INCIDENTS DURING THE ROYAL PROGRESS .- The de-PROIDENTS DIRING THE ROYAL PROGRESS.—The deputation with the city address having retired, the chamberlain was about to introduce the Roman Catholic prelates next in order, when the following interesting dispute took place:—The Rev. Dr. Wall, S. F. T. C. D., who was in attendance with the deputation from Trinity College to present the University address, advancing claimed precedence. The castle functionary replied that the Roman Catholic Prelates should be the first admitted; upon which the Rev. Dr. Wall, observed that, as a corporation, the the Rev. Dr. Wall observed that, as a corporation, the college had a right of precedence and insisted upon her privilege. The chamberlain replied that the time and place were unsuitable for raising a question of such a nature—an opinion from which Dr. Wall expressed his dissent, observing that that was the time to have the point decided; for, if the right were then conceded, it would be claimed on future occasions; and again, resolutely pressing his claim, recommended the official to make enqui-ries at the proper source of information on such matters and that he would discover that he was incorrect in his and that he would discover that he was incorrect in his judgment as to the course of etiquette. Upon receiving this admonition the officer in waiting retired in obedience to it, and in a short time returning said he was much obli-ged to Dr. Wall for setting him right, and at once admitted the college deputation to the Royal presence.

"UNADORNED ELOQUENCE" IN THE PULPIT. Hitherto the public have known but little of Doctor M'Hale's powers as a speaker save as they oozed out at a repeal banquet or monster meeting. With the style of his countless missives from St. Jarlath's all are familiar, but of his pulpit eloquence those living out of the range of his spiritual jurisdiction must be necessarily wholly ig-norant. To the Rev Mr. Moore, the rector of Cong, in the county of Mayo, is the reader indebted for a sample of the most reverened prelate's altar thunderings; and if such be the teaching inculcated upon the "faithful" in the archdiocese of Tuam, people will begin to think that of a choice of evils it would be better if "his Grace" devoted his wholl times to the concocuon of diatribes for the edifhis whole time to the concection of diatribes for the edifi-cation of the bigoted faction of which he is the accredited champion, and leave the pulpit duties to be discharged by his subordinate clergy. In a letter addressed to the Evening Mail, Mr. Moore makes a statement of the circumstances under which he has been the means of cluci-dating the charitable views entertained by Dr. M'Hale towards those who have the misfortune to differ with him

It having been announced, writes Mr. Moore.—

"From the altar of our parish chape!, for the last few Sabbaths, that the 'Archbishop of Tuam' would hold a confirmation on Thursday, the 23rd of August, and that he would then and there denounce Mrs. Moore's school and Mr. Moore's lecture, that I might obtain a true account of what the 'pope's' servant did really say, I sent two reporters to the chapel—the one a Protestant, the other a Roman Catholic. I give you the report as fornished by the Roman Catholic, as it may be less exceptionable. I shall make no comment, I shall not return 'railing for railing but contrarywise blessing.' Earnestly, indeed do I pray the Lord God may bless 'the pope's servant,' by turning him from darkness to light; truly 'my heart's desire and prayer to God for my Roman Catholic brethren, whether prayer to God for my Roman Catholic brethren, whether of high or low degree, is that they may be saved." of high or low degree, is that they may be saved." The Roman Catholic reporter thus begins:—
"'Mass being over, the archbishop ascended the altar and addressed the congregation in Irish, saying,—
"He was much pained at receiving an invitation from that 'holy man' (pointing to the parish priest) to visit the parish of Cong at that unusual period. The circumstances that called for his immediate attention were indeed painful. He as their bishop, the lawful representative of the true church of God, felt it his duty to warn them against the wily and crafty assaults of a base and corrupted church—a church filled with such filthy and foul abominations that he would blush to mention—a church begotten nations that he would blush to mention—a church begotten and founded by Luther and Calvin—a church cherished and nursed by brutal force and the lustful desire of Harry VIII and Elizabeth, a wicked church, a cursed church established on the spoil of the old Catholic church of God

AN APPEAL TO HONEST DISSENTERS. That "Union is strength," is one of those selfevident truths which require no demonstration; and any parents should be found base enough to murder their children? Whatever were their excusses, they were more inexcusable than Cain who killed his brother Abel.

