Four Boxes of Milburn's Heart and

Nerve Pills Effected a Complete Cure.

For froublet such as Palpitation of the Heart, Sieeplessness, Nervousness, Raint or Dizzy Spells, Shortness of Breath, Starting in the Sleep; Cold, Clammy Hands or Feet, Brain Fag, etc., we would strongly advise the early use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Fills, as this remedy, taken in time, has been the means of awing many a life, and restoring strength to those who were weak, nervous, health-shattered invalids.

Mrs. E. Kilmer, Humberstone, Out, writes:—"Allow me to tell you of the great results I have derived from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Fills. For four years I suffered intense pain around the heart, and was very dizzy. After using four boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I was completely cured."

A NOTED HORSEMAN'S EXPERL

Mr. Antoine Wending, owner of Deveras, 2111-4, and proprietor of the Clifton House, Brockville, says no liniment compares with Nerviline for general use around the stable. For strains, sprains, swellings, internal pains and especially for affections of the whirl bone, Nerviline is anequalled. Mr. Wendling believes Nerviline is indispensible as a horse liniment; it has strength, penetrating power and works thoroughly. Every horse and stock owner should use Nerviline, Sold in large 25c. bottles.

It is sometimes said that that treaty was floated through on champagne. That statement is based on a casual remark in a letter from Lord Elgin's secretary, in which he said that champagne in the hands of a skilful diplomat was not with-out its uses.

The Oregon static two lots of hogs. One lot was 1 months old and the other mature. The best man wove his way in and out of the gay throng at the foot of the stairway. Bright colored confetti decorated the white shoulders of the women and the black coats of the men.

The atmosphere vibrated with music and the rustle of gowns. He walked across the deserted libra-ry and, drawing saide the curtains of a small den, stepped into semidark-

"I suppose circumstances also make that difficult to decide."

The best man felt his color rise. He could not see the girl's face distinctly, but he knew the mischfevous look that gleamed in her eyes. Of course it was no secret that Elsa and he had been girl and boy lovers, but the thrust piqued him. In fact, their few days' acquaintance had been a series of drawn battles, without malice, but not without keenness.

A certain New York judge has a habit which sometimes annoys mem-bers of the bar who appear before him, particularly young men, of talking to his associates on the bench while the lawyers are delivering their speeches, but however exasperated they may be the lawyers have not, as a rule, the boldness to complain, for they recognize the power of the court. An eminent lawyer of New York, however, set them an example. He was about to make the closing speech in a highly important case. Forty minutes had been allotted him for the purpose. He had scarcely uttered a dozen words when the judge wheeled round in his chair and began a discussion with his associate on the bench. The lawyer ceased speaking immediately, foided his arms and gazed steadily at the judges. A hush fell upon the court-room. The offending judge, noticing the stillness, turned and looked inquir-

The maid of honor leaned back on the cushions smiling. The best man's enthusiasm was new and curious.

Recognises Them by Neckties. There is a ticket taker in one of the Broadway theaters who occasionally exploits his memory in a rather curi-ous way. Generally he gives each man ous way. Generally he gives each man who goes out between the acts a return check, but occasionally he omits this and relies solely on his memory to recognize those who are entitled to reenter the theater. "No," replied the ticket taker, "I have a very poor memory for faces. I do not rely on their faces at all. Indeed, I seldom look at the men's faces. What I go by is their neckties. If you will watch the neckties you will observe that no two are exactly alike. They differ much more than the men's faces do, and they are easier to refaces do, and they are easier to remember. The Primate As a Chess Player The Archbishop of Canterbury is a skillful and, in some respects, a wonderful chess player. Once when on a visit to India he stayed with an official who had the superintendence of the laying of a new railway line, and in the daytime he made long tours with his host over the new route. On these occasion the two constantly played chess without either board or men. All the moves were made verbally, they never forgot a move or a point of the game, and each could tell at any moment what was the exact position of the imaginary men on the imaginary board. The Archbishop of Canterbury is

To speak kindly to employee is the all too short and easy way of "solving the servant problem" proposed by some amisble philanthropists. To Cecil Rhodes, it is clear, such preaching would have seemed foolishness. The Princess Radziwill, in her recent book, has this savage anecdote of him:

"One day some tourists of importance were visiting Groote Schnur, where they had been entertained by Mr. Rhodes; he took them himself over the house and grounds, and at last showed them one of Lobengula's sons, whom he employed as a workman on his estate. This led to a talk about the Matabele rebellion, and the visitor asked Mr. Rhodes in what year it had taken place. The Colossus thought for a moment, then calling to him the young native. "Look here," he said; 'what year did I kill your father?"
