The coroner at Brockville was notified who with a constable proceeded to Bell's Crossing on the afternoon train where an inquest was held. The leceased was in Brockville on Tuesday settling up some business in regard to a recent quarrel which lately occurred with a neighbor, and, it is said he was badly worked up over the affair. The neighbors had bard work to persuade Peer that the case held against him was settled but he had on his mind that he had to go to penitentiary thinking so much over the matter his mind became deranged which resulted in his doing the rash act. The deceased leaves a wife and two small children besides one brother and six sisters to mourn their loss. The funeral took place on Friday last at ten a.m.
