THE YACHT RACE.

The yacht race is over, and the America's cup still remains on this side of the water. Since the trophy was brought to this side there has been no effort to lift it that has so nearly met with success as that of Sir Thomas Lipton with Shamrock II. The cup certainly must have moved on its pedestal during the last week or so. But it was not to be captured this time. The defender proved herself to be the better boat, and the honors of the contest remain with her. Still the Shamrock proved herself to be no mean antagonist, and it required all the skill of the opposing skipper and all the Columbia's speed to defeat her. Whether Sir Thomas will make another attempt is uncertain. At any rate he has shown himself to be a sportsman of the highest order, and his efforts deserved to win.

IN SOUTH AMERICA.

A Washington correspondent of a New York paper endeavors to throw some light upon the condition of affairs in Venezuela and Colombia. The news from that quarter has been extremely contradictory and has simply led to hopeless confusion in the public mind. From despatches received from Bogota and Caracas this correspondent concludes that the chief instigator of the trouble is President Castro of Venezuela, who appears to have encouraged the Colombian rebels to break out into open revolt by assuring them that as soon as a favorable opportunity presented itself he would strike in their behalf. It is alleged that as a result of his promise the rebellion broke out in Colombia, but it was premature, and the result was not such as to warrant the Venezuelan president in joining forces with the rebels. In response to their appeals, however, he massed a small army on the Colombian frontier. He might have done more, but for the fear of a revolution in his own country. That this fear was well grounded appears from the fact that no sooner had he removed a portion of the guards from the national capital than former leaders of revolt began to plot against his government, and it is said that today he dares not leave his capital or move further in aid of the Colombian rebels. If he did so his own enemies would precipitate a revolution. Without his help the Colombian rebels cannot overthrow the government of that country, and therefore his ambitious desire to become president of the united Venezuelan and Colombian countries apparently stands no chance of realization. It appears that both countries are financially in a bad state.

THE STEEL STRIKE.

It is now evident that the great steel strike, which is said to have cost altogether fully $25,000,000, did not in any way cripple the resources of the steel trust. The heaviest losses by the strike were the strikers, and the general public whose business affairs were affected by the failure to secure supplies, or by the advance in the price of steel products. The report of the steel corporation for the first six months of its existence has just been issued, and shows, despite the strike, net earnings of $54,964,871. This, it is pointed out, is at the rate of about ten per cent. on the common stock with fixed charges, dividend on preferred stock, and the setting aside of $7,000,705 for sinking funds and maintenance. Evidently there had been no strike the profits of the trust would have been very much larger.

So satisfactory is this report regarded by bankers and investors that stock is now being bought for investment, orders coming in a New York paper says, from all parts of the country.

GREAT RAILWAY SCHEME.

American papers have several times of late devoted some attention to the story of the proposed railway connecting Europe, Asia and America by way of Behring Straits. One of them remarks that while this may seem like a vision of the night there is really nothing that makes the thing physically impossible, and that since it is merely a question of whether such a line would pay it would not be wise to declare that it would not be an accomplished fact before the close of the century. A New York paper this week says of the scheme:—
Harry de Windt, the Arctic explorer, is about to set out upon a winter journey through Siberia to Behring Straits, thence across the ice, on, if that does not permit, by water, to the American shore, and so on through the Valley of the Yukon or the Mackenzie to Winnipeg. This is preliminary to a survey for a railroad route. The Russian government is projecting a railway from Irkutsk to Yakutsk, which will be the junction of the Siberian and Manchurian sections. The plan is ultimately to carry a line from Yakutsk northeast to Behring Straits, over a country that is quite flat except for one mountain range.

On the American side surveyors are working on an extension of the Klondike railroad toward the strait, and it is in contemplation to carry it to that destination in time. A bridge between the continents is not to be dreamed of, and the current and ice make a ferry impracticable for trains, but American and Belgian engineers are said to have a tunnel under consideration. The water in this narrow passage is nowhere more than twenty-five fathoms in depth, and such an undertaking is believed to be more feasible than that talked of for a tunnel under the English Channel.

REV. RALPH M. HUNT.

A Nova Scotian Called From Boston to Baptist Church, Hamilton.
After being without a pastor for about five months the congregation of James street Baptist church last night decided to extend a call to Rev. Ralph M. Hunt, formerly of Jamaica Plains Baptist Church, Boston. After hearing numerous candidates preach the church members were almost unanimous in the opinion that Rev. Mr. Hunt was the man to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. J. L. Gilmour, who accepted a call to Olivet Baptist church, Montreal. When a vote was called for last night only four of the 150 persons present opposed the resolution to extend a call to Mr. Hunt, and they, too, bowed to the will of the majority and made the call unanimous. The salary was fixed at $2,000.

