HOPE. [From the pen of SARAH FLOWER ADAMS, author of "Viva Perseus," and from an obituary notice in the Westminster Review for January, 1849.]

The world may change from old to new, From new to old again; Yet hope and heaven, forever true, Within man's heart remain.

Hope leads the child to plant the flowers The man to sow the seed; Nor leads fulfillment to her hour, But prompts again to deed.

Oh no! it is no flattering lure, No fancy, weak or fond, When Hope would bid us rest secure In better life beyond.

No loss nor shame, nor grief nor sin, Promising us gain; The voice divine hath spoke within, And God did ne'er betray.

FLOOD IN THE UPPER MISSISSIPPI.—The tremendous rain of the last three weeks has gradually swelled the upper Mississippi and its tributaries in this part. The river at this point is at least eight inches higher than it was at the spring freshet last April, and was this morning still rising slowly.

It is stated that Mr. Fillmore has two brothers who have for some time past resided in Washtenaw county, Michigan, one a morning and the other a blacksmith by trade. He has a sister in Michigan, the wife of Mr. Harris of Coldwater, a lawyer by profession, and another sister married in Northern Indiana. He visited them all last summer.

HEROIC PERSISTENCE.—Anecdote of Audubon.—An accident which happened to two hundred of my original drawings, nearly put a stop to my researches in ornithology. I shall relate it, merely to show how far enthusiasm—for by no other name can I call the passionate zeal with which I laboured—may enable the observer of nature to surmount the most disheartening obstacles.

How to FIND TIME.—A professional gentleman, of rare attainments, and one who added to the laborious duties of his calling, a great variety of learning, much scientific research, and many elegant accomplishments, was asked by a young lady how he found time for all he did. He replied, "There is one rule which I have found of great use, and therefore recommend it to you; and that is, always do small things, such as writing a letter, copying out some short piece, making a sketch, reading a review, &c., in small portions for some long and important affair."

turned; they are unprofitable, like a rainy day in harvest time. Now, the brisk, energetic boy, is constantly active, not merely with his bodily eye, but with his mind and attention, during the hours of business.

The drawing boy loses in five minutes the most valuable advice; the prompt, wide awake boy, never has to be taught twice—but strains hard to make himself up to the mark, as far as possible out of his own energies.

A Teacher of one of the N. York public schools invited one of his pupils, a handsome young girl, to elope with him, and promised to provide everything for the journey.
