Building operations were begun immediately, and on Jan. 30, 1881, the church, a frame building, was opened by Rev. Dr. Parsons. For some time the services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Reekle and students from Knox College.

The congregation was regularly organized as a missison station by Rev. Dr. Caven on behalf of the presbytery on Jan. 25, 1882, when certificates were received from 16 members. Other certificates received later increased the mmbership to 27. Alex. Gibb, one on the first roll, is still a member of the congregation and also of the session.

Vesterday was gala day among the Deer Park Presbyterians, the occasion being the opening and dedication of their new church at the corner of St. Clair avenue and Foxbar road, which edifice was crowded to the doors. At the morning service the prayer of dedication was offered by Rev. R. D. Fraser, D.D., moderator of the presbytery, and the words of dedication were given by Rev. Alfred Gandier, D.D., principal of Knox College. Rev John McNeill, pastor of Cooke's Church, preached the sermon, St Luke xix., 9, "They trusted themselves that they were righteous and despised others." The music was of an exceptionally high character, the Te Deaum being sung by the choir, assited by W. J. Lawrence, choirmaster of the Eglinton Methodist Church. Description of the Church.

The church has been designed in a style of Gothic architecture well adapted to suit the complex needs of a modern church, quiet dignity being the keynote thruout.

The auditorium has been laid out on a cross plan, with nave, transepts and a short chancel for choir and organ. The side aisless are vaulted and lighted by long low windows, and the nave piers support the arcading and upper cierestory, which is filled with traceried windows. The gallery, at the rear of the church only, makes this type of interior possible of realization. All pews are arranged within the lines of the nave arcading, so that every person has a direct view of the pulpit and choir. There are no seats behind columns or piers and no pillars under the gallery.

The nave and transepts seat 800, the even be kept from growing worse—unless bone can't "knit" unless constantly held to gether.

And that is the curse of wearing elastion spring trusses—not one in twenty even holds successfully—they sooner or later mak operation absolutely necessary instead operation absolutely necessary instead operations.

But remember that the Cluthe Truss is guaranteed to hold—and that it won't conyou a cent if it doesn't.—And in addition to constant holding, it provides the only wa ever discovered for overcoming the weak ness which is the real cause of rupture.

It does that entirely automatically—with out any attention whatever from you.—An has thus brought complete recovery in thousands of cases that seemed almost hopeles and has saved thousands of people from haing to risk their lives under the surgeon knife.
