

Headaches Mean Your Blood Is Poisoned

If your bowels, kidneys or skin are not ridding the system of waste-matter, the blood is laden with impurities, which inflame the nerves. It is these irritated nerves that make the head ache.

Powders and pills won't cure, they merely drug the nerves into unconsciousness and relieve for a short time.

"Fruit-a-lives" cure Headaches, Neuralgia and Nerve Pains because they purify the blood. They act directly on the three great eliminating organs—Bowels, Kidneys and Skin—and restore them to healthy action, thus ridding the system of all poisons.

"Fruit-a-lives" are fruit juices—chemically changed, by the process of combining them, into a far more effective medicinal compound than the natural juices. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

How do you know you do not need

Bu-Ju

The Gentle Kidney Pill

If there is pain in the back and through the hips, you need Bu-Ju. If the hands and ankles are swollen, you need Bu-Ju. If there are headaches or neuritis, you need Bu-Ju. If you are nervous and do not sleep well at night, you need Bu-Ju. If there is a constant desire to urinate, you need Bu-Ju. If the urine is reddish, cloudy, milky, hot and scalding, you need Bu-Ju. Especially if you are tormented with inflammatory or muscular rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, you certainly do need Bu-Ju.

If you have any of the above symptoms, don't hesitate to delay. Take Bu-Ju, and cure yourself.

I am anxious that you should know the relief and benefit I have derived from taking Bu-Ju. The effect has been marvelous. I have suffered severely for years with pain in the back, especially on rising in the morning, and I am pleased to say that the pain has completely disappeared. Before using Bu-Ju, I had tried every remedy I heard of for Kidney Trouble, without even receiving relief. I would strongly advise anyone suffering from Kidney Trouble to take Bu-Ju without delay.

CHAS. R. LESTER.

It costs only 3c. a day to take Bu-Ju, and your money refunded if they fail to cure. 50c. a large box. At druggists, or sent on receipt of price.

WEAK HEART SYSTEM WAS RUN DOWN

When the heart is healthy and performing its functions naturally, it should beat regularly twenty-two times a minute without causing its owner the slightest inconvenience or distress.

When it begins to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throb, skip beats, beat fast for a time, then slow as to seem almost to stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

The least excitement or exertion seems to affect it.

Many people are kept in a state of morbid fear of death, become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social or business duties, through unnatural action of their heart.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

can give prompt and permanent relief. Mrs. J. Fletcher, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled for four or five years with weakness, and run down system. My feet were always cold and I felt almost dead. My heart was weak and I was so nervous I could hardly walk across the street. I started taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using three boxes I felt much better. I continued their use until I had taken twelve boxes and I am now well."

FIELD HELD ODD DEATH TRAP

Gardeners Die Mysteriously From Scratch on Foot.

PLACE IS SHUNNED BY ALL

Investigation Reveals Ground Laden With the Bacilli of Lockjaw.

Los Angeles, March 12.—Twenty-five miles south of this city lies the most peculiar deathtrap in the world. Looked at from outside the barbed wire fence that surrounds it, it is a harmless appearing field, furrowed with the marks of the plow, and growing to cabbages and carrots and turnips and lettuce, for it has been months since the field was worked.

Near Santa Ana is this bit of level land. About a year ago it was reclaimed from the wild mesa and rented to a Chinese gardener. Within the first two weeks of its occupancy, before any of the green things he had planted showed their tips above the rich black earth, two of his oriental workmen had died in the greatest agony.

Both were stricken in the field. One lived to reach the farmhouse where laborers on the ranch were accustomed to sleep. The other was picked up, his body already stiffening in the rigor of death, in the midst of the furrow down which he was hoeing. On the foot of each was a slight scratch, too small to be called a cut, evidently made by a mistroke of one of the heavy hoes the men were using.

No one seems to have connected the cuts on the men's feet with the sudden deaths. The coroner, or one of his assistants, passed the usual verdict of death from natural causes on the poor orientals; they were buried and the incident was forgotten.

Mystery in Sudden Deaths.

A month went by and no further harm befell the workers in the field. Then there seemed to come another epidemic. Another man died from causes apparently identical with the other two. The Chinese began to be afraid of the field, and those living on neighboring vegetable gardens would have nothing to do with profers of work, even at advanced prices, on the fatal plot.

The last man who died is said to have cut an entire toe off with his hoe. In any event, he made so large a cut on his foot that the head of the Chinese, a man who was running the garden, Charley Kim by name, decided in his crafty mind that there was some connection between the cuts and the sudden deaths. So he warned the two or three men he still managed to keep with him to be doubly careful as to not injuring themselves. The field was given over to the production of vegetables of the simpler sort—those that required the least cultivation.

