avenue.

A certain rich man did not approve of foreign missions. One Sunday at church when the collection was being taken up, the collector approached the millionaire and held out the collection bag. The millionaire shook his head. 'I never give to missions,' he whispered. 'Then take something out of the bag, sir,' whispered the collector. 'The money is for the heathens.'

'It's going to be war to the knife,' declared the suburbanite, who was leading his chickens.

'What now?' asked the friend.

'Why, Wilkie sent me a box of axle grease and advised me to try it on my lawn mower.'

'Well?'

'Well, I sent it back and told him to use it on his daughter's voice.'

A motion picture machine that may be packed away in a travelling man's kit has been invented, and it will hereafter be possible for the salesman to show his wares anywhere. Heretofore managers have had to go to a studio or to some theatre to see films demonstrated.
