THE GREAT THELUSSON WILL CAUSE.

An appeal in this case is now being argued before the British House of Lords. The facts are briefly these:—The will of Peter Thellusson, a London merchant, is dated 1798. He was then possessed of $3,000,000 in money and lands property, bringing in $22,000 a year. This great fortune was all conveyed to trustees. It was to accumulate until every man, woman, and child of the offspring of Peter, and five or six generations of his old merchant then alive. The terms of the will enjoined, that when the last survivor of all the nine children and grandchildren should yield up his breath, then the charm was to end; the great mountain of accumulated wealth was to be divided into three portions, and one-third was to be given to each of the "eldest male lineal descendants" of his three sons. This extraordinary will was of course contested in the law courts, but finally the House of Lords affirmed its validity. The London property, however, with the sum to set aside the will, there was a cross suit to have its trusts performed under the direction of the Court of Chancery, and there were other law suits so numerous that even equity-lawyers, not stingy of their words, are vain to describe them as "various."

AN INTELLIGENT CANARY.

A favorite canary in a family in the city, a day or two since, exhibited more reason than they are generally credited with. From the upper part of the cage, a small brass ball had been suspended by a string, which the canary had learned to ring by pecking at it, and amused himself the day long by its musical tinkling. Finally he pecked the string until he parted the strands, and the ball fell to the bottom of the cage. "Perley" is an instant faw down from his perch to the side of his toy, and after pecking at it for some time, and not succeeding in making it ring, he took a seat quietly beside it, and sat there for half a day without once ascending to his perch, or going to his cup for food or drink. When the ball first dropped, he chattered like a magpie, but when found it was so useless to make it ring, he quit chirping and remained silent. When the ball was finally replaced in its former position, he flew up on the perch as lively as ever, and pecked away at the ball most industriously, keeping it ringing right lively all the afternoon. With the sound of the tinkling were constant chirping, which he sang and chirped as merrily as formerly.

A NAME.

Virgil D. Paris, Maine, has been appointed Naval Storekeeper at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, vice Redding removed. There is a funny story told about the manner in which Mr. Virgil Delphin Paris got his name. His father, an honest but unlettered man, happened to take up an old "Delphin" edition of Virgil, printed in France. It being all Latin, except the title page, the old man interested him in the five which decorated the cover, which, at the time, he managed to make out the three words, "Virgil Delphin." "Paris," he said, "Paris"—must be some relation of mine. A mighty smart man he is, and to write such a whaling big book as this, and in Greek. I'll name my son after him, and he shall be the present worthy bearer of the cumbersome sobriquet was christened. In spite of his name he has held his honors, having been Governor of the State of Maine for four years.

CHINESE JOURNEYING.

An Episcopal missionary at Shanghai thus describes the mode of travelling in the region around that city: "Good roads, at least in this part of China, there are none. Land travel is by narrow pathways, and either on horseback, in a sedan, or on a wheelbarrow. The richer classes travel by the first two modes, the poorer by the last. But these modes of travelling are scarcely ever used, except for short distances, or when the distance is a great deal shorter by land than by water, and it is important to reach a given place sooner than could be accomplished by taking the boat. The great highways of travel and of commerce are the numerous water-courses which intersect this country in every direction. The passenger boats on these rivers are as admirably adapted for their purpose as the sea-going boats are unaccountably ill adapted for the use made of them. And perhaps in no country in the world, where steamboats and railroads have not been introduced, is to be found a mode of travelling which so combines comfort and economy, as travelling on Chinese river roads. A nice boatman, three roommates—one for himself, one for his teacher, and the other for his servant, can be obtained by the missionary for one dollar a day, and even for a less sum, when he engages the boat for a month. This sum includes the wages of the four boatmen, and all the boat expenses. Another very important consideration is, that the missionary can pursue his studies, and teach, and prepare for preaching as regularly, and almost as conveniently, as in his own study; and missionaries who itinerate in this way, regularly devote their mornings to study, and the afternoons to preaching and distributing books.

GREAT FIRE IN ANCIENT ROME.

In the midst of these horrors, which steeped in the same fearful guilt the people and the priests together, Providence was preparing a awful lesson for the heathen world, which was to be like the Cities of the Plain, in a sheet of citrine fire. Crowded, as the mass of the citizens were, in their close wooden dwellings, which involved their whole streets and quarters of the city in wide-spreading conflagrations, and the efforts of the night-watch to stem the onrush of fire, being few of the appliances, and little prepared by the discipline of our modern police, were but imperfectly effectual. But the greatest of all the calamities of the night was, that which broke out on the 19th of July, in the year 517, the tenth of Nero, which began at the eastern end of the Circus, abutting on the valley between the Palatine and the Caelian hills, and spread its walls of this effluvia a mass of wooden booths and stores filled chiefly with combustible articles. The wind from the sea drove the flames to the corner of the Palatine, where they forked in two directions, following the draught of the valleys. At neither point were they encountered by the massive masonry of halls or temples, or when the distance was a great deal shorter by land than by water, and it is important to reach a given place sooner than could be accomplished by taking the boat. The great highways of travel and of commerce are the numerous water-courses which intersect this country in every direction. The passenger boats on these rivers are as admirably adapted for their purpose as the sea-going boats are unaccountably ill adapted for the use made of them. And perhaps in no country in the world, where steamboats and railroads have not been introduced, is to be found a mode of travelling which so combines comfort and economy, as travelling on Chinese river roads. A nice boatman, three roommates—one for himself, one for his teacher, and the other for his servant, can be obtained by the missionary for one dollar a day, and even for a less sum, when he engages the boat for a month. COLLEGE'S SCHEME.

