Public School Princiapls Fear That Their Students Will Be "Plucked."

The arithmetic paper at the high chool entrance examinations proved the body dangling outward. Death was to be decidedly hard, and unless the examiners show the quality of mercy a a marked degree a large number will be plucked.

According to experts the paper was ne of the hardest ever given to oungsters in this city, and there are ud complaints. A number of rincipals of the schools are much put out about it. They claim the paper is unfair in nearly every particular. It bristles with abstract, tricky questions, and is by no means a practical one. The question about the icehouse is manifestly unfair to entrance pupils, they declare.

"The paper is an extremely difficult one," said one principal.
