THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., OCT. 16, 1891.

The weather thus far this season has certainly been beyond that of recent years. The ornamental tree on our streets are yet clothed in their green apparel, while frequently they are bare of leaves by this time. The frosts of this week were the first of any account this season.

We would again ask the aid of our friends and patrons, both in Wolfville and throughout the county, in collecting matters of news for the ACADIAN. We want good, live news items from all parts of the county. In every town and village there are matters occurring each week that would be of interest, and all that is wanted is some one to gather them up and send them in. We already have many kind friends, who are giving a valuable assistance in this way; but still there are many localities that we do not hear from. Let each part of the county be heard from through the press, and remember that you are doing good to your neighborhood as well as the paper by letting the outside world know what is transpiring there. Keep your town or village before the public, and it is bound to go ahead.

The advisability of naming the streets of Wolfville has often been referred to in the columns of ACADIAN, both editorially and by correspondents. This matter is one of the greatest importance, and would prevent a great amount of confusion and inconvenience. In the present order of things barely two persons use the same title in designating the different streets, and consequently much confusion prevails. In our work of reporting news items we find it very inconvenient to locate the places, and often we are at a loss as to the manner in which we are to make our readers understand us. We trust that some action will be taken at once. As that is required is that a public meeting be called and a committee appointed, who shall make a list of suitable names, and report at another meeting, when the naming can be done. Will not some of our influential citizens make a move in the matter?

Our fire company is now domiciled in their new rooms, which are well fitted up and excellently suited to the requirements of the company. Quite a large number, embracing many of the most enterprising and best men of the town, are enrolled on the books of the company, and when they get fully down to work we have no doubt but that the "Wolfville Fire Brigade" will be a most useful organization. This is now about the only public institution in the possession of the town, and we hope to see our people taking the interest in it that they should. The members are now trying to raise money to fit up a gymnasium in connection, and are also planning to have their meeting room furnished in a manner reflecting credit on the town. This will require quite an amount of money, and as yet the company has very little at its disposal. We would suggest that any of the ladies of Wolfville, who have a few nice pictures to spare, donate them to the company to beautify their room. We feel sure that anything of this kind would be much appreciated by the company, although the announcement is not made by the request of the members.

How many Canadians are acquainted with the names of the men who make their newspapers? And yet there is no more important and no more earnest and influential body of men in the Dominion. Walter Blackburn Harte, who served a long apprenticeship on the press of this country, will contribute an article, "The Journal and Journalists of Canada," to the New England Magazine for December. It will contain portraits of all the men who have made, and are making their mark in Canadian journalism. There will be no politics in the article, and Conservatives, Liberals and Independents alike should read it. It is the first time in the history of American periodical literature that an attempt has been made to give an adequate account of Canadian journalism. Mr. Harte is admitted even by those who disapprove of his attitude in politics, to be, at least, a perfectly candid writer, and in this article, merely the abilities of the journalists treated of have been considered; friends and opponents have been judged as men, and from a literary standpoint only, without the least reference to their political affiliations. The leading French Canadian journalists are included with their English counterparts, and the article is prefaced with an interesting review of the methods of Canadian journalism. It is an article which should interest a very wide circle outside of journalism, for all the world is curious about the mysterious "we," who discuss the affairs of the nation and the world in every morning's newspaper.

Merry Wedding Bells.

The Baptist church, of this town, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday afternoon, when one of Wolfville's most popular young ladies, Miss Ella M. daughter of the late J. G. Patiquin, was united in marriage to Mr. Loran F. Blenkhorn, of Canning. The day was one of the most beautiful of the season, foreshadowing, we trust, a happy life for the young couple. Under the loving hands of kind friends at the church had been tastefully decorated with beautiful flowers and evergreen arches, and was filled by a large assembly of acquaintance, and friends as the hour appointed drew near—Messrs J. E. Hales and A. C. Johnson gracefully acting as ushers. At 4 o'clock the groom entered the church, accompanied by Mr. John W. Jones, and took his place under a handsome floral umbrella which had been arranged for the purpose—illustrating, we presume, the wish that the happy couple should be sheltered from the storms and misfortunes of life. Shortly after the bride appeared leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. C. A. Patiquin. She was tastefully dressed in a travelling costume of gray with hat to match, and was attended by Miss Bliss Franklin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Higgins, the organ, under the skillful manipulation of Mr. H. N. Shaw, furnishing sweet and appropriate music. After congratulations the bridal party drove to the depot, where amid showers of rice and good wishes the newly married couple embarked on the express for Halifax, en route for a short tour through the eastern part of the Province, after which they will live at Summers, where Mr. Blenkhorn is engaged in business. The presents were pretty and numerous, testifying to the esteem in which the bride is held. The ACADIAN extends congratulations, and best wishes for a long, happy and prosperous life.

