

HARDEN ON THE GERMAN PRESS

"We Have All Co-operated in the Dissemination of Nonsense," He Says.

With Liebknecht lying in jail for taking part in a peace meeting, and Maximilian Harden, German's greatest journalist, attacking the lying tongues of the Berlin Ministers, and the lying pages of the German press, one may ask where the cultured professors of logic in Germany are at the present time?

Harden, who was all for war and who woke up a few months ago to the fact that Germany had miscalculated the strength of her enemies, and was threatened with a Government persecution, in consequence, of so saying, comes out now with such an assault upon the Government, and the press as has not been known at any time in the history of modern Germany. Nothing that her bitterest enemy could write has such acridated bitterness and sarcasm as contained in the following from the pen of the fearless journalist:

"The liars in the press rendered themselves extremely ridiculous when, after the revolution in Ireland and the fall of Kuti-Amara, they solemnly declared that the end of England was near.

"When Lord Derby was organizing his recruiting plans we were assured by our daily and weekly journals that no Englishman would volunteer for the war, and when subsequently obligatory military service was introduced in England, our pontiffs shouted themselves hoarse, declaring such a step was of no importance whatever in view of the fact that England already had an army of five millions, and that no other physically fit man could be found in the whole United Kingdom.

All Helped to Lie

"We have all co-operated in this dissemination of nonsense. Each of us has helped in the fabrication of some lie or another, such as 'the resignation of M. Poincaré,' 'the revolution in India,' 'the assassination of the Czar,' 'the King of Italy on his knees before Signor Giolitti,' 'Grey hangs himself in the Foreign Office,' and so forth.

"All journals containing such lies as these must be relegated to a specially reserved department in the national war museum. To bring them forth again to the light of day would be to play havoc with the very life of the nation.

CON. T. KENNEDY SHOWS

Bigger, better, grander than ever, the wonderful Con T. Kennedy shows which are enjoying excellent business this year, will be in this city the week of Aug. 14th. Being a firm believer in the policy that the amusement seeking public are excellent judges, and know just what they want, Mr. Kennedy this season has surrounded himself with many novel and new features, which are bound to please. The diversified line of attractions includes everything from art poses to excellent singing, and from clever dancing to thrilling and exciting contests between man and beast. Nothing that would in any way appeal to the most critical patron has been overlooked, and no expense has been spared to make them the best ever carried by a travelling company. Everywhere the press has praised the Kennedy company as a clean show, presented in an inviting manner on a strictly business basis.

Among the feature attractions with the Kennedy shows this season are the Autodrome, Miracle, Russian Theatre, Garden of Allah, Essie Fay's Society Horse Show, Four Twins, Coney Island Slide Show, Monkey Speedway, Doc Turner's Wonders, The Submarine, Rag Time Village, The Whip, Ferris Wheel and Carrousel.

Never before has anything so pre-tentious been attempted in the carnival world, and the Kennedy shows are vastly superior to any other show of this kind now on the road. It is the last word in carnivalism, and all the result of the wonderful genius of the man whose name it bears. The shows will be located corner Elgin and Clarence streets.

The official French statement of Wednesday afternoon said a French aviator, flying 217 miles between 8.30 p.m. and 11.05 p.m., dropped 330 pounds of explosives on the powder factory at Rottwell, causing two extensive fires and several explosions.

MILITARISM IS IN THE BALANCE

That he must resist by every possible means the return of Venizelos to power and all that return entails. After all, the king has put himself in the position of a leader of a political party, and if he loses he may find that the sole consistent course to follow is that incumbent on a political leader who has lost—retire to private life."

Outwardly there is nothing stable in Greece to justify this statement. The new Greek Cabinet under Premier Zaimis has loyally carried out the demands laid down in the Entente ultimatum of June 21. Complete general demobilization has been ordered. The sessions of the Boule have been suspended. New elections have been set. Col. Palamiras, the Trepof of Greece, has even placed as chief of police to a devoted Venizelist, Col. Zymbrakakis. The effective, albeit undeclared martial law that has held all Hellas in leash for seven months has ceased to appear in silent military patrols tramping the streets day and night with bayonets fixed.

Royalists Active

Yet no astute observer in Greece believes that all of this indicates any real acquiescence in the terms imposed by the Entente ultimatum. The royalists who for fifteen months, and who have held the Greek constitution in suspension while constructing the foundations of a more strictly monarchical state, show no signs of abandoning their purpose.

The anti-Venizelist newspapers are no less bitterly abusive of the Allies than before. A large proportion of the army officers, as strong as ever in their devotion to the crown, criticize the Allies and praise the Germans quite as openly as ever they did. And the shipowners, the exporters, the politicians, who saw in the regime of the Allies and praise the Germans of untold wealth while they have seemingly bowed to the inevitable, are as busily scheming as ever to regain their lost opportunity.

