ST. JOHN STAR. ST. JOHN, N. B., AUGUST 3, 1905.

MR. BLAIR AND THE RAILWAY. Since Mr. Blair entered the ministry at Ottawa he has had occasion to bring several important measures before the house, but no speech of his has been awaited with much interest as the one which is expected from him this week.

So far as the Star can learn Mr. Blair has determined to fight the government measure to the best of his ability. The circumstances are such that he is regarded as practically the leader of the opposition to the bill. When Sir Wilfrid's speech introducing the bill comes to be studied it is found to be singularly deficient in reasons. Sir Wilfrid's rather frantic appeal for increased accommodation for the western farmer do not justify this extraordinary measure.

Mr. Blair admits the necessity, but he does not see that it calls for so great a present to Senator Cox. It was at first suggested that Mr. Blair would see his way clear to go before the cabinet and accept a modified agreement. So far as the Star can learn there is no such possibility.

There are no modifications except those favorable to the company. Mr. Blair may advocate in the house the scheme outlined by his letter to the premier. He will probably make an argument in favor of government ownership.

A number of liberal members are said to have refused to commit themselves for or against the government proposal until they hear Mr. Blair's speech. It is expected that with his knowledge of the negotiations and of other plans discussed he will be able to throw a good deal of light on the situation.

THE KING AND IRELAND. Social amenities have much to do with the peace and harmony of nations. No doubt the good relations between Great Britain and other European countries have been greatly assisted by the recent visit of King Edward to the continent and by the return visit of the president of France. All accounts agree that the era of good feeling in Ireland has been greatly assisted by the tour of the king and queen in that kingdom.

Radicals and cynical people may suggest that the cause is inadequate. But many things happen in Ireland and elsewhere which, to a man who does not appreciate the force of a sentiment based on personal charm and affection, seem to come from inadequate causes.

There is among many people in Ireland an unreasoning but traditional hatred of England. A sentiment based on impulsive feeling in the other direction would be equally logical. Good feeling begets good feeling. The advances are now made at a time when an important measure of practical advantage to the Irish tenantry has become law.

Material advantage and the appeal to the loyal sentiment and affection, coming together, produce an impression that either would fail to accomplish alone.

An Irish land bill cannot happen every year, but there seems to be no reason why the king should not be as much at home in Ireland as in Scotland. There are, and perhaps always will be, agitators in Ireland who will not be satisfied with anything else than separation from the empire.

Such persons and organizations will always find encouragement in some foreign countries. But the people of Ireland are amenable to the same influences that prevail in other parts of the United Kingdom. Traditional animosities can be effaced and mutual trust and respect can be restored.

The king and queen have personal qualities which commend them to a people like the Irish. They are genial, kindly and hearty. They find a genuine enjoyment in meeting and greeting people of all classes. They are unreserved and frank in their speech, simple and cordial in their manner, kind and hospitable in disposition.

There is no reason why the royal family should not be on the best terms with the people of Ireland.

An interesting social programme for autumn would be a visit of King Edward to the United States, and one of President Roosevelt to Great Britain. But it might interfere with the prospects of the president for re-election next year.

It must not be supposed that the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme as it appears were worked out by the government. It was worked out by Senator Cox and the Grand Trunk management and accepted by the government. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is merely the advocate of the great promoter.

That Sir Thomas Lipton hopes to take back the America cup goes without saying. If he had not this hope Shamrock III. would not be on this side of the Atlantic.

While waiting for the result of the America cup race the Canadians can congratulate themselves on the continued possession of the Sewanhaka.

From a patch of land only 39 feet wide and 200 feet long Mr. Jenness of Portsmouth, N. H., raised 1,700 boxes of strawberries this month, which sold at an average of 12 cents a box.

NEW CHAPEL OF ST. VINCENTS.

On July 2nd, the first and was turned for the erection of the chapel in connection with the convent of St. Vincent, Cliff Street, and since that time work has been steadily going on, and the chapel is now completed, except for a few finishing touches.

Owing to the smallness of the chapel in the convent proper, the Sisters of Charity found it necessary to have a new one erected, and for this purpose the lot next to the convent was selected as the most appropriate.

The plans and specifications were prepared by G. Ernest Fairweather. The work was let by contract, that of the stone, brick and plastering work being done for $1,200 by E. Moore & Sons, while E. Bates undertook the carpenter work, and George Blake the heating.

When the work was once started, the progress made was rapid, and in length on Sunday August 1st, the Lordship of Bishop Casey, laid the corner stone, with imposing ceremony. From that time the work has rapidly been pushed towards completion, and the result is seen in the handsome edifice which now graces Cliff Street.

