KILTIES INSPECTED BY COL. H. C. BICKFORD

This Afternoon, Highlanders Hold Route March on Downtown Streets.

Under command of Lieut-Col. C. W. Darling, 477 members of the 48th Highlanders paraded last night at the armories, and were inspected by Col. H. C. Bickford, general staff officer of Toronto Military District. Col. Bickford praised the splendid showing made by the Highlanders and said he had no idea a militia regiment could be so steady on perade. The militia regiments were the backbone of the reserve militia. declared Col. Bickford. He said he would be pleased to lend every aid he could in keeping up the efficiency and standard of discipline of the militia regiments.

This afternoon a complete company of the 4th Highlanders will leave the armories at 1 o'clock and hold a short route march thruite down town streets, with the object of active recruiting for the new Canadian Defence Force.

Marting next week the 48th Highlanders will drill each week, on Mondays and Fridays. Eighty-two Toronto men were dealt with setterday by the recruiting depot. SCOTCHMEN HOLD ANNUAL REUNION

Justice Craig Speaks to Alexander Fraser Camp at Banquet.

INDEPENDENT THOUGHT

Says Average Man Places Too Much Reliance in Political Leaders.

Alexander Fraser Camp. No. 179. Sons of Scotland, held its eighth annual reunion last night at the Walker House, when an illuminated address was presented to the past chief, Prof. John Ferguson, for his splendid services ah chief. The guest of the evening was Justice Craig, who, in a brief address, said that there was some work to be done by every organization, and one that brought Scotchmen together and assisted in the development of the splendid Scotch characteristics of intelligence, honesty and worth while.

Scotchmen were accustomed to do their own thinking, while the great trouble today was that the average man did not do so, but allowed his thinking to be done by his political leaders or other advisers.

Had the French-Canadians been accustomed to do their own thinking, he was sure that Canada would have had more

"MOTHER CAREY'S CHICKENS"

New Englanders who know the place so well will welcome the opportunity to see scenes of the famous "Yellow House" of Kate Douglas Wiggin, in Maine, in the beloved author's newest work "Mother Carey's Chickens" which comes to the Alexandra for one week beginning Monday night, April 16. under the management of John Gort.

The novel has been daramatized by the author of Rachael Crothers and the novel has been closely followed in the dramatic version. Mother Carey and her four interesting children, Nancy, Gilbert, Kathleen and Peter, live again, only this time in real life. Mrs. Wiggin's "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" is well remembered for the dramatic success it attained and naturally an unusual interest centers in "Mother Carey's Chickens." "The Yellow House" is made the open house of the village and the stage settings are those of the celebrated house of the novel. There is the famous painted room, the old brick oven, the barn and all the other features of historical interest. Mother Carey is one of those sweet, delightful characters that give unalloyed joy and the villagers, both young and old, seek comfort and solace under protecting wings. John Cort has selected an excellent cast of players for the portrayal of the various types of character. Those in the company will be: Marion Baroym, Antoinette Walker, Wallace Owen, Lorin Baker, Doris Eaton, Charles Eaton, Marie L. Day, Terris Loring, Ursula Felsworth, Helen Marque, Corliss Giles, Clark Silvernail, Allan, Hurnane, Charles Gilbert and Harry MacFayden. New Englanders who know the

The Hebrew comedians, Chas. Hoey and Harry Lee, will top the bill at Loew's Theatre next week. Another big act will be "Officer 444," a farce comedy of life in the country. Slayman Ali's Arabs, the Whatt Four, Jack and Anna Bowen and other acts, together with the latest release of Charlie Chaplin in "The Cure," and a five-act photo production, "A Child of the Wild," complete a well-balanced well-balanced to an extent never before attempted in granite; some of the stems and leaves are practically free-stems and leaves are practically free-which is to consist the planting for the landscape, which is to consist chiefly of some evergreen plants that will preserve their form and leaves through the planting for the landscape, which is to consist chiefly of some evergreen plants that will preserve their form and leaves through the planting for the landscape, which is to consist chiefly of some evergreen plants that will preserve their form and leaves through the planting for the landscape, which is to consist chiefly of some evergreen plants that will preserve their form and leaves through the planting for the landscape, which is to consist the planting for the plantscape.

BURLESQUE REVIEW.

The Burlesque Review will start a week's engagement at the Gayety Theatre with the matines Monday. Newspaper men claimed it to be excellent for this class of HIGH LIFE GIRLS.

Beatrice Harlowe, the charming leading woman with "The High Life Girls," which will be at Star Theatrs next week, has met with enviable success all along the hne. In every city thus far visited she has been pronounced by the press and public to be a girl of rare voice and a skilful and graceful dancer.

GALLI-CURCI'S WONDERFUL VOICE.

One of the most singular things about Mme. Galli-Curci is her apparent spontaneity. She seems to sing "like a bird," following her own rhapsodic impulses without a thought in the world for anything else. This spontaneity, however, is the outcome of a long and systematic cultivation of a naturally musical temperament. She sings in Massey Hall next month.

