The Story on a Stamp. (From the Boston Transcript.)

The "mandate for Palestine"— therwise the British official scheme for the government of the ancient home of the Jews—provides for what will certainly be a curiosity in postage stamps—namely, a stamp upon which the descriptive statement will be printed or engraved in three languages. There are already stamps on which words are found both in English and in Arabic, Turkish and certain Indian tongues, and doubtless other bi-lingual stamps; but as yet none, we believe, in which the legend is tri-lingual. But one requirement of the Palestine mandate is as follows: "English, Arabic and Hebrew will be the official languages of Palestine; any statement or inscription in Arabic on stamps or money in Palestine shall be repeated in Hebrew, and any statement or inscription in Hebrew shall be repeated in Arabic." Inasmuch as a British protectorate will scarcely employ stamps which are not first of all marked in English, we may look forward to a Palestine stamp which will be inscribed first of all in the ancient tongue of Israel, then in the imperial language of England, and finally in the tongue of the sons of the desert, who have come in to occupy the fields that once flowered and fruited only for the subjects of King David. The tri-lingual inscription on the Palestinian postage stamp will in itself tell a long story. Nothing could be more romantic than the Hebrew official return to the land of Canaan, where Abraham is supposed to have been established by the divine command 1644 years before Christ, or some 3564 years before a Jewish governor returned once more to Canaan, and the official revival of the ancient tongue, which even at the time of Jesus was already a dead language, having been supplanted by Aramaic. In simple fact, the use of Hebrew on the stamps of Palestine would correspond very closely to the marking of the stamps of England in Latin, for the reason that Latin was the official tongue of the country under the Roman Empire. But as the Zionists have chosen to revive the Hehrew as their official language, the written or printed message of the children of Abraham will now be borne on their bay by the aid of the tongue of David and Solomon. · Scarcely less interesting in the official use of the tongue of Arabia in the Holy Land. Arabic is in fact a Semitic tongue kindred to the Hebrew, but now differing greatly from it. The Arabs are the aboriginal inhabitants of the general region. Biblically, they are the sons of Ishmael, and therefore of Abraham, as are also the Jews; the kinship is there; but historically they are comparatively late comers in Palestine, having swept in and occupied the lands from which more "civilized" inhabitants had been driven. There they are now much at home; and yet if the plans of Jewish reoccupation of the ancient land of Israel are carough, the Arabic is destined to disappear in time from the Palestinian stamp. Little by little the Jews will increase in numbers, until they are preponderant, and who can doubt that eventually the sovereignty will pass to them, and that the Arabs will, family by family, fold their tents and silently fade away from Zion?

Romance of Hymns.

Some of the most beautiful and popular of our hymns were the offspring of sadness and tragedy.

Charlotte Elliott wrote "Just as I Am" when she was ill and discouraged. The Rev. Henry Francis Lyte wrote "Abide With Me" when "the darkness of death" was creeping over

Cowper tried to commit suicide twice and failed, after which he wrote, "God Moves in a Mysterious Way." Apart from the great beauty of "Our Blest Redeemer" the hymn is remarkable from the fact that the authoress, Harriet Auber, first wrote it on a pane of glass in a window of her house at Hoddesdon.

"Christians, awake, salute the happy morn," has been a favorite hymn for more than one hundred and fifty years. John Byrom, the author, wrote it for his favourite daughter, Dolly, who found it one Christmas morning among her other presents.

"There is a Happy Land" was written by Andrew Young in 1838. He happpened, during that year, to be spending his holiday at Rothesay, and one day passed the afternoon in the house of a friend. A little girl began to play a pretty Indian melody on the plane, and Mr. Young begged her to play it again, remarking that it would make a capial tune for a children's hymn. That night the tune still haunted him, and early in the morning, he rose and walking in the garden, wrote the hymn. Perhaps the most quickly-written hymn was "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," composed by Bishop Heber in little more than fifteen min-
