The Catfish.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old St. John's." The catfish is so named because he looks about as much like a fish as he does like a cat.

He is one of the commonest of fish in American waters and if his disposition was as bad as his looks he would be more unpopular than a coxcomb. He consists of a very comprehensive mouth with a special constructed head, built to accommodate it. After a catfish's head is finished there isn't enough left of him to make a very impressive body. He is therefore mostly head. However, it is a flat head with a slanting brow. The catfish is not noted for its intelligence. He can be caught with a common hook and any old bait as easily as a confidence man can be hooked by a smooth old well known ter.

The catfish is liberally decorated with spines and wears two horns on his face which look like the whiskers of a Chinese mandarin. He is much respected on account of his spite than for any other reason. No man who has caressed a kicking catfish can be a careless moment can bring him very soon. A hornet's tail hurt worse than a catfish's spine, but for so long.

The catfish lives in a humble and orderly manner in the muddy bottom of any old stream and is the backbone of the school boy and the Mississippi river fisherman. Some catfish are content to weigh half a pound while some of them lie in the channels of the great alluvial rivers and let food-laden water flow through their croton tunnel faces until they attain a weight of 150 pounds and have been hauled out by a windlass. The Mississippi fisherman feels about as pulling on his line he gives a cheer and hauls away until he gets into the covetous grin of a chuckle. Then he loads him on a wagon wraps wet leaves around him and travels through the country side of catfish steaks until nothing of the grin is left. The catfish is not a talented gastronomically as a speckled trout, but he is a superior article of food when skinned and horned and should not be scorned on account of his looks.

Catfish are said to be able to breathe the water in dry spells and travel long distances on land, pulling themselves along with their fins. It was this talent which inspired the early American steamboat men with the idea of building a machine which could waddle on land and bars when necessary and

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, June 4.

The India Office report the defeat of the Turks in Mesopotamia with the capture of 250 prisoners. In pursuit along the river a Turkish steamer was sunk and lighters captured, containing field guns, ammunition, etc. About 300 further prisoners were taken.

The French Government report that the Crown Prince's Headquarters were bombarded by twenty-two French airmen, also a violent infantry action near Notre Dame de Lorette.

The Russian Government report the abandonment of Przemyśl, as owing to the state of the artillery, and the works being destroyed by the Austrians before capitulation, the town could not be defended. On the Lower San the Russians captured 4,000 prisoners, guns and numerous machine guns.

BONAR LAW.

PROGRESS AT SOUCHEZ.

PARIS, via St. Pierre, June 4. To the east of the sugar refinery of Souchez, our troops progressed towards the village of Souchez and captured an isolated inn that the enemy had fortified taking fifty odd prisoners and three quick-fires. We have also realized further advance in Labyrinth. On the remainder of the front, artillery duels.

SIR JOHN FRENCH'S REPORT.

LONDON, June 4. Field Marshal French's communication was made public this evening. He reports that during the last few days fighting on the western line has been confined to artillery engagements. On the night of May 30th, the report says: "We seized some out-buildings on the ground of the ruined Chateau at Hooge. Since then our trenches have been subjected to heavy bombardment. Fighting on a small scale has been continuous. At one time we were forced to evacuate the buildings taken by us, but last night we recaptured them. Northeast of Givenchy, last night, we expelled the enemy from his trenches on a front of 600 yards, taking 48 prisoners. Our infantry, however, were unable to remain in occupation of these trenches after daylight, owing to the enemy's fire."

FRENCH PROGRESS.

PARIS, June 4. Further progress has been made by the French in the furious battle north of Arras officially reported today.

NEARING METZ.

PARIS, June 4.—(Official.) North of the sugar refinery works at Souchez, we have taken a trench from the enemy and captured thirty prisoners. We have bombarded the southern front of the entrenched camp at Metz.

PREPARING TO EVACUATE.

ZURICH, June 4. The Russians are preparing to evacuate Lemberg and Galicia, according to advices received here.

RUSSIANS DEFENDING.

LONDON, June 4. The Austro-Hungary headquarters reporting the capture of a submarine says, attack is now in progress against the forts still held by the Russians. These positions are being defended, apparently, with the object of covering the retirement of the Russians.

GERMANS WIN MORAL VICTORY.

PETROGRAD, June 4. News of the fall of Przemyśl has awakened no apprehension here. It is conceded that the Germans have won a moral victory, but the strategic importance of the fortress, ac-
