CHASING A FAITHLESS HUSBAND. Mrs Hagan Overhauled Him in Chicago, but He Again Eluded Her.

The Feel's Frayer.

Chicago, July 20.—If George C. Hagan, late of Newcastle, Pa., will send his present address to his wife he will receive the thanks of a much wronged woman, who is after his scalp. Hagan were leading citizen and wealthy shoe merchant of Newcastle, and his lamily moved in the creamiset of society. Mrs. Hagan had a handsome face and a small fortune to recommend her on her wedding day 17 years ago, but Hagan has the cash now.

There was not a ripple on the placid stream of their married life until Rachel Vogan, most fair to look upon, was hired to do the housework. Mrs. Hagan woke up one morning a few weeks ago to find that husband and servant had skipped, leaving her nothing but a mortgaged shoe store. The Chicago police found that Hagan had purchased a $35,000 share in a confectionery store on Wabash-avenue, and we spassing off his companion as his niece. The deserted wife dropped into the store last Saturday and a "bull in a china shop" scene followed. Mrs. Hagan, in fear for the girl's life, had to fight off his wife.

On Monday husband and wife met again, and she believed his soft words of peuitence long enough to give him a chance to bolt again with Rachel. Mrs. Hagas thinks she will be able to catch her recreant husband at Omaha, where he must stop to get a draft cashed. She wants to recover some of her money and then return to Newcastle, withdraw from society and get a divorc.

The men tell a pitiful stery of hardship and suffering. They left the fishing schooner Carleton Belle, Captain Seth Eldridge, of Booth Bay, Me., on the morning of July 1 in two dorys to go trawling. A dense fog came on and their vessel became lost. They then cast adritt one of the dorys and floated around in the other for the following five days and four nights. They had only about a quart of water in a tin and a raw fish. On the fourth day their limbs began to swell, Samuel Smith and Samuel Hutchinson, who Be merciful to me, a fool!" the fourth day their limbs began to swell, and particularly their tongues, and they took to sucking the lead sinkers of their lines. When picked up they were barely able to crawl, and had drifted about 100 rolles from their yessel. On arrival here everyone. miles from their vessel.