From the outside the structure presents a most prepossessing and well-built appearance. It stands about 20 yards back from the street, thereby leaving space for a large lawn. Entrance is obtained to the lawn by means of a flight of freestone steps, for the ground on which the church is built is about 6 feet above the street level.

In architectural terms, the chapel is Gothic, and the material used in its construction is entirely freestone and brick. The dimensions, all in all, are 56 by 41 feet, and grace is added to the structure by the small conch-shaped spire which surmounts its tower. The main entrance, 41-1/2 by 12 feet, leads into the basement. Access to the chapel proper may be had by means of a flight of hardwood stairs.

The body of the chapel is very bright and attractive. The walls and ceilings are done in white, and the wainscoting in white wood. The floor is of hard wood and the attractive and comfortable seats of American make. Six large pillars tend to improve the interior appearance to a large extent.

In the rear is situated the choir loft, in which the convent organ has recently been installed. The chapel is particularly bright and airy. Windows 12 by 4 feet each suffice to permit the entry of an abundance of light. Four doors, two downstairs and two upstairs communicate with the convent. Behind that part of the church where the altar will be erected in the large and commodious vestry, well lighted and sufficient for all requirements. The basement is about half the size of the main body of the chapel. There has been installed the furnace, and water has also been put in. The heating, one of the most important factors in a comfortable building, will be done by means of a Gurney furnace, and registers have been placed in the walls in the best positions. On each of the pillars in the chapel has been arranged prettily, a cluster of gas jets and other jets have been placed in necessary positions.

When finished the chapel will have three altars, but as yet these are not ready for use, and until they are finished the altar in the convent chapel will be placed in the new edifice.

The chapel was first used on Friday night, when the Sisters of the convent went on their annual retreat. Rev. Jos. Daly, of the Redemptorist Order, New York, will conduct the retreat, and for this purpose arrived in the city Friday afternoon. The chapel was quietly blessed by Father Daly, and Saturday morning the first mass was celebrated within its walls.

A ROUGH TIME. The Hattie and Lottie, from Cape Verde, has a Difficult Passage.

On Saturday afternoon the Hattie and Lottie, a small schooner of 80 tons, registered in the United States, arrived in port with a party of Portuguese immigrants from the Cape Verde Islands. She docked in the Lower Cove slip off Britain Street, and all day yesterday was an object of interest to bystanders.

This is the third time she has visited this port, each time in the charge of her present commander, Capt. J. Z. Silva, who is a colored man, and whose crew are mostly colored. Her passengers, thirty-four all told, two of them ladies, disembarked Saturday afternoon, and the vessel is taking up lodgings in the boarding house of Mrs. Doherty, Lower Cove.

The two ladies, who are sisters, left for Boston on the Calvin Austin Saturday night. The men are a fine looking lot, well dressed, and provided with ample means for the present. They are reported to be good workers and some of them will probably remain here if they can secure positions.

Local Immigration Officer J. V. Lantian found that the men had each one deep out starting under the night air and extending more than half way across the front. This was inflicted by a razor found under body as she lay on the ground. One of the large blood vessels of the neck was severed and death was immediate.

The man has a cut almost a duplicate of that on Mrs. Booth's throat, but not quite so deep. There is also a slight cut higher up and one on the middle of his forehead. The theory of the police is that the man cut the woman's throat and then slashed himself with the razor.

LT.-COL. FUGMIRE. Lieut.-Col. Fugmire, who is a travelling evangelist of the Salvation Army, and who was once a provincial officer here with the rank of brigadier, delivered a splendid address at the Charlotte street barracks last evening. Tonight he will lecture on "One Hundred Thousand Miles by Land and Sea." All the city forces will unite and there will be special music. Thursday night Colonel Fugmire will deliver his farewell address.

He is doing five weeks special service in the maritime provinces. He is accompanied by Major Mackay, a talented officer of long experience. They will leave on Friday for Moncton.

LOCAL NEWS.

Mrs. Rogers occupied the pulpit last night in Carmarthen street Methodist church.

The South of Thomas Kerr took place at the residence of his son, J. L. Kerr, 300 Duke Street, at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. The deceased was a farmer of Jerusalem, Quebec Co. Four children survive. The remains will be taken to Jerusalem Tuesday morning for burial.

The Independent Bathing Club held a largely attended meeting at the club house, Broadview Beach, on Saturday evening, a great deal of routine business was transacted, and the following officers elected: George Baxter, president; Thomas Longon, vice-president; Horace Brown, sec.; J. L. McManus, treasurer.

The St. John diver, Edward Lahey, has been engaged by a Nova Scotia concern to spend some time over on the coast between Yarmouth and Digby in examining and attempting to send up the valuable materials connected with these large vessels sunk along that part of the sister province. Mr. Lahey will have as an assistant Thos. Collins. They go over to Yarmouth on the str. Yarmouth today.