The earth seemed good and produced bountifully of all that was planted in it. No harm came to the persons who ate of the stuff raised in that part of the garden. Kim's trade was entirely local, ranchers and townspeople in and around Santa Ana, and he noticed that no one complained of the vegetables he sold. So, as he reasoned, it could not be the head of the Chinese, much of which was produced from this very bit of ground.

Place is Avoided.

Several months went by, the scare among the Chinese died down to some extent, and the gardener imported six men from one of the towns in Los Angeles. Inside of a week two of these had been stricken, and within an incredibly short time both died, as had the others, in horrible agony.

Three of the new workmen fled headlong for their homes in the larger city; increased wages offered were of no avail to hold them. All together they fled, fled from they knew not what. Not one of the Chinese laborers working on other vegetable gardens would go near the field by day or night. They declared it was bewitched, and the owner, though a thoroughly Americanized Chinese, began to think so himself. Ruin stared him in the face; he could get no men to work his garden for him. One by one his customers left him. His rent days became harder and harder to meet. All his men were gone but one—one of those last six who had come from Los Angeles, and three of whom had fled so incontinently when death laid its hand on two.

This one was a brave fellow, and a curious one as well. He wanted to know the cause of all the trouble, but, like most orientals, he had an immense fund of patience; he was in no hurry to find out, at any rate not at his own expense. He saw the cuts on the feet of those who had died, saw and wondered, and was careful that he did not cut himself.

At last, however, he relaxed his watchfulness, and did gash one of his feet, not lightly, but with a heavy blow from the hoe. About 100 yards from the field passes a trolley line to Los Angeles. Hastily he bound up his injured foot, ran to the top of his speed to the line, boarded the first car that came running along, and was borne directly to the county hospital.

Find Bacilli of Lockjaw.

"Tetanum!" said the surgeon there, and gave him an injection of anti-tetanus. Then his story came out. A rigid investigation of that five-acre field was made, and the ground was found to be laden with the bacilli of lockjaw, the dread yet mysterious disease which had set foot in the rich black soil.

Now the vegetable garden is closed; Charley Kim has gone to better fields for the raising of his cabbage and turnips and carrots and beans. And the Chinaman who was wise and knew the white man's hospital lived, as might have lived the others had they known what struck them as they tramped the furrowed field with their hoes ahead of them.

Now, too, the search is on for a way to kill the deadly bacilli in the field, so that its fertility may once more be put to use. Doctors say the poison came in with the droppings of a horse used to plow the land; that the horse had been inoculated in a mild manner with the disease, so that his death did not come for some time. In any event the market gardeners of Orange County will have nothing to do with the bit of land, and its owner would sell it for a song—if the officers of the law would permit him so to do. Just now it is a white elephant to him; he must hold it until it has been steered, and in the meantime pay taxes on it as if it were producing land.

REFORMERS' PROBLEM

Immediate Loan of $35,000,000 Needed To Meet M. O. Liabilities.

London, March 11.—London's reputation of municipal socialism a week ago has been followed by similar results in the local elections throughout the country.

The new regime in the metropolis finds itself confronted with an embarrassing situation. The old council left unpaid bills amounting to $2,500,000, and future capital commitments aggregating $100,000,000. This necessitates an immediate new loan of $35,000,000.

These disclosures have caused London's securities, which rose sharply on the result of the election, to fall to the old figures.

It was hoped that the reformers would secure Lord Curzon, Lord Milner or Lord Crawford for the chairmanship, but all three were unable to accept, and a working member, Henry Percy Parris, has been selected.

The first measure taken will be to order an independent audit of accounts to ascertain the true condition of the city finances.

MIND CURED BY SURGERY

Skull of Doctor Trephined—Had Become Morose From a Fall.

London, March 11.—An interesting instance of surgery for the cure of insanity is quoted in last week's Lancet. The patient himself was a doctor.

After a fall, from which no external marks appeared, he suffered severely from insomnia, headache and neuralgia, and became incapacitated for work. He became morose and irritable, and depressed, and developed suicidal ideas. He grew irritable and profane and suffered in this way for some years, during which he tried all possible medical treatment.

Dr. Bernard Hooper, a well-known mental specialist, then diagnosed the seat of the disease in a circumscribed part of the brain. He performed an operation and found a morbid condition of the skull in this region, to wit: an excess of cerebro-spinal fluid, which prevented the arteries of the brain from pulsating.

This fluid was let off and the rest of the brain being found healthy the wound was closed. Three weeks later the patient was quite well and has continued so.

WOMEN SCORE BANNERMAN

Suffragettes Hold Angry Meetings and Threaten More Violence.

London, March 11.—The unhappy creatures who helped sidetrack the female suffrage bill in the House of Commons yesterday are already learning the sad truth of the proverb that there is no fury like that of a woman scorned. The suffragettes are pouring the vials of their wrath upon them.