The "Nationalist" party, as the new coalition against Venizelos is termed, has gone before the people with the slogan: "Venizelos means dragging Greece into war. Do you want war?" On this basis they feel they have a good chance of victory.

As one of the nationalist leaders put it: "The old men who stay at home will vote for war, because they do not have to fight. But the young men who have just come back from almost a year of being mobilized will vote against war, because they have had enough war. As there are more young men than old, we shall win."

Trouble Ahead

But should the "Nationalists" lose their plan of action is all real. They claim that the sovereign is empowered by the constitution to set aside the verdict of the people for Venizelos, since he appoints and dismisses his ministers, and the verdict of the people for war, since it is the king who declares war."

Should Constantine I. adopt this point of view after the elections, stirring events are prophesied. The Entente powers are determined. If the sovereign makes a stand against them then Constantine I. may also be Constantine the last. The situation is the more interesting in that there is nothing in his previous career to indicate that this prospect will in the least influence King Constantine if he believes it his duty to make a stand against the Entente powers for the prerogatives of the crown.

The Joy of a Vacation may be turned to the sorrow that comes from indigestion. The battle with hotel menus is a losing one for the man with a weak stomach. Happy is the man who listens to the call of the wild—who goes fishing, hunting and canoeing—who takes with him Triscuit, the Shredded Whole Wheat wafer. Triscuit is made of the whole wheat, steam-cooked, shredded and baked. A tasty Summer snack, supplying the greatest amount of nutriment in smallest bulk. Delicious with butter, soft cheese or marmalades.

PERCY MARTIN, AN INDIAN, WAS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF CAUSING THE DEATH OF MR. J. POWLESS

Appeared in the Police Court This Morning, Pleaded "Not Guilty" and Was Remanded For a Week—Tragedy Occurred at Garden Party Held at Residence of Mr. Martin's Uncle

In the police court this morning, Percy Martin, an Indian resident of the Reserve, pleaded before F. J. Caulbeck, J.P., not guilty to the charge preferred against him, that of unlawfully killing or causing the death of James Powless, who passed away in the hospital yesterday as a result of injuries sustained at a garden party on the Sour Springs road on Tuesday night last, at the residence of Mr. William Loft, who is the accused man's uncle.

The affair is believed to have been a brawl of some sort, as definite information has not yet been obtained upon the subject, and in the course of it the Powless was struck and badly cut about the head, probably by a club or some such weapon. From his injuries he did not recover, remaining in a state of coma until yesterday noon, when he passed away at the hospital here. As far as is known there was no cause for the brawl outside of a little jostling which had occurred some time before and in which Martin and Powless were not known to be mixed.

Rumors which gained some prevalence about the city, pointed to an Indian named Percy Martin, as the one who had struck the blows resulting in Powless' death, and Constable Taylor and Detective Chalmers set to work upon the case accordingly. About 6.30 by the city time, last evening, Martin was arrested by Constable Taylor, and held in connection with the case. Apparently unaware that suspicion was directed toward him, he had made no effort to escape or to flee the neighborhood engaged in gardening for a man named Elliott, on a farm only a short distance from the spot where the fight occurred two

ONE CANADIAN OFFICER IN SMALL RAID

Captain Russell and Lieut. Carling, approached the German trenches, supported by a covering party under Lieut. Boa. For ten minutes a lively exchange of bombs took place and then a party of about twenty-five Germans came out in an attempt to cut off our patrol. Lieut. Boa and his men immediately attacked with bombs, driving the enemy back and inflicting casualties estimated at 15. On the same night a patrol of a Canadian regiment under Lieut. Woods and Lieut. Bole crept through a double line of wire entanglements, surrounding an enemy post. A charge of gas cotton was placed beneath the parapet. The lighting the fuse alarmed the garrison, who threw a number of bombs before the explosion occurred. Our party had managed to withdraw to a distance and during the interval forty bombs were thrown by the garrison of the post. Afterwards no bombs were thrown. It is probable that the whole garrison was destroyed.

Mine Explosions

Two camouflages were fired by our miners in front of the trenches held by a Toronto battalion. A very deep crater resulted. The position was at once occupied and in spite of a heavy hostile fire a wiring party, under Lieut. Scott quickly erected entanglements. An attempt by the Germans to come across after the explosion was checked by our machine gun fire. The enemy exploded a camouflaged mine on the front of a cavalry battalion, but only succeeded in hanging his own lines. He also fired a small mine under the lip of a large new crater held by our troops but caused practically no damage.
