WHY BUY STALLIONS

From obscure and untried men when you can purchase mange or scab. Take two ounces each of sulphur and nitrate of potash, mix together and give to each pig once daily in food for two weeks, one small teaspoonful. Rub the animals thoroughly with soft soap and at the end of two hours wash off with warm rain water. When dry rub the following ointment well into the skin: raw linseed oil eight ounces; turpentine, 2 ounces; sulphur sufficient to form an ointment. If necessary repeat the application in one week. Remove the pigs to clean quarters and give clean bedding. Change diet. Do not feed mill sweepings all the time. Their value depends upon the amount of actual grain in them.

MARE HAS INTERNAL TROUBLE.

I have a mare that is very bad in her water, she makes it very frequently and only a little at a time and when she is on the road she keeps turning her head from side to side, she strains a good deal when making water. She is in very good condition but her hair is rather dry.

Alta.

T. W. McG.

Ans.—The symptoms indicate vesical calculus—stone in the bladder—and if such is the case it would have to be removed by an operation, which, in the mare, is usually easily performed. The existence of a stone in the bladder, when the organ is empty, can easily be determined by examination. Would advise you, if possible, to have the animal examined and treated by a skilled veterinarian.

CHRONIC MAMMITIS.

Some time ago cow contracted garget. She practically lost one quarter for a while but is now giving small quantity of milk from it. Occasionally, however, blood and matter is given from said quarter, at which times it is hard and inflamed. How should it be treated?

Alta.

B. B. E.

Ans.—It is likely that the secretion of milk in the affected quarter will eventually cease. Would advise you to give the cow a purgative consisting of Epsom salts, one pound; gamboge, two drams, ground ginger, four drams; molasses one pint; dissolve all in one quart of hot water and give in drench. When the purgative has ceased to operate, give morning and evening, in mash, for two weeks, nitrate of potash, two drams. Paint the affected quarter of the udder twice a week with tincture of iodine.

PROBABLY INDIGESTION.

I have a four year old cow which calved last June and up to about a month ago gave abundance of milk, when the flow suddenly ceased until now she gives little more than a quart. She does not eat well and seems very restless, coat staring, and she frequently licks the earth though she has rock salt convenient. She has no cough and all functions seem normal. Have been giving linseed oil. Can you suggest a remedy?

Sask.

R. J. R. N.

Ans.—The cow seems to be suffering from some form of indigestion probably caused by the innutritive and indigestible nature of the food she has been compelled to eat, or by the swallowing of some foreign body which has lodged in some portion of the digestive track. If you have not very recently purged the cow with oil give the following in one dose: Epsom salts, 12 ounces; Barbadoes aloes, 2 ounces; ground ginger, half an ounce; molasses half pint; dissolve all in one quart of hot water. After purgative has operated give morning and evening in food or drench, for ten days, one of the following powders: powdered gentian, 4 ounces; nux vomica 1 ounce; bicarbonate of soda, 5 ounces. Mix and divide into twenty powders. Feed the cow three or four quarts of chopped oats and barley morning and evening and, if possible, a ration of roots, either turnips or mangels at noon.

Miscellaneous.

POISON IVY.

Turned some horses to grass where poison ivy abounded. In a short time all the white feet and white legs among the lot became sore, which healed with no white are all right.