The favorite victim is Prime Minister Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who declared himself personally on the men's side, but refused to put a finger to save the Dickinson bill. They denounced him in intemperate language at meetings held today. Sir Henry has been found out. Angry speakers declared that there would be no more hero worship of which he has been the subject, now that they have seen his shuffling.

The suffragettes promise to make their campaign more violent than ever and devote their attacks chiefly against the Liberal party which betrayed them.

SCHOOL TEACHER MISSING.

Brockville, March 10.—A rubber, supposed to belong to Miss Sadie Bishop, of Prescott, and a teacher, who mysteriously disappeared from her lodging house on Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, has been discovered near the edge of the open water in the river. She was despondent and, it is supposed, committed suicide.

DOUK AMAZONS ROUTED BAILIFF

CHATELLE SIEZED FOR TAXES

Law Officers, After Several Desperate Battles, Get Away With a Solitary Colt.

Sheho, Sask., March 11.—Details have reached here of Bailiff Walter K. Scott's unsuccessful attempt to seize the chattels of the Doukhobors for taxes a few days ago, near Yorkton.

Armed with the warrants for seizure Mr. Scott and assistants went to the village of Karluk. This village is located on the line of the Canadian Northern Railway, three miles west of Buchanan. Their visit was unexpected by the Doukhobors, and, before being molested, they effected the seizure of 40 head of mixed cattle, 52 sheep and one mare and colt. The mare and colt broke away, and ran to the village, where they were taken in charge by the Doukhobors.

"King" of the Village.

Mr. Scott had made arrangements to have the sheep and cattle taken care of at Buchanan, and drove them there, but were astonished on their arrival to find the Doukhobors awaiting them. The Doukhobors immediately commenced an attack on the officials with clubs and the small party of four was soon overpowered. Mr. Scott endeavored to persuade one Jim Simerodan and Peter Verigen, who is known as the king of the village, to sign an agreement to the effect that they would allow them to retain all the stock seized. Each member of the Doukhobor party stated that Verigen would not allow them to take a pen or pencil of any description in their hands to make a mark of any kind. They wanted to know what the officers wanted with their stock, and Mr. Scott produced his warrants a second time. They then directed Mr. Scott to go to Verigen, which, of course, was useless.

Later in the evening Jim Simerodan and others made a promise to Mr. Scott that everything would be all right. Before leaving, three additional teams of horses, with sleighs and harness, and also one pair of oxen were seized.

Before leaving Mr. Scott made some inquiries about the 198 names on the assessment roll. Six of these names were people residing in the different villages outside the district and nineteen who are residing at Prince Rupert. The balance of the 198 could not be identified. On the roll held by the bailiff the name of Peter Verigen appeared twice, and all the Doukhobors interviewed disclaimed any knowledge of any Peter Verigen except the one who is the leader of the people. The general public in that section is naturally curious to know how that man could explain the fact of his name appearing twice on the roll as holder of quarter sections. It is also understood that land is being held for small boys.

One Simeon Robin twice returned the tax notice sent him with the statement that the amount was too much to pay. Other settlers, however, cannot see things in that light. They believe that when the Doukhobors are stripping the land of its timber, they are doing it for the benefit of the Doukhobors, and that the Doukhobors are stripping the land of its timber for the benefit of the Doukhobors.

During the adventurous trip of Mr. Scott and his four assistants into the Karluk village of the Doukhobor district, they encountered the women, who fought like demons. One of the men was knocked down and kicked very severely. When Mr. Scott was taking a horse from a stable he was encircled by a party armed with pitchforks, clubs and other weapons, and he was lucky to escape without serious injury. An information was laid against two of the assailants. When the police went to serve the warrants the men showed greatest humility. Then another attempt was made to seize the cattle, but the women once more interfered, and again saved their stock, and that that could be taken away was one colt.

HUGE SUMS FOR HUNTING

Cost of Sport in England More Than Twice That of Fifty Years Ago.

London, March 12.—The fox hunting season of 1906-7, now drawing to a close, will be memorable so far as England and Wales are concerned for its open weather, large fields and, speaking generally, first-class sport.

On the whole, foxes have been fairly plentiful, and there is hardly a hunt which cannot tell of several very fine runs, but local prejudice against hunting has resulted in loss of hounds and foxes in several counties by poisoning.

From figures obtained from one of the best authorities on fox hunting, it is possible to realize the enormous sums of money involved in hunting foxes. This expert asserted that during the last fifty years the cost of hunting has more than doubled. Whereas half a century ago the expense of a three-day week hunt was about $6,000 it now requires $15,000 a year and possibly something from the master's own pocket to make the accounts balance.

There are about 170 packs of fox-hounds, consisting of about 6,000 couples, in England and Wales, and the average number of days the hounds are out is about three per week. The cost of the packs alone is at least $2,500,000 a year. This, taking no account of Ireland's twenty-six packs, with
