The Apiary.

Don't make a veritable curiosity shop of your apiary, by filling it with a job-lot of hives of all the different patterns you can hear of, just to see which is best.

Don't wait until there is a heavy honeyflow from clover or basswood before you order those new hives and sections.

Don't write a long, abusive letter to the suffering supply dealer asking him why those sections you ordered by telegraph yesterday neon had not arrived at the depot.

Don't sell your honey in any shape, and for any price your local grocer may see fit to pay you.

to pay you.

Don't go to dinner and leave that big swarm of Italian bees hanging in the hot sunshine.

Don't make that common mistake of

The training of the common mistake of crating the nice white sections next to the glass, and the dark ones in a family "group" in the center.

Don't put in too much time talking politics at the village store during swarming time.

Don't put off that little job of September Took that on the tree poor is specially feeding until the following spring, and then wonder how it comes that some people have such luck with bees!

Don't leave your bees out so late in the fall that you have to chop the ice off the hives before you can house them.

Mr. J. R. Allen, upholsterer, Toronto, sends us the following: "For six or seven years my wife suffered with Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Inward Piles and Kidney Complaint. We tried two physicians and any number of medicines without yetting any relief, until we got a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. This was the first relief she got, and before one bottle was used the benefit she derived from it was beyond our expectation."

The law of the harvest is to resp more than you sow. Sow an act and you reap a habit; sow a habit and you reap a char-acter; sow a character and you reap a destiny .- [George D. Boardman.