Supreme Court.

Supreme Court opened at Kentville on Tuesday, 13th October, at ten o'clock, Mr. Justice Weatherbe presiding. Beside the legal gentlemen of Kentville there were present, E. S. Crawley, of Wolfville, and H. A. Lovett, of Truro. There were seven cases entered for trial but three of them had been settled or continued to another term. The grand and petit juries were present, but as the grand jury did not find a true bill in only jury case, they were both dismissed before noon. The case of the Queen versus Turner was first called. This was an action for injuries done to a slave in the dam at the defendant's mill, on the Black River. It was an appeal from the magistrate's court where judgment was given for the Crown. The judge confirmed the decree of the court below. The next case was Woodworth et al. against Thomas et al., an action for trespass. A number of witnesses were examined and the trial was not concluded till Wednesday morning. Judgment was reserved. The last case was Amburge versus Colman, for attaching a horse for rent. A motion was made by the defendant's counsel for a continuance on the ground that a material witness was absent through sickness, but it was overruled. After trial the court gave five dollars damages for the plaintiff. A few motions were then made and the Court adjourned, at half past one on Wednesday.

Billtown Jottings.

A handsome new organ has been lately procured by "Lake" Division, which will add much to the enjoyment of their meetings. The Division is making fine preparations for holding an "apron and necktie sociable" next Thursday evening, at their hall. Mr. Woodworth has put a machine for threshing in his mill this summer and has been doing a rushing business. His mill has now become an established industry in the place, and is a great convenience to the people of this locality. Business around the corner now has a brighter look than for some time back. The carpenter and paint shops are being occupied and all are hopeful of an increased activity. Rev. Mr. Vincent is now back and is performing his duties as pastor of the church with acceptance of the people. He has been ordained during his absence. On Sunday, October 4th, he administered baptism to two candidates at the lake. Our school this winter is to be under the control of Mr. Vincent Robinson, who has the reputation of being a good teacher, and we hope to see the school make good progress under his guidance. A mission band has been organized here in connection with the church. Considerable interest is manifested in it, and we trust that good work may be done by the organization.

Berwick Gleanings.

Of the High School pupils who attended the July examinations, two succeeded in obtaining a grade B, ten grade C, and four grade D, license. Mr. L. K. Bennett, of Windsor, is moving to Berwick this week, having bought the house and business lately owned by the Rev. D. O. Parker. Three weddings on in Berwick on Wednesday last and rumors of similar happy events in the near future. It is expected that a prominent citizen of Wolfville will lead one of our fair maidens to the altar at no distant day. A very interesting tawell service in connection with the departure of the Rev. L. D. Moore and wife to the Foreign Mission field, was held in the Baptist church on Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Moore left on Saturday for Halifax, and sailed on Monday per S. S. Cassian for London en route for India, the scene of their future work.

A Calamity Howler.

Prophets of evil are not unknown in this Province. Some of them are disappointed office-seekers, others are defeated candidates, and a third portion is composed of political dyspeptics who do not want to see any one else enjoy it. Now and then one of these prophets takes his flight across the border, but change of flag has little effect in his utterance. He flaps about the same position in the republic as he did at home. He is a chronic croaker, and of no use in the land of his adoption. A recent writer in an American exchange thus illustrates what live, progressive people think of the Canadian croaker: "Before we knock the barrel out from under you," said the leader of the band of Arizona regulators, "we'll give you a chance to say a few words."

"What's the use?" replied the man with the rope round his neck. "You wouldn't listen to me."