AT THE REGENT

"The Dark Silence," the feature at the Regent next week, with Clara Kimball Young playing the role of a Red Cross nurse, is a picture in which this popular actress shows to exceedingly good advantage. Tells a vivid story of a girl artist in Paris, who later becomes a British Red Cross nurse in one of the hospitals near the firing-line.

On the platform at the Riverdale Station about 200 people awaited their coming, having been informed that the troops would pass thru there. There was an interval of waiting after the first half of the is a thrilling tale, some of the scenes having been taken in a real prison.

sure that Canada would have had more recruits.

Speaking of the war, he said that Scotchmen had nothing to be ashamed of for the part they had played. The German had in his character some of the old Hun developed by education, and could not play the same.

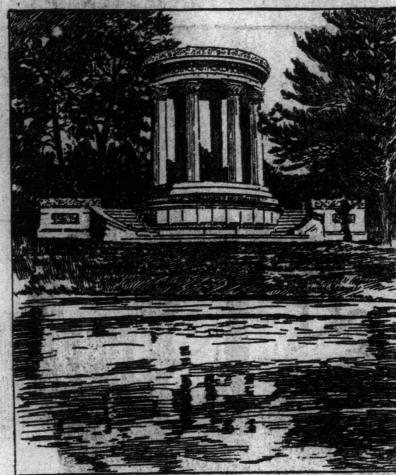

While he did not approve of race track or any other gambling, he did like to see a man who could bet on a horse and pocket his loss with a smile.

He believed that there was some Providence in the war that would not let all the bloodshed go without good resulting. If the thought that some form of socialism, of which there were different degrees, and which there were different degrees, and which there were different degrees, and to what will occur after the war Scotchmen should give careful thought.

"We have got to come to the laboring man, or he will come at us." said Justice Craig. The method might be co-operation, profit-sharing, partnership or state works as over the problem would have to be faced.

Each of Canada's provinces was a king-dom as large as that of Great Britain, dom as large as that of Great Britain, and from want, he said.

THURSTON, THE MAGICIAN

Thurston, the magician, whose visits to Toronto are the delight of both old and young, comes to the Grand Opera House for a week, commencing Monday evening. A Thurston Dornance is a worthy entertainment. It is in a class by itself, away from the ordinary heatrical offering. Every season he has something new to mystify, and the program he has prepared for his Toronto engagement is said to be one of the best he has ever presented.

By Passing Engine.

Yesterday afternoon, while watching the departure of the 216th Bantam and 234th Battalions at Riverdale Station, Malcolm J. Foster, 14 Tiverton avenue, was killed; Edward F. Schoeneweiss, 109 Wardell avenue, and Melville George, 16 Whitby avenue, were perhaps fatally injured when struck by the Midland local train, G.T.R. engine No. 227, in charge of Engineer Eugene J. Johnson and Fireman W. H. Gordon. Young Foster was only 6 years old, while his two companions are 12 and 13 years, respectively. Death in Foster's case was instantaneous, he being struck by the pilot of the engine and carried for 75 feet along the track, while Schoeneweiss has a fractured skull and broken shoulder, and George a fractured skull and badly-crushed leg. The condition of the two boys is critical, according to the authorities at the Hospital for Sick Children, where the injured boys were conveyed in the police ambulance.

Boys Ran on Track.

In accordance with the edict of the railway authorities, issued as a result of the Union Station accident, in which Col. Macdonald was killed and several others were injured, while watching the entraining of troops, to the effect that they would not allow any more departures from the various downtown stations, the 234th Battalion and the 216th Battalion, entrained at Exhibitien Camp. The 234th left the camp at 4.40, the 216th in two sections, the first at 5.20, the second half about fifteen minutes later. On the platform at the Riverdale Station about 200 people awaited their coming, having been informed that the troops would pass thru there. There was an interval of waiting after the first half of the get close enough to the soldiers on the station side of the train, ran around to the west track, and there jumped up to catch the sticks of the soldiers, held out thru the window. The troop train rangits bell and biew its whistle for departure, just at the same time as the Midland local, southbound, announced its coming in the same manner. The boys were apparently confused by the uproar, and thinking the whistle and ringing emanated from the troop train, they remained on the west track until the other train was upon them. Some of the boys managed to jump clear, but Foster, Schoeneweiss and George were not so quick, and were caught by the pilot of the engine. While two of the boys were thrown clear of the track by the ourush of the train, young Foster was caught upon the pilot and carried until the train came to a standstill.

To the police of Pape avenue station, Engineer Johnson said he did not notice the boys on the track until his train was almost upon them. But the moment he saw them, he is a stand on the brakes and reversed his engine. The momentum of the train, however, carried it almost to the station.

Jumping down from the engine he and Johnson found young Foster wedged between the pilot and the front bogic wheels. The body was badly cut, and life was extinct. The unfortunate boy was carried to his home, which is adjacent to the tracks, then conveyed to the morgue by the police, where an inquest will be held. No. 2 police ambulance were taken to the hospital for sick children, where an operation was performed late last night in an effort to save their lives.

Eye-witnesses of the accident stated that no blame was attached to the crew of the train which struck the boys, consequently they were not held by the police.
