BATTLE OF CENTURIES

Allies Now Meeting Huns on Equal Footing and Win Steadily.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wright were vesterday notified that their eldest son, Major Ward Wright of the 3rd Canadian Battalion, Toronto regiment, is in a base hospital in France suffering from a serious bayonet wound. The first news came in a telephone message from Mrs. Wright's brother, Newton W. Rowell of Toronto, who had received a cable. The young officer was a partner in his uncle's law Mrs. B. G. H. In the same letter bearing the date August 31, Major Wright in speaking of the Somme in comparison with Ypres salient says: "In Belgium the Hun was on three sides of us. Here he is only in front and we have a fifty-to-fifty chance instead of a twenty-five to seventy-five one. Last night I slept in a German dugout in the Huns' second line. It is the only place in Belgium or France that I have felt absolutely safe.
