

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS DELIVERS STIRRING MESSAGE TO PEOPLE OF CANADA

Heir-Apparent Appreciates Canada's Welcome to Him as King's Representative—What the Throne Stands For—Plea For Imperial Unity.

The Prince of Wales addressed 3,000 men assembled in Massey Hall, Toronto, on the occasion of his farewell visit to Ontario's capital. It was a memorable and historic occasion, for it was probably the first time in the annals of the Empire that an Heir to the Throne discussed at a public meeting the duty and functions of the Crown and the relationship of the Sovereign to the people. The tact and wisdom with which the Prince handled his subject, his breadth of vision and his rare personal charm, once again deepened the bond between himself and the people of the Dominion.

His Royal Highness spoke as follows: "Since I was last in Toronto I have been right across the continent to Vancouver Island and back again, which enables me to look better on Canada as a whole, and I think I can best express myself in military terms. The Western Provinces are like the outposts of the nation held by most gallant and enterprising outpost troops, who are continually pushing forward into the no man's land of the great Northwest. Ontario in the East is still the main body of the nation and the main line of resistance, and I congratulate you on the way in which your fine position is organized.

"I was much impressed by all I saw in the West and was attracted by the young and free spirit which I found there, and realized what a great future and development lies before it. Now for the last three weeks I have been back in the East, traveling in southern and western Ontario, and I have seen the country round the shores of your great lake, which was the scene of the fighting a century ago which saved British North America for the Empire, and was thrilled to think of the splendid fight which your ancestors of those days put up, and if it was anything like the way Ontario men fought in the great war it must have been pretty good. (Loud applause.) I have also been much impressed by the orderly and active look of the whole country, which bears a strong resemblance to English country-side, and is such a great contrast to the West. Knowing that Ontario was practically entirely virgin land only a century ago, I am full of admiration of what three or four enterprising and vigorous generations can achieve.

"But these last three weeks have enabled me to realize that the notion that the East is purely the industrial part of Canada as opposed to the West, which is the agricultural part, is wrong, and I know now that the agricultural produce of Ontario is the largest in the whole Dominion, and that your agricultural activity is as important as your industrial activity. This impressed me, because it makes me feel that Ontario comprises all the problems of the Dominion, and must, by the way in which it deals with its own problems, exercise in some respects a decisive influence upon the whole destinies of Canada.

"And I am particularly interested in the agricultural side of Ontario, because I have become a farmer in a small way myself, and have bought a ranch in Southern Alberta, where I hope to start in very soon and ultimately make good. As you know, farmers in the West think themselves a very important section of the community, and I see that the farmers have recently been asserting themselves in Ontario, too, but let me assure you that I intend to be a very simple sort of farmer, who will not go in for politics of try to upset your ideas in any way. (Applause.) But, as a brother-farmer, I should like to pay a tribute to the farmers of Ontario, who have always been a very wholesome, respectable and energetic section of the community. I know they will always remember to think of the wider interests of the nation as well as of their own. It takes all kinds of interests to make a great nation, and Canada cannot afford to be one-sided. I hope, therefore, that Ontario will set the lead by showing that all classes may pursue their own legitimate interests without forgetting the welfare of the Dominion and of the Empire as a whole.

"The welfare of the whole Empire is, after all, the big question for all of us, and it has taken a new shape since the war. Because of their whole-hearted participation in the great struggle, the Dominions have entered the partnership of nations by becoming signatories of the Peace Treaties and members of the assembly in the League of Nations. The old idea of an Empire handed down from the traditions of Greece and Rome was that of a mother country surrounded by daughter States, which owed allegiance to that mother country. But the British Empire has long left that obsolete idea behind, and appears before us in a very different and far grander form. It appears before us as a single State, composed of many nations of different origins and different languages, which give their allegiance not to a mother country, but to a great common system of life and government.