A pair of these interesting, unassuming ladies, who of late seem to carry on so large a business in our down town offices and stores in the way of procuring subscriptions for new works, selling engravings of the "Father of his Country," and other publications, who (Charles Henry) in a most unassuming manner, so delightfully impudently, so sweetly un-gilded-able, called a morning or two since at the office of a young lawyer, to induce him, as the younger of the two expressed it, with a charming smile, "To subscribe to a most elegant work just published, to be got up in elegant style, with illustrations, &c." "Indeed, ladies," said our friend, "I cannot; I have no doubt of the excellence of your work, but I am not in want of anything of that kind. In fact, I do not feel able at present to subscribe for any new work of any description. The partnership of which I am a member has lately been so imprudent as to issue a new work of their own, and the enormous expense attending its issue, not to speak of the illustrations, embellishments, and ornamental adornings with which they have seen fit to clothe the production—such unwarranted outlay, has really, for the present, crippled me; sorry—but a fact—every word of it."

HOW TO KEEP TROTT.

The first great requisite undoubtedly in this respect, is that the horse should be kept in good condition, and that he should be removed from the gills and back. If he is not, nothing can save him over a day, but a salt brine, which, if used, will split them. They should, also, be cleaned as soon after they are caught as possible—the sooner the better. When carefully cleaned and washed, they should be wiped dry and a pinch of clean salt rubbed down their backs. As soon thereafter as may be, they should be hung up over a "smudge," so that they may be dried perfectly without danger of a visit from flies, and then stored away in dry hard-wooded crates, or dry hay if you wish, in the drier the better; or if this is not attainable, dry moss will answer very well. Thus packed, they will keep good for a week, in the hottest weather. But there are other modes adopted. Sugar as well as salt is sometimes used; with saltpetre and pepper. This is good, if too much is not used. But it will avail nothing, for a long carry, if the fish are not perfectly dry when put away.

GOOSEBERRY JAM.

Pick and clean red gooseberries, thoroughly ripe. Boil them by themselves for twenty minutes, skimming them frequently; then add brown sugar in the proportion of one pound of sugar to one pound of fruit; boil for half an hour after the sugar is in; skim it and pour it into earthenware jars; when cold, paper up the jars, and set aside in a dry, cool situation. Strawberry and black currant jams are made in precisely the same manner as the above; but instead of brown, use lump sugar.

CHERRY, GOOSEBERRY, OR CRANBERRY AND RASPBERRY JAM.

Make a good crust, and line a pudding-basin, previously buttered, with it; pick your fruit and fill the basin; put in a very little water and some sugar, wet the edges of the crust and pinch the edges together; tie a cloth tightly over, and boil the pudding for an hour and a half, or two hours, according to the size. When you take it out of the pot, dip the basin into cold water, then turn the pudding out.

THE NERVOUS SYSTEM.

In one of M. Brown's Sequences lectures he exhibited guinea pigs, which had been experimented upon some months ago, by cutting certain nerves; the hinder limbs became paralyzed, but at the same time the animals recovered the power of voluntary motion, attended, however, with a very curious result, the operator could put them into a fit of epilepsy whenever he pleased. It appears that by cutting of the nerves the animals lose sensation except in one limb, and if that spot is irritated a fit, the immediate consequence. Another noticeable particular is, that the loss which infest the animals congregates on that spot, and nowhere else. Whether it be that there is more warmth, or more perspiration than on other parts of the body, is not known; at any rate, physiologists are agreed as to the singular and suggestive nature of the phenomenon. It appears, moreover, that if the sensitive spot be destroyed, then the guinea pigs cease to be liable to epilepsy. Applying this fact to human physiology, M. Brown Segura says that there are three points in the human body, discoverable as he believes, by galvanism, which, if deprived of its sensibility, would, in like manner, completely prevent attacks of epilepsy.—Chambers' Journal.

THE NATIONAL COMPLAINT.

Dyspepsia is the most common disease among all classes in this country. It assumes a thousand shapes, and is the primary source of innumerable dangerous maladies; but whatever its type or symptoms, however obstinate its resistance to ordinary prescriptions, it yields readily and rapidly to the searching and osseous remedy.

THE BILIOUS AFFECTIONS.