David Druyven, the diver, has been at Chatham for some days lifting a schooner for W. B. Loggie. Mr. Druyven also blew up a rock in the river there for the federal government. On his return to St. John the diver reported that the schooner had been raised from a hawser which had become mixed up in her propeller.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT. OTTAWA, AUG. 2.—Private bills are the first order for tomorrow in the house, and although the list contains but few private measures and the attendance is likely to be slim, there are a couple of bills on the paper that will be debated, at considerable length.

The formal session of the government's Grand Trunk scheme, namely, the resolution on which this bill is formed, will be taken up during the sittings. As chief measure among the private bills is also the bill to incorporate the national railway project will be the chief topic of discussion. The bill is to be amended in committee to make it conform to the government project of the construction of the main portion of the line as a national enterprise.

PROMINENT MAN KILLED. A Leading Citizen of Canton, Mass., Murdered by Italians.

CANTON, Mass., Aug. 2.—Hiram H. Poole, one of Canton's best known prominent men, who was conducted a bakery on Sherman street, was stabbed and almost instantly killed tonight on Sherman street, by one of a party of three Italians whom he encountered upon his usual work and it is believed that these three were members of that gang. Nothing has been found of the weapons with which the murder was committed.

As good a description of the supposed murderer as could be obtained describes him as a bout 5 feet 6 inches in height, with black mustache, black suit, tan shoes and wearing no hat. Mr. Poole was about fifty years of age and is survived by widow and two children.

BY THE RAZOR ROUTE. WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 2.—A special to the Telegram from Northboro, says that at 10.30 o'clock last night Frank Foss, while on his way home across the street in the direction of Grange Hall on School street, and hastening in that direction nearly stepped on two bodies lying close to the sidewalk in T. F. Sawyer's yard, next to Grange Hall. Officers were notified at once. In fifteen minutes two officers and Dr. J. M. Stanley were on the scene, but both were dead. The man and woman are supposed to be E. P. Egan and Mrs. Sadie Booth, kept in company. The woman was identified by Miles Illingworth and the man's name was found in the fly-leaf of a diary in his pocket.

Mrs. Booth was twenty-eight years old and a sister of Mrs. Edward A. Logan of Northboro. She has been living with Mrs. Logan for a month while working in a factory in Malboro. It is said that her husband lives in Spencer. Her injuries consist of a deep cut starting under the right ear and extending more than half way across the front. This was inflicted by a razor found under body as she lay on the ground. One of the large blood vessels of the neck was severed and death was immediate.

The man has a cut almost a duplicate of that on Mrs. Booth's throat, but not quite so deep. There is also a slight cut higher up and one on the middle of his forehead. The theory of the police is that the man cut the woman's throat and then slashed himself with the razor.

TO HIS PARIS CRITICS. ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 1.—Concerning the assertions of doctors and scientists of the Pasteur Institute in Paris that the triplets, or germs of life, that he created from chemicals were certainly attached to the apparatus used in making the discovery, Dr. Charles W. Littlefield said tonight that this would not be possible in his discovery and that apparently the French doctors did not quite understand the matter.

THE LIFE HE GENERATES FIRST APPEARS. Dr. Anderson said, in the centre of a crystal of salt, and could not therefore be generated from any substances on the tube, dishes and other instruments.

NO OUTSIDE AGENCY OR APPARATUS IS ENCOUNTERED BY THE LIFE GERM OR TRIPLET UNIT IT IS FULLY DEVELOPED, THE DOCTOR SAID, AND THREE PRONGLIKE SUBSTANCES, SUGGESTIVE OF ARMS AND LEGS, ARE CLEARLY SHOWN UNDER THE MICROSCOPE.

THE FACT THAT NO ATOMS CAME FROM SALT CRYSTALS NOT AFFECTED BY THE SOLUTION DEMONSTRATES, HE HOLDS, THAT THE GERM LIFE IS BORN ONLY IN THE SALT CRYSTAL THAT ABSORBED THE ATMOSPHERE WITHIN THE TUBE.

A SAD SCENE. It was a sad scene at the Dominion immigration department this morning as the funeral service over the dead child of Bjorn Johannessen, a newly arrived Icelander. Summer complaint carried the little one off. Staiwart and the bereaved father stood with the tears streaming down his face as the simple service was conducted.

"THAT DELICATE OPERATION." Editor Acadian Recorder: Sir,—By inserting the word "not" in the second paragraph of my letter in last night's issue your printer makes me say just the opposite to what I wrote. The paragraph should have read:—It does surprise me that M. D. should charge his brethren in St. John with rushing into the lay press, etc., etc.
