DAUGHTER OF A PIONEER

B.C. Government Grants $600 Year to Aged Resident of Toronto.

Miss Harriet Fraser of Toronto, daughter of the late Simon Fraser, who explored British Columbia in the very early days of its history, has been granted an annuity of $600 a year by the B. C. Government. She is over 80 years of age and in poor health. Simon Fraser was born near Bennington, Vermont, in 1776. His mother and her family came to Canada and settled in Glengarry after his father's death. In 1792 he became an articled death. In 1152 he became an articled clerk with McTavish, Frobisher & Co. of the Northwest Fur Trading Co. of Montreal, and in 1802 became a partner. In 1806 it became his duty to cross the Rocky Mountains and from trading relations with the Indians.

He took with him 30 men and as he went on he built blockhouses and took possession of the country in the name of the King. In 1806 he discovered the Fraser River, and also other rivers and lakes which he named after other members of the company. He traced the Fraser to its source and one of his experiences on this journey is worth relating.

The party fell in with an Indian trice, who killed their fattest dog for him, and, of course, he feigned to eat it. At the same feast the chiefs decided to put him to death, but the interpreter overheard the plot and the white men stole away.

In July, 1807, he received instructions to trace the Fraser to the sea, as i was feared the Americans would get ahead of the British in that quarter. In the previous year Captains Lewis and Clark had gone down the Columbia and were extending American authority along the west coest. thority along the west coast. Mr. braser reached the ocean one year so did not stay.

later, but found the Indians hostile so fearful were the tribes of fire-arms that all would fall prostrate on the ground at the discharge of a rifle. Alexander Fraser, in his "The Clan Fraser," declares that "had it not been for Mr. Fraser's wonderful energy there would not be a railroad to-day from ocean to ocean over British ter

JOACHIM IS DEAD.

Was Conductor of the Royal Academy of Music at Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 15.-Joseph Joachim, the celebrated violinist conductor of the Royal Academy of Music, Berlin, and music director of the Royal Academy of Arta, died this afternoon.

He had been suffering for a long time from asthma and had been unconscious for several days.

He was born in 1831.

Dr. Joachim was considered the greatest interpreter of his time of classic violin music. Most of the great violin soloists have acknowledged Joachim as their superior in the exposition of Beethoven and Bach. His wonderful playing of the Bach Chaconne, the Tartini Devil's Thrill, or the first movement of the Kreutzer sonata, will long be remembered by those who have heard it. All other renderings of the Bach and Tartini works have seemed but puny efforts. His superlative technique, which altogether masked the difficulties of these compositions, his absolute purity of tone and certainty of intonation, his grand style of bowing and his unerring conception of the essence, the character of the music, made his rendering of these grand works unap-proachable.

It is probable that Joachim's conscientiousnes as interpreter and mu-sician owed much of its development to the influence of Mendelssohn, who was his friend and adviser when he was a boy. Joachim won the first great ovation of his life in London in 1844. May 27, when he played the Beethoven concerto. He made a conquest then once and for all of the British public, and they continued to worship him for 62 years since.
At the celebrated London Monday Popular Concerts he was for years the supreme attraction, and when he retired the concerts ceased. He never crossed the sea to America.