The quality and quantity of the bile are of vital importance to health. Upon the liver, the gland which secretes the bile, there are three species, namely, jaundice, biliousness, and biliousness, each of which is a variety of disease generated by an unusual condition of the liver.

A WORD TO FEMALES.

The local debility and irregularities which are the result of the menstrual system, and which, when neglected, always shorten life, are relieved by a course of this mild thorough alterative.

USED THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are equally efficacious in complaints common to the whole human race, and in disorders peculiar to certain climates and localities.

ALARMING DISORDERS.

Dyspepsia and derangement of the liver, the source of indigestion, suffering, and the cause of innumerable deaths, yield to these curatives, in all cases however aggravated, acting as a mild purgative, iterative, and tonic.

GENERAL WEAKNESS.—NERVOUS COMPLAINTS.

When all stimulants fail, the renovating and bracing properties of these Pills give firmness to the shaking and enfeebled muscles of the victim of general debility.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the best remedy known in the world for the following Diseases:

- Ague, Asthma, Lumbago, Piles, Bilious Complaints, Retention of Urine, Itchiness of the skin, Secondary Symptoms, Constipation of the Bowels, Scrofula, or King's Evil, Cholera, Consumption, Sore Throats, Stomach and Gravel, Dysentery, Erysipelas, Tumor, Ulcers, Female Irregularities, Rheumatism, Gout, Head-ache, Indigestion, Inflammation, Jaundice, Worms of all kinds.

GREAT P. E. I. REMEDIES!

W. R. WATSON WOULD DIRECT PUBLIC attention to the assured original Preparations, which he guarantees to be all that he claims for them, viz. the best Medicines of the kind ever offered to the public. Innumerable certificates of the highest authority, might readily be adduced to the efficacy of each, but the universal celebrity to which they have attained throughout the Island, where they are manufactured, and consequently best known, renders it unnecessary.

Balsamic Syrup.

An Invaluable Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Chronic Coughs, Influenza, Difficulty of Breathing, and all Diseases of the Lungs, and Pulmonary Complaints.

This Medicine has the extraordinary property of immediately relieving Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness in the Throat, &c. It operates by dissolving the congested phlegm, thereby causing a free expectoration. Those who are troubled with that unpleasant tickling in the throat, which deprives them of rest night after night, by the incessant cough which it provokes, and which is attended with a sense of heat, and a sore throat, will find in this Balsamic Syrup, a most efficacious remedy. Where a gentle aperient is required, take an occasional dose or two of "WATSON'S PLEASANT PURGATIVE." They operate without producing those unpleasant and often distressing effects which frequent cathartics produce for a day or two after taking powerful medicinal agents.

Dyspepsia Bitters.

An Invaluable Remedy for Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Jaundice, Bilious Complaints, Acid Stomach, Sick Headache, Heartburn, Acid Stomach and Diarrhoea, and all Diseases arising from their origin in Costiveness or Bad Digestion.

These Bitters will be found beneficial in the first stages of Diarrhoea or Dysentery, by taking half a teaspoonful at bed-time, and when it fails, "WATSON'S DIARRHOEA MIXTURE" will be found a perfect remedy.

Dysentery & Diarrhoea Mixture.

A Safe, Speedy and Effective Remedy for Dysentery, Dysentery, Cholera, and Disorders of the Bowels generally, in adults and children; and if promptly applied, in cases of Cholera, would be productive of the happiest results, and it quickly relieves Acute Pain, distends Flatulence, induces Purgative, and comforts and invigorates the whole system.

"The public will please observe, there is a Seal on Watson, Druggist, P. E. Island," upon the Cork of each Bottle, and that on the back of each of these there are these words, "W. R. Watson, Charlotetown, P. E. Island," without which some genuine article is not to be trusted.

DOCTOR HOFFLAND'S CELEBRATED GERMAN BITTERS.

PREPARED BY DR. C. M. JACKSON, Phil. Pa., WILL EFFECTUALLY CURE Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver or Stomach.

Such as Constipation, Lumbago, Piles, Fullness or weight in the stomach, sour Eructations, sinking or fluttering at the pit of the stomach, vomiting of the food, hoarseness and difficult Breathing, fluttering at the heart, choking or suffocating sensation when in a lying posture, dimness of Vision, Dizziness of the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin, and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, and other parts of the body, Headache, and Constant Burblings in the Flesh, Castaneous Imaginations of the Face, and Constant Depression of Spirit.

The proprietor, in calling the attention of the public to this preparation, does so with a feeling of the utmost confidence in its virtues and adaptation to the diseases for which it is recommended.

It is no new and untried article, but one that has stood the test of a ten years' trial before the American people, and its reputation and sale is unvaried by an equal preparation extant. The testimony in its favor, given by the most prominent and well-known physicians and individuals in all parts of the United States, is innumerable; and a careful perusal of the Almanac published annually by the proprietor, and of the had grants of any of his Agents, cannot but satisfy the most sceptical that this remedy is really deserving of the great celebrity it has obtained.
