Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

There are divers times and seasons when for sundry human reasons man would rather nurse his sorrow than to listen to a jest; when emotions sentimental and reflections incidental claim possession of HISPT his headpiece and his broad and manly breast. There are moments when he's weary of this world that's passing dreary, and he wants to sit in silence thinking thoughts that smell of smoke; and at such a bitter season someone fit for spoils and treason nearly always comes to jar him with a punk and pallid joke. I have sat, too sad to frolic, with my stomach full of colic, drinking yarb tea from a dipper, while I sweated blood and sweat; and a joker came and found me, told a string of yarns around me, till I smote him with a fit tree that was growing by my door. I have sat, of hope denuded, sit alone and mourned and brooded, for the scads I staked on Jeffries just a little year ago, and an aleck then narrated witticisms, antiquated, heedless of my tears of anguish, blind to all my carling woe. Fellow beings, young or hoary! Ye have ye spring your gags! If ye find your victims nursing bitter grief and sadly cursing, it were well to can your legends, or you'll tear their souls to rags!

That Shooting Affray.

Inspector General Sullivan by yesterday's Bruce express had full particulars regarding the affray at Codroy, last Saturday night, when two men, Parsons and Sams, were shot by an old man named Sams, and severely though not dangerously wounded. It seems that a gang of young men nightly for months past assembled around the old man's house and threw volleys after volleys of stones at him. Neither threats nor persuasion had any effect with them, and the old man feared eventually that either he or the little girl and boy, aged 7 and 5 years, respectively, who lived with him would be hurt. Their father is away fishing, and the children were frightened very much by this continued annoyance. The old man is a half-witted creature and became utterly incensed Saturday night when the stones came crashing through the windows of the house and narrowly escaped striking the little girl who had a lighted lamp in her hands. Sams had a gun loaded with seal shot, and going to the door fired at random in the direction from which the missiles came, wounding the two men mentioned above. He was arrested by Constable Goodland and admitted the shooting. Magistrate Mc Donald investigated and says that the men well deserved what they got, though it is

Patients Taken to the Hospital.

Editor Evening Telegram.—Dear Sir,—The S. S. Beotic on her return trip from the North took to Battle Harbor Hospital five or six patients, one of whom was very sick indeed. I could not help remarking the tenderness and sympathy of the stewards towards those suffering ones. They did not perhaps understand the inner life as I did, but they evidently saw written across the countenance sorrow pain, the result of crushed hopes and a longing to be well again to enjoy the comforts of home, and they did not fail to express that sympathy which they felt. I did indeed, sir, appreciate their kindness. The poet says:—"If some were sick and more were sad, What service could we render?" With this number was a poor, destitute, motherless, fatherless child whom the writer was taking to a home he had secured; she, too, did not fail to elicit the sympathy of some of the officers. The words of one stamped themselves upon my memory, "I have no sympathy with the great, big, strong, hardy, lazy man, but a case like this goes right to my heart. Who could shut up their bowels of compassion against such? One did—the Poor Commissioner, so-called, he was asked by one of the officers to pay her fare and he refused. The writer had no objection, sir, but he had already clothed the child, and thought it the duty of the above mentioned to pay her passage money. Am I right? We want men in such positions capable of being touched by human need, and not stock and stones, feeling nothing. F. G. P. St. John's, July 5th, 1911.

NEWS FROM THE STREETS.

The R. N. Co. received the following telegraph news from Capt. Barbours of the Stella Maria at Point Amouso this morning: "Arrived here at 6.30 p.m. yesterday; left 12.30 to-day. ### LATEST CABLE NEWS.

Special to Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, To-Day.—The principal arbitration in the international disputes in so far as they apply to the United States and Great Britain received considerable impetus yesterday. Secretary Knox and Ambassador Bryce signed the first schedule of certain pecuniary claims existing between United States and Great Britain and arranged the terms of their submission to arbitration in accordance with the agreement signed in August last. The pecuniary claims aggregate several million dollars, some of them being of long standing antedating the war of 1812; many grew out of the war of the Philippines; others relate to the fisheries and the Fiji Islands. It is understood that the question will be arbitrated by a commission composed of representatives of the United States and Great Britain and a disinterested umpire.

Special Evening Telegram. OTTAWA, July 7.—It is stated here that the contract for the construction of the ships for the Canadian Navy has been awarded to the British-Canadian Shipbuilding and Dock Company, whose headquarters are at Sydney. The Company is composed of prominent Canadian and British capitalists and shipbuilders. Plans for the plant at Sydney are now well under way and will shortly be submitted to the Government for their approval. The plant calls for an expenditure of $2,000,000, which includes the placing in position of the dry dock, which will be one of the largest in the world. It is expected to have the plant in operation within two years and to have the naval ships well advanced towards completion inside five years.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-Day.—Communications concerning Germany's action in Morocco, are still passing between the British, German and French Governments; but little is known beyond the fact that Great Britain made it clear that she intends faithfully to fulfill treaty obligations towards France. Premier Asquith had pronounced, at a meeting of the House yesterday, but when questioned by Mr. Balfour had to admit that negotiations had not been finalized. There is absolutely no truth in the reports that the British Cabinet is divided over Moroccan situation.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, July 7.—Sir Eldon Gorst, Consul General of Egypt, who is seriously ill, has resigned and it is said that Lord Kitchener will likely be appointed to the position. Earl Grey was in the House yesterday, but when questioned by Mr. Balfour had to admit that negotiations had not been finalized. There is absolutely no truth in the reports that the British Cabinet is divided over Moroccan situation.