"The British Dominions are, therefore, no longer colonies; they are sister nations of the great British nation. They played a part in the war fully proportionate to their size, and their international importance will steadily increase. Yet they all desire to remain within the Empire, whose unity is shown by common allegiance to the King. That is the reason why, if I may be personal for a moment, I do not regard myself as belonging primarily to Great Britain, and only in a lesser way to Canada and the other Dominions. On the contrary, I regard myself as belonging to Great Britain and to Canada in exactly the same way. This also means that when I go down to the United States next week I shall regard myself as going there not only as an Englishman and as a Britisher, but also as a Canadian. (Loud applause.)

"But, of course, this change of view which the Empire puts a new and very difficult kind of responsibility upon all of us Britishers. The war has shown that our free British nations can combine without loss of freedom as a single unit in vigorous defense of their common interests and ideals. The unity of the Empire in the war was the feature least expected by our enemies, and most effective in bringing victory and saving the liberties of the world. But now that the war is over they have still got to keep up that standard of patriotism and unity which we showed ourselves capable during that long struggle. Unity and co-operation are just as necessary now in peace times as during the war. We must not lose touch with each other or we shall lose all that we have won during the last five years by our common action and effort against the enemy.

"I have only one more thing to say, gentlemen, and I ask you to again forgive me talking of myself. I need not tell you how deeply I have been touched by the wonderful welcomes which have been given me in every city, town and hamlet which I have visited in the great Dominion. These welcomes have been quite overwhelming, and I can never be sufficiently grateful to Canadians for the warm and friendly reception which I have received, nor can I ever forget it.

"But, gentlemen, I am not conceited enough to accept this welcome as in any way personal to myself, and realize that they have been given me as the King's representative coming to Canada as the heir to the Throne. My first visit to the great Dominion has made me realize more fully than ever what a great privilege and what a great responsibility all that confers upon me, and I value these welcomes all the more highly because they have come from the Canadian nation as a whole, from all sections of the community, whatever their race, whatever their party, whatever their education. I ask myself, what does that mean? It means that the Throne stands for an heritage of common aims and ideals, shared equally by all sections, all parties or all nations within the Empire. But despite this, there is a common sentiment which is shared not only by all nations within the Empire, but also by all political parties within each nation. We all know this because it was this common sentiment which made Britishers stand together in the great war, and I realize that this same sentiment has been expressed in the wonderful welcomes given me in Canada as heir to the Throne.

"I am afraid, gentlemen, that I have departed from my reserve and have talked about myself a good deal. But I wanted to tell you, as the largest audience I have been privileged to address in Canada, what I feel about my position and the responsibility which it entails. So I must again say how very grateful I am to you for your kind invitations and grateful to you for giving me this opportunity of addressing you. I can only assure you that I will come back as soon as possible and always endeavor to live up to my great responsibilities and try to be worthy of your trust." (Prolonged applause.)

POLICE OFFICER SHOT BY BURGLAR

Constable in Toronto Found With Two Bullets Above Heart.

A despatch from Toronto says:—In a local condition, with a bullet close to his heart and another in his abdomen, Police Constable William Milton of Dundas Street Station was found lying in a lane at the rear of 368 Yonge street early Friday morning by pedestrians who had failed to catch night cars and were making their way homeward on foot.

Constable Milton, whose home is at 38 Moscov avenue, was covering the lanes at the rear of Yonge street, and presumably caught burglars in the act of entering a store when he was fired upon.

Saves Soldier's Life and Gets Medal

New Shoreham, Sussex, Nov. 9.—A "land girl," Miss Peggy Fisher, yesterday was married to a young ex-soldier named Marshall, whose life she had saved.

Marshall fell down in a cow shed, and was being gored by a bull, when Miss Fisher rushed up, and by kicking the bull of the nose with her heavy hooped farm boots drove the animal away.

For her gallantry she was awarded the Distinguished Service Bar, the Victoria Cross of the Land Army. The brigade yesterday was drawn to church in a farm cart by twelve land girls in uniform.

