"Yes, gracefulness is the chief characteristic of the model, I should say, aside from its color, which always appeals to me. Black looks well anywhere, I maintain. That's one reason I stick to it so unswervingly."

"If black is becoming, as it usually is, no one can find a better choice," madame agreed. "Suppose you slip on this model, Mrs. Goodwin, then you will the little foxes were playing the carry tripped Mr. Red Fox up.

"No, I can't say that I ever did." said Mr. Red Fox. "and I tell you what I'll do. You bring me one dozen fresh eggs and I will chase Peter Rabbit anywhere in the world you want me to."

Now, Jimmie Coon was pretty smart too. He knew that if Mr. Fox ate all the eggs to begin with he wouldn't chase Peter Rabbit or anyone else for him, so he said. "It's a wouldn't chase Peter Rabbit or anyone else for him, so he said, "It's a jet," madame said as she signalled to me to show this gown.

I went to put on this dress with real pleasure, because I'm very partial to roundings in which such a dressy gown should appear. Therefore I recommend these lines for you."

Mrs. Goodwin listened intently, still a little skeptical of accepting the ultrashort sleeves.
"If you had passed the age of appearing girlish, and if your arms were too fat or too scrawny," continued madame, "I should veto this sleeve at once, but lovely arms this severe sleeve is a foil for their rounded whiteness." Such compliments could scarcely fail to obliterate Mrs. Goodwin's objections, and finally consenting to accept the short sleeves she gave her attention to the other details of the costume "The line of this dress is very good," ne declared.