Mr. Bradfield spoke in support of the motion to call Rev. Mr. Hunt. The first information he received about Rev. Mr. Hunt was from the notable divine, Rev. Dr. Gordon, of Philadelphia, who, in writing, referred to him as an excellent and rare brother, a cultured and refined Christian, a Canadian, whose worst fault was that he was not married.

After receiving this letter the supply committee arranged to have Mr. Hunt, who at that time was attending a family reunion at his home in Nova Scotia, call on them. He was warmly welcomed, and heard him preach and watched him conduct the mid-week prayer meeting, Christian Endeavor and other meetings, and was favorably impressed. Another thing that impressed him strongly was an unsolicited recommendation from Rev. Charles A. Eaton, formerly of Bloor street church, Toronto, but now of Cleveland, who spoke of Rev. Mr. Hunt as "a man every inch of him" a worthy successor to Rev. Mr. Gilmour's fine preaching, and "a tireless worker." Personally, Mr. Bradfield found Mr. Hunt all that these letters had indicated. He was a cultured Christian scholar and gentleman.

Mr. Copp said Rev. Mr. Hunt had worked in only two fields. The last one was Jamaica Plains church, where he labored for twelve years, and the congregation was reluctant to part with him, but about a year ago he was forced to resign on account of failing health. Before that he was in St. Stephen's church, where he was dearly loved and highly respected. The congregation was only induced to part with him by the Jamaica Plains church relieving it of a large portion of its church debt.
Mr. Challen added that the Jamaica Plains church was in bad shape when Rev. Mr. Hunt became its pastor, but he succeeded in pulling it together. Another thing he liked about him was that although he had resided across the border for many years he was a Canadian first, last and always.

SPEAKING OF OIL WELLS.
They Have 59 Guishers in the Beaumont, Texas, Field.

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 5.—There are now 59 guishers in the Texas oil field at Beaumont, and 60 more wells are being drilled in what is known as the proved territory on Spindletop Heights. The force of the last guisher is just as strong as was that which threw 70,000 barrels of petroleum a day from the Lucas geyser, the first one drilled.

It is safe to say, that aside from the oil necessarily wasted in bringing in the wells and that which was lost by wild wells, fully 1,000,000 barrels of oil have been won into commission as quickly as they can get them.
Shipments by water do not yet amount to much, as there are no vessels. Two of the big concerns have purchased tankships and are building others, but they are not yet in the trade. The pipe lines are laid ready for them, and whenever vessels can be secured they are promptly filled up and gotten out of port.

SUGGEST OCEAN GRAVE.

Nebraska Students Opposed To Burial of Cadogan On American Soil, and Adopted Resolutions.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 3.—Five hundred students of Wesleyan University, the strongest Methodist college in the Northwest, have sent to Gov. Odell of New York, a set of resolutions of which the following is a part.
Resolved, That we, students of Wesleyan University, in chapel assembled, hereby indorse as most appropriate the disposal of the assassin's body suggested by Chancellor Huntington in his memorial address for the late president, namely:—To grave for the assassin of President McKinley one mark of distinction. We have earned it and it would be awarded him. His bones should never be allowed to mingle with American soil. When the death sentence shall be executed, as it should be with the swift justice becoming such an unspeakable tragedy, we could wish the United States government would take the remains of the assassin and place them in a hundred miles to sea, and then plunked and manacled, with his revolver in his belt and a millstone chained about his neck, sink the corpse a thousand fathoms to the bottom of the ocean, so that this assassin might be warned that he shall not have so much as a grave in a civilized land."

SLAUGHTER HOUSE COMMISSIONERS.
Will Prosecute Kane & McGrath For Illegal Killing.

The regular monthly meeting of the Slaughter House Commissioners was held yesterday afternoon in their room in the Magas building, Water street. There were present Chairman Hay, Commissioners Drake, Gallagher, Tristram, Secretary Shaw and Inspector Simon.
Summary of the month's killing follows:
Cattle, Sheep, Calves,
John Damery 178 147 1
John McCarthy 215 454 5
M. J. Collins 14 10 8
M. J. O'Connor 22 69 1

The matter of prosecuting Kane & McGrath for illegal killing was brought up. It was the general feeling of the commissioners that they should be prosecuted. L. A. Curry, who has had the matter in hand for the commissioners, was sent for, and talked the matter over very thoroughly with them. It was unanimously decided to prosecute Messrs. Kane & McGrath and action will be taken at once.
The offence charged against Kane & McGrath is that of showing sheep to be slaughtered in the licensed premises that had not been given the required hours of rest. The complaint was laid by Inspector Simon and has been unanimously approved by the board.