British Air Mail to Europe's Cities

A despatch from London says:—The British Postoffice on Monday began an air mail service between London, Paris, Italy, Spain and Switzerland. Correspondence will be carried at half a crown per ounce.

RID UNITED STATES OF ANARCHISTS

Deportation Proceedings Instituted in Various Cities.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Deportation proceedings have been instituted in a number of cities to rid the country of the violent radicals caught in the nationwide raids which have been in progress since Friday, Attorney-General Palmer announced to-night.

Instructions have gone to all Department of Justice agents, the Attorney-General said, to permit no delay in instituting formal hearing preliminary to the actual deportation. Assurances have been received from other Government departments having to do with deportations that action would be taken to expedite the cases.

In the meantime the clean-up of the country will continue, Mr. Palmer announced to-night that there must be no "let-up." The total number actually held on deportation warrants had reached 301 to-night, while from some cities in which radical leaders were picked up reports had not reached the department.

Efforts of the department representatives, it was said, are being directed more particularly at the Union of Russian Workers. This organization, branded by the Attorney-General as the most dangerous anarchist group in the country, was said to have wide ramifications with the department agents still uncovering new evidences of its activities.

U. S. WILL ENFORCE COURT MANDATE

The Attorney-General Gives Solemn Warning to Coal Strikers.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Solemn warning was given the United Mine Workers of America to-night by Attorney-General Palmer that resolutions of conventions and orders of officers of organizations are not above the law.

Formal and final declaration of the Government's policy on dealing with the coal strike was announced by the Attorney-General while officers of the miners' organization at Indianapolis were struggling with the question how to answer the court's blunt and peremptory command to rescind the strike order.

Describing the strike as a plain violation of a Federal statute, Mr. Palmer, speaking with full authority of the Government, announced that all the power of the United States would be exerted to enforce the mandate of the court.

Although no reference was made in the Attorney-General's statement to the pronouncement of organized labor, supporting the miners and demanding withdrawal of injunction proceedings, it was evident that Mr. Palmer had that document in mind, and official Washington accepted his declaration to mean that the refusal of the miners to cancel their strike order would mean a fight to the bitter end.

PRINCE ENTERS THE UNITED STATES

Receives His First Welcome to Republic at Rouse's Point.

Rouse's Point, N.Y., Nov. 10.—The Prince of Wales entered the United States to-night and received his first welcome to the Republic at this little out-of-the-way New York town.

Officially he was greeted by Secretary of State Lansing with a be-medaled staff of admirals and generals in attendance, and the famous band of the 63rd United States Infantry, which played "God Save the King." Unofficially, he received a far more boisterous welcome from the 2,000 inhabitants of Rouse's Point who had waited patiently for hours in the bleak north wind to cheer the nation's guest.

Just before the train pulled out on its long run to Washington a man darted out of the crowd and shouted, "Will you give me the honor of shaking hands with you? I'm a Canadian, wounded and gassed at Vimy."

The Prince leaned over the rail and shook him heartily by the hand, and the train was off.

If you have a number of brood mares some of them should be rearing foals, and fall colts can be handled conveniently on a good many farms.

At 5.30 Lord and Lady Jellicoe went ashore, and met Lieut.-Governor and Lady Bernard, with whom they drove to Government House for tea.

COMMONS PASSES AMENDMENTS TO CANADA TEMPERANCE ACT

Dominion to Hold Referendum If Any Province Requests That Importation of Liquor Into That Province Be Prohibited.

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—The outstanding results of Saturday's sitting of the House of Commons were the passage of the Government's two bills dealing with the subject of prohibition and the acceptance of the Senate's amendments to the bill authorizing the Government to acquire control of the Grand Trunk Railway system. The more important of the two prohibition measures, that to amend the Canada Temperance Act, was not reached until the evening, and was the last item of business discussed. It excited a rather lively debate, and was amended in some respects before it was read a third time. The bill in its original form provided machinery whereby a province might prevent the manufacture of liquor within its territory, and importation from other provinces. The legislation provided that a Provincial Legislature, by resolution, might petition the Dominion