What is it, we would ask, which has mainly "If any parents would send their contared to stem schools they were killing their souls, by making them feed on the poison and heresy of that cursed and damnable church—a church which was instilling into their mind the losthsome and soul-killing doctrines of Luther and the losthsome and soul-killing doctrines of Luther and the corrupt and usurping Church of Rome to maintain the footing which she has done, in an age so distinguished for intellectual enlightenment and the corrupt and usurping Church of Rome to maintain the footing which she has done, in an age where the corrupt and usurping Church of Rome to maintain the footing which she has done, in an age where the corrupt and usurping Church of Rome to maintain the footing which she has done, in an age where the corrupt and usurping Church of Rome to maintain the footing which she has done, in an age where the corrupt and usurping Church of Rome to maintain the footing which she has done, in an age where the corrupt and usurping Church of Rome to maintain the footing which she has done, in an age where the corrupt and usurping Church of Rome to maintain the footing which she has done, in an age where the corrupt and the corrupt so distinguished for intellectual enlightenment and on the system or its adherents. free enquiry? Lord Ellesmere is erecting a monument in the north aisle of Henry the Seventh's Chapel, at Westminister, to mark the grave of Joseph Addison. There is a statue to Addison in Poet's Corner; but hitherto the spot where his remains lie has been unmarked by a tablet.

The Lord Bishop of Salisbury has appointed Friday next, (31st August) to be set apart as a a day of humiliation and prayer, in consequence of the national visitation with this country has been afflicted by the prevalence of cholera. proper course for them to pursue? There are weighty reasons, both ecclesiastical and civil, why the Church cannot go over to them; is there any solid and sufficient reason why they should not rejoin the Church? This is the they should not rejoin the Church? This is the pian and practical question which we have to discuss. Let it be well understood that we require the surrender of no one conscientious conviction—we argue on the supposition of their retaining their several differences on matters of Church retaining their several differences on matters of Church government and discipline, and on this hypothesis we ask what there is in our terms of communion which should prevent their uniting with us in public worship? The Presbyterian may demur to a three-fold division of the Christian ministry, and the necessity of episcopal ordination, but he is not thereby precluded from joining with us in Common Prayer. The Congregationalist may attach much importance to the call of a Minister by his congregation, but our system does not require him to renounce this view. The Church demands no test of her lay communicants; all who receive her Creeds can join in her Liturgy, may walk together in the house of God as friends. The Wesleyan Methodist does not even profess any positive objection to the dist does not even profess any positive objection to the public services of the Church, and will not allow himself to be called a dissenter. Why, then, should the Wesleyans,—whose founder was a Minister and Missionary of the Church of Frederick and the State of the Church of Frederick and the State of England, who strictly enjoined communion on his congregations, and ever professed that it was the desire of his heart to reinforce, not to supplant the Church,—why should they help to spread and perpetuate in other lands the division which they have however institutionally occasion. which they have, however unintentionally, occasioned at home? Even admitting the difficulties in the way of a reunion in Great Britain, why should not the Wesleyans seek to be at one with us in the Colonies, and so contribute to heal a gaping wound, to present the sight of returning union for the edification of believers, and to secure the efficiency of a united body for the conversion of the heathen?

Earnestly do we trust that the pious and singleninded Dissenters of Canada will take this momentous matter into their serious and prayerful consideration. Let them strive to realize the practical and positive evils of their position. Discarding the narrow, clannish pride of Denominationalism, let them calmly compare the Liturgy and other standards of the

The display of pigs, sheep, milch cows, bulls and calves, and especially the yearlings was considered very good, the horses are said not to have been so numerous as on former occasion but among them were some beautiful animals. The most crowded part of the grounds was the neighbourhood of the Floral Hall destined not so much to the exhibition of flowers, of which there were but a scanty display, but to works of Att—paintings, drawings, needlework, fruit and vegetables. In all these branches, we are informed that the present.

The Horticultural products were plentiful enough, but of flowers there was hardly any worth mentioning—in fact Flora was anything but at home in the bodes specially provided for her. I was pleased at noticing the progress evinced in the department of the Fine Arts:—as a whole, the display was good; for although in some branches the specimens were but mediocre, yet in otherwal as a whole, the display was good; for although in some branches the specimens were but mediocre, yet in otherwal and provided was the neighbourhood of the Christian continual reference to the progress of the christian In all these branches, we are informed that the present outrivalled any former similar occasion. Some beautiful Daguera comparison the Church not only permits, but enjoins. If this be done in an honest and truth-seeking were decidedly the best executed of any taken by spirit, the results we are convinced will be happy indeed.
