NOTICE When a newspaper offers its advertising space at a fixed figure, it is a practical admission of "no circulation." THE KLONDIKE NUGGET asks a good figure for its space and in justification thereof guarantees to its advertisers a good circulation five times that of any other paper published between Juneau and the North Pole.

SHOULD BE REPRESENTED. No organized effort has as yet been made to secure an exhibit of the resources of the Klondike at the Paris exhibition.

OPERATORS of steamboat lines on the Yukon should not forget that the travelling public demand just as good fare between Dawson and Bennett or St. Michaels, as upon the steamers plying on the coast between Seattle and Skagway.

THE UNITED STATES, as a whole, is enjoying a greater measure of prosperity at the present time than at any previous period since 1891. In all the great financial centers money is plentiful and easier to secure than for years.

SENATOR MATT QUAY, of Pennsylvania, has been acquitted of the charge of conspiring to use state funds for his own personal benefit.

THERE will be rejoicing on the outside when it is known that the outlook for typhoid is not nearly so bad as has been anticipated.

TO CORRECT a wrong impression which seems to have gone abroad, it may be well to inform the public that Goddard, the murderer of James Prater, has never been connected with the NUGGET office in any capacity whatever.

WORK is progressing rapidly upon the new telegraph line between Bennett and Dawson. There is already a line in operation between the former place and Skagway.

A NEW fraternal society has been organized in Skagway, the intention being to include in its membership citizens of Alaska and the Yukon Territory.

There will be no great rush of immigration to the Klondike this summer, as happened last year. The reports of the thousands who went out a year ago after selling their outfits have had a tendency to discourage anything in the nature of a stampede to this country.

It is quite probable, however, that a considerable tourist travel will set in from the States as soon as the falls are laid connecting Bennett lake with Skagway.

Excursion companies are already investigating the field to ascertain what the facilities are for handling large business with the intention of organizing parties to visit Dawson, coming in via Skagway and returning via St. Michaels. Undoubtedly the Yukon river, in the 2600 miles of its length, possesses scenic attractions which far excel those of more famed routes of tourist travel.