"We'll listen for just five minutes," rejoined the chief, pulling out his watch. "If you want to shoot off your mouth. If not, up you go."

The condemned wretch looked with dogged, sullen hate at the crowd before him.

"It won't do any good that I know of," he said, "for me to make any remarks, and it won't help me any, I reckon, to kick against these proceedings. It's nothing more than I expected, anyhow. I'm used to being knocked around, and I'm used to seeing everybody else knocked around. Your turn will come some day. You ain't a bit better than I am as fast as it can go. Been going to the devil for years and years. There ain't a chance for a man to amount to anything here, and it's not worth while for him to try. Every man's doing what he can to down every other man, and it doesn't make much difference which comes out on top. The fellows that get on top generally stay there, and the poor fellows that are under can squirm and squirm and it won't do them any good. They have got to stay there and —"

"Fellers," said the leader of the band, much mortified, "we've made a mistake. We've got one of those darned calamity howlers from Canada. He ain't worth hanging!"

And they walked away and left him stand on the barrel.

Methodists in Council.

Bishop Hunt, of Washington, delivered the address of welcome to the delegates at the second ecumenical conference in that city on Wednesday last. He addressed himself in order here named to the delegates from the southern and northern states, Canada, the West Indies, Ireland, Wales, Scotland, England, France, Germany and Australia. To the Canadian delegates he said: "Brethren from Canada, we welcome you with the true spirit of Christian reciprocity. We rejoice in the union of the Methodists 'which you have effected, and your heroic efforts to build up your great 'educational system.' It is at a conference of this kind that the strength of the Methodist churches of the world may be comprehended. Their combined membership has been estimated at more than five and twenty millions of people, and the delegates now at Washington number among them some of the greatest thinkers and teachers of aggressive Christianity. Methodism is the youngest of the religious denominations. The possibilities that await its future, cannot be estimated while it is yet in its youth; but, when we remember that even now it has made tremendous strides toward the goal of unity, we cannot doubt its wisdom of purpose, nor its dominating influence in the furtherance of common Christian fellowship. It is setting a wholesome example by its own tendency towards union, not only in particular countries, but in the holding of ecumenical conferences, such as the one, now in session at Washington.

Wealth of Queen Victoria.

An act was recently passed enabling Queen to make a will, as was not the possessor of any property, and the impression prevails that she has made large savings. This is not the case, writes Henry Labouchere in the October Forum. Although she has for many years lived in retirement, her expenditure has not materially decreased, for the mise en scene of grandeur is still kept up. She has expended considerably sums upon the purchase of the estates of Osborne and Balmoral, and their maintenance falls on her. She has too, made considerable monetary presents to her daughters on their marriages, so that, although she inherited $250,000 from a silly person who left this amount, her private fortune is comparatively small. Two years ago Lord Salisbury's government submitted to parliament a proposal to endow her grandchildren. A committee of the house of commons was appointed to consider this demand, when it was decided that provisions ought only to be made for the children of the Prince of Wales. The committee was informed, under a pledge of secrecy, of the total value of her majesty's investments. I cannot, of course, violate this pledge, but I do not think that I am breaking confidence in saying that the amount was surprisingly small.

The firm of Robt & Sons, Amherst, founders, is to be turned into the Robt engineering company, capital quarter of a million, in hundred dollar shares. The manufacture of electrical appliances will be added to their business.

New Discovery.

The telephone is one of the "modern conveniences" which we would find very inconvenient to do without after having known its usefulness, and it is with pleasure we read in an English paper that it is about to have a new application that of forestalling storms. A new discovery has been made as to one of the properties of transmitting sound. By placing two iron bars at seven or eight metres distant from each other, and then putting them in communication on one side by a copper wire covered with rubber, and on the other side with a telephone, a storm can be said to be predicted at least twelve hours ahead through a dead sound heard in the receiver. According to the storm advances the sound resembles the beating of hail stones against the windows. Every flash of lightning, and of course every clap of thunder, that accompanies the storm produces a shock similar to that of a storm cast between the diaphragm and the instrument. This if it can be depended upon, would prove of great use in telling the course of a storm, and give time for preparation. — Critic.