W. F. M. S. THANK OFFERING.

The annual thank offering service of the Women's Foreign Missionary Auxiliary of St. Stephen's church was held in the school room last evening and was largely attended. The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Clarence McKinnon, B. D., of Park street church, Halifax, who gave an eloquent, earnest and inspiring speech on the spirit of missions, at the close of which a hearty vote of thanks, moved by Rev. M. G. Hendry of St. John, N. S., and seconded by Rev. J. Hunter Boyd, was extended to the speaker. During the course of his remarks Rev. Mr. Hendry, who is a member of the Presbyterian Foreign Mission Board, expressed the appreciation of the board of the able assistance given by the W. F. M. S., which during the year had contributed the sum of $13,000. During the evening enjoyable vocal solos were given by Mrs. Fries and Miss Drake. Rev. D. J. Fraser presided at the service.

ALCOHOLISM CAN BE CURED.

Rev. Father Quinlivan's Opinion.

To whom it may concern:—The good points of Mr. Dixon's new discovery for the cure of the liquor habit, in my opinion, are the following:—First, it taken removes all craving for liquor in the short space of three days; its use for a longer time is intended only to build up the system. Second, it leaves no bad after effects, but on the contrary aids in every way the health of the patient, whilst freeing him from the desire for drink. Third, the patient may use it without interfering with his business or leaving his home. All other liquor cures I have yet heard of are very costly and often impair the health and constitution of the patient. I therefore look upon the remedy as a real boon, recommend it heartily to all concerned and bespeak for it here in Montreal wherever every success. J. QUINLIVAN, S. J., pastor of St. Patrick's, Montreal.
Full particulars regarding this medicine can be obtained by writing to Mr. Dixon, No. 21 Willocks street, Toronto, Canada.

PRICE OF COAL.
(Calais Times).

The price of anthracite coal in St. John is about a dollar a ton less than it is in Portland, and the papers of the two cities are trying to explain it. The St. John papers say it is probably on account of the competition of cheap soft coal, but Portland papers say it may be that the trust is selling it cheaper to the St. John dealers than it does to the dealers in American cities. Whatever the reason, it does seem a little curious that American coal, a foreign city, 300 miles farther away from the supply, should be cheaper than in the home cities.

A UNIQUE GIFT.

From the British Columbia Indians to The Duchess.
Through a newspaper correspondent the British Columbia Indians happened to hear that the Duchess of Cornwall is very fond of Indian relics. The chiefs accordingly met, and, as they expressed it, decided to give "The daughter of the King the best we have got; the Kite-um-Shamorgat," or the "Hat of the Chiefs." This head-dress belonging to Port Simpson Indians, is as valuable to the royal crown, and has been used by the chiefs for many generations, so long indeed that they have no record of its origin. It is very highly prized among Indians, and Rev. A. E. Green, the interpreter, expressed with it, but they are so pleased at the Duke's kindly reception of them and at his graciousness at meeting them again that they say, "We can only give the best we have to our King's daughter."
The head piece is worn as a crown but is made of wood shaped after the style of a mask with many quaint Indian carvings upon it. The crown of the head-dress is composed of hundreds of braids of hair pulled out of the heads of sea lions caught in days when the Indians possessed only their crude native weapons and from their crude native weapons and from the back portion a fur cape composed of nearly a hundred royal ermine skins falls down over the shoulders of the wearer.
The Indians value the head-dress so highly that it has always been understood no price could purchase it.

IN A TIGHT PLACE.

(Moncton Transcript.)
While the men were working at the sewer on Elgin street, Springhill, the other day in the vicinity of the school-house, they were attracted by the cries of a child. It was recess and a number of children were playing around and no one thought anything of the matter, until the cries were repeated several times. Upon investigation it was found that a little girl had crawled into one of the 12 inch earth-sewer pipes and had then taken up a position in a sitting posture with legs drawn up and hands clasped around her knees. Upon trying to get out the toe found that her legs were jammed in the pipe, her knees being against the top and feet against the bottom. No efforts on the part of three persons could liberate the child, and it was found necessary to break the pipe. The child was slightly bruised about the knees and very much scared.
